Two Much Fruit. To give an idea of the extent of fruit tree planting in this section of the State, we mention the fact that the representative of one single nursery establishment of our acquaintance dollars worth of fruit trees, evergreens and flowering shrubs. Some croakers say "we'll be over run with fruit directly, and it will be a drug on our hands." Who is there, now grown who cannot look back and see in his native State when he was a boy, when apples were given away for gathering, and watch along as population increased and additional orchards were planted, and thousands of trees additionally grown in the same neighborhood, that the price of fruit kept going up, until to-day in that same neighborhood fruit is worth as much as it is here. Don't be afraid of planting or growing too much good fruit. In addition to the natural increase of population, the taste and desire for fruit is greater every year, and the best evidence is ern Spy, Cooper, Gravenstein, Maid- Havana, Ill. the steady and even advancing price for good fruit. The Journal of Horticulture, in speaking on this subject, says: "The quantity of strawberries raised around Boston is variously estimated at from ten to twenty times as many as were grown twenty years ago, yet the price has advanced from fifty to one hundred per cent." And so it may be said of all other varieties of fruits.

not at my present stage of life were it not for two remona which seem sufficient. First, I know the Whiter Grope will meet the prejudices widespread throughout the country, camed by the worthlessness in most localities of many of its predecessors. See end, because I can say from personal observation that the Weiler is the best variety I have had an knowledge of, and I think I have cultivated nearly all that have been recommended, discarding them all and failing back upon the Concord and Hartfor Prolific as vineyard varieties. I am interested in knowing that the fruit of the Finite grows large each year as the vine grows older, being last year fully one-third larger than it was two years ago. I grows well; sats fruit well. I have seen it ripe several times before Hartford, and I have never seen any milidew on its fruit or on its large and thick, but Delaware alanged follage. The flavor of the fruit, think superior to any other, variety. You say it your circular it is a seedling of the Delaware and Disna; I think the character of each of these varieties is quite distinguishable in the Wolfer, particularly that of the Delaware. I also think it would make a wine of high character. I have visited it annually since it first bore, aix years ago, three time in Ulster Co., N. Y., in a low valley, where the Isabella seldom ripesas, and each time it was fully rip in August. I have seen it each of the three past sea mass in Poughkeepsie, ripening at the same time excepting last year, when the constant rains prevented all variedes from maturing at their usual time, but it perfected its fruit by the middle of September.
