There is to be a trotting match in Nebraska City on the 10th of October, for a purse of $1000. Three fast horses will compete for the purse.

The Republicans of Jefferson and Gage Counties, hold a joint convention at Beatrice on the 4th of October, to nominate a Representative in place of the Hon. Nathan Blakey resigned.

Many friends from Richardson and Johnson Counties called upon us this week. Among the number was the Hon. E. E. Cunningham, of Richardson, and W. H. Dancy, Alex. Bivens and C. Woodley, of Johnson.

We made the acquaintance last week of E. A. Fulton, the nominee for Senator for the Third District. He has the appearance of a gentleman and a scholar of refined taste and unexceptionable habits. He is in the practice of law at Falls City.

The Agricultural Department have information from which they deduce the fact that the corn crop in the United States this year is short one hundred and fifty million bushels. If this be true corn will rule higher before another harvest.

Robert Teare showed us a large seedling pear last Monday morning, measuring eleven inches around. It is now on exhibition at the State Fair. It is the largest specimen pear we ever saw. It grew on a tree but three years old.

The friends of A. P. Cogswell, presented his name for Senator at our last Convention, without any expectation on his part that anything of the kind was thought of. This much is due to him to mention, as he made no effort to secure the nomination.

The cornerstone of the M. E. Church at Blue Spring will be laid with the accustomed ceremonies October 7th, at 11 A. M. The Presiding Elder, T. B. Lemon, officiating, assisted by Revs. W. A. Presson, G. A. Alexander and G. W. Elwood. All are cordially invited to attend by the pastor, H. P. Mann.

The London people have sent in a very reasonable request, which should by all means be conceded to them, they want John W. Wait elected as Justice of the Peace, and James Robinson as Constable. Two very good farmers. The wants of the neighborhood requires that these officers be located at London, and we venture that there will not be the least opposition to their wishes in this respect.

John Bennett shipped from Brownville to St. Louis sixty hogs which weighed 18,000, and sold for 10 cents per pound gross in St. Louis, or which is the same thing as nine cents in Brownville - total, $1,630. This is the correct price for selling corn, and every farmer should investigate the matter, and when they do so we believe they will feed more cattle and hogs, and sell less corn in theater, and make more money.

The first frost of the season occurred on last Sunday night. It was light - just sufficient to nip the blade without effecting the stalk. It could do no harm in this latitude, as corn was inside barn's way. Grass has been checked. Farmers will have to finish hay before frost. The weather has thus far been wet and unfavorable. Much hay has been cut and spoiled before it could be secured. Farm work in this department has been rendered late for this reason.

We have just received the Omaha Republican Annual for 1870. The Republican is issued daily, tri-weekly and weekly. It is now the very best daily exchange we receive, and we are pleased to learn that several copies are now taken in this city. It arrives here the same day printed, about 8 o'clock. Our patrons who desire a daily paper, should by all means send for the Daily Republican. There may be other dailies published in Omaha, if so we are not "exchangably" advised of the names or proprietors.

The Democratic County Ticket for Nebraska County was sent in for publication just after the matter for this issue was all on the hook. It will appear in our next - not, however, until after the Republicans who have been placed thereon, about their knowledge or consent, shall have time to protest against this use of their names. We cannot be made a party to this wantonly damage any man's character, and more especially those of our friends. If any Republican craves the stigma and damaging notoriety to be received by consorting with Democrats, the chance is freely offered, at cheap rates. They only want the paying positions, while those without profit holding Republicans can take if they will. Defeat, dishonor and disgrace are sure to follow in the footsteps of those, if any there be, who give their names to the empty honors of untenable positions.

We throw to the breeze the strongest county ticket this week, ever set afloat in Nebraska County. There is not an objectionable man on the ticket. There is not a man on the ticket but that expects to perform the duties of the office, when elected, personally. There was a full delegation present at the County Convention from each precinct, of the best men in the county. All were desirous of filling each position with the best men, and to that end worked manfully, earnestly, understandingly. The convention passed off without a murmur of unfairness, or a particle of illfeeling. Each candidate came forward with his name was announced, and pledged himself to abide the action of the convention, whether he be the nominee or not.

For many of the offices there could be but little choice between several of the candidates. In fact, there were none before the convention but that could fill the position they sought for with credit to themselves and profit to the people.

Now that the nominees are before us, it remains for each individual Republican to support them and to work earnestly for their election. They represent the Republican element of the party, the patronage which they will control when elected will go to those who are working in the same cause.

Now, if Republican principles and their policy are correct, let us see them carried out in the election of these candidates. No one wishes to perpetuate a wrong idea, which they surely will do if one of these candidates should be defeated.

It was right to put down the rebellion, to suppress insurrection, to perpetuate this Government - then it surely must be right to support those men for office who believe in exacting the letter of the law in this direction.

Let every Republican do his duty, and then Nebraska county will retain the enviable title she so proudly wears, of being the banner Republican county of the State; but let her waver at this election. Let us lose but one of our present nominees at the polls at this coming election, and we lose the prestige now accorded to us. We need the backing that a straight and full Republican vote will give us.

The leading men of the county are frequently placed in positions of society, and in the State where a strong majority will give them weight which in many instances is largely beneficial to the interests of our county.

For the pride you have in your public men; for the deep interest you have in the triumph of Republicans; for the future good of Nebraska county; for your individual interests, we plead that you work earnestly for the success of the whole ticket from this time till sunset of Tuesday, October 12th.

