man, should she not receive the same compensation?" To this question we answer unequivocally yes! When the price of any given labor is fixed by day, week, month, year or piece, we care not who performs it, be it man, woman or child, in justice the same pay should be given for the same labor. We "caught this idea" when a boy fifteen or sixteen years of age, working side by side with a "grown man" and receiving but twenty-five cents per day, while he received seventyfive cents. At a latter day when an apprentice in a printing office, the "idea" was still more "forcibly impressed upon our mind," by the "Foreman" paying us but ten cents per thousands ems for "over-work," while "jours" were receiving twentyfive cents per thousand, simply because, forsooth, "apprentice work" Brownville.