We present our readers this week with the Johnson County Republican Ticket. We are personally acquainted with most of the nominees, and believe them to be gentlemen, well capable of executing in a satisfactory manner the trusts about to be imposed in their keeping for the years 1870-71. As long as Republicans nominate good and honest men for office from among the people, just so long may they expect to be continued in power. This Johnson County has done. Men of temperate habits, prudent judgment, of honest purpose, are safe in any position in life. So thinks Johnson County, and so think we all.

The Republicans of Gage County have nominated the following county ticket: For County Commissioner, S. M. Hazen; for Probate Judge, C. M. Pease; for Sheriff, Daniel Freeman; for Coroner, S. P. Chandler; for Treasurer, E. P. Neb; for County Clerk, D. E. Marsh; for Surveyor, Alfred Gale; for Assessor, S. E. Tibbets; for County Superintendent, L. P. Filley.

GREAT FLOOD ON THE LITTLE BLUE.

Four Flouring Mills Swept Away - Hogs, Cattle and Sheep Drowned - Wheat and Hay Stacks Carried off. The Little Blue published at Jenkins' Mills, Jefferson County, has just been received, containing the particulars of the great flood that visited the Blue river country three weeks ago, mere rumors of which only have reached us up to this time. We transfer the Little Blue's account in part to our columns.

"Friday evening, Sept. 3d, this vicinity was visited by the heaviest rain of the season. The rain commenced falling about 7 p. m., and came down in torrents all night, deluging the earth with water.

It rained more or less all day Saturday, but the river did not rise but little. Sunday morning, the water commenced raising about 9 a. m. W. R. Sr., and S. F. Jenkins, came down the river, and reported the bottom covered with water, and that it was coming down in rolls. We had to wait a few moments to see it coming down in a body about four feet high, and sweeping everything before it. Every man on the ground plunged into the water to save the lumber lying about the Mill, but it was all of no avail - almost everything was carried away, and the water stood five feet higher than it was ever before known.

Wheat stacks were swept past like lightning. Haystacks were torn and scattered over the waters. Houses that were supposed to be high and dry were covered with water, not buildings were carried away, but their contents, men, women and children, were made their escape. Cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry were drowned. In fact, everything either drowned or carried away. Crops on nearly all the tributaries of the Little Blue were destroyed. Rose creek was swept clean of everything. Watt's Flouring Mill on that creek was carried off, and a total loss. We have not learned its estimated value, but its loss to that section is great.

The town of Freeport on the opposite side of the river from this place, was covered with water to the depth of eight and ten feet. The wagons, buggies, harness, haystacks, and in fact everything might be seen wending their way to St. Louis-ward. Mr. Jas. Frzier's loss cannot be less than $100, while the loss to the other heavy losers. We have not been able to ascertain the amount.

We cannot give the loss of all, as it is impossible for us to get about it, as we will only give a few of the heaviest. D. C. Jenkins lost his entire crop; estimated at least $1000. His loss at the mill in damage done to the dam, levee and machinery is at the least $5000, while the loss to the mill is no calculation, $5000. The levee high that it covered Front street from end to end, but did not get into any of the houses in front of the mill. It washed the street out eight feet deep. This was the only one of the kind done any damage. The levee on the south side of the river is gone, and a channel cut through from above the dam that will cost $500 or $1000 to repair.

The school house on the bottom above town, standing, as we supposed five feet above high water mark, was half covered with water. The Little Blue office was completely surrounded by water, and we are to the conclusion that if the water rose much higher, we would have to disperse with this number of our paper, but no damage was done to the office. The losses of property within five miles of this place is estimated at $75,000 and the loss in this vicinity is light, compared with some others.

This flood has been to this new country a great damage. Practically everything has been raised, more than could be consumed but it has been swept away, and the farmer to-day looks on empty fields and granaries. We feel soothed that we do not over-estimate the losses on the Little Blue and its tributaries, when we put it at $1,000,000.

As near as we can ascertain from our own figures and those made by others, there was eleven and three quarter inches of water fell during last Friday night. It seemed to us that the streams operating in this country were ceaseless stream of water down upon the earth for nearly sixteen hours. Streams that were never known to have more than a foot of water in them, had ten to twelve feet, and water could almost be seen standing on the hill-sides.

Since the above was put in type, we are informed that Weisel's mill, and dam at Merion, in this county, are both gone. We have not yet learned the damage a gentleman in from Waterville tells us that the Railroad Bridge across the Blue at Merion, was carried washed away. The bridge said to be sixty feet above high water mark.

There is no property left, we are informed, on Rose creek. The creek bed is a great distance from the grain on it of any stream in Southern Nebraska, or Northern Kansas.

Noon - No news from above yet. No travel or down the river. We learn to-day from farmers who have been to work among the stacks of wheat not washed away, that it is all spoiled, owing to the water working upward through the grain.

Mr. John Mitchell, just in from above, reports Mark's Flouring Mill, on Rose creek, gone. This takes the last Flouring Mill out of the country, and leaves the Des Moines Flouring Mill as the only one left.

Parties just in from Rose creek say that a number of spans of horses were drowned Saturday night, and that the water stood by actual measurement 30 feet deep. Rose creek is a small stream and it was never before, since its settlement by white men, known, in the biggest storms, to have risen more than ten feet.
