HARPER'S BAZAR. a supplement, containing numerous full sized patern of useful articles, accompanies the paper every fortnight.

Harper's Bazar coulains to folio pages of the size of Harper's Weekly, printed on superfine calcu-dered paper, and is published weekly Notices of the Press.

Notices of the Press.

HARPER'S BAZAR contains, basides pictures, patterns, etc., a variety of matter of especial use and interest to the family; articles on health, dress, and housekeeping is all its branches; its editorial matter is specially adapted to the circle it is intended to interest and instruct; and it has, besides, goodstories and literary matter of merit. It is not surprising that the journal with such features, has achieved in a short time an immense success; for something of the kind was desired in thousands of families, and its publishers have filled the demand. The young lady who knys a single number of Harper's Bazar is made a subscriber for life.—N. Y. Evening Post.

The Bazar is excellent. Like all the periodicals which the Harpers published, it is almost ideally well edited, and the class of readers for whom it is intended—the mothers and daughters in average families—can not but profit by its good sense and good taste, which we have no doubt, are to-day making very many homes happier than they may have been before the women began taking lessons in personal and household and social management from this good natured mentor.—The Nation, N. Y.

No more delightful travels are printed in the English language, than appear perpetually in Harper's Magazine. They are read with equal interest and satisfaction by boys of every grade, from eighteen to eighty. Its scientific papers, while sufficiently projound to demand the attention of the learned, are yet admirably adapted to the popular understanding, and designed as much to diffuse correct information concerning current scientific discovery as it could be if it was the organ of the "society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge." The great design of 'Harper's' if to give correct information and lational amusement to the great masses of the people. There are few intelligent American families in which "Harper's Magazine" would not be an appreciated and highly welcome guest. There is no monthly magazine an intelligent reading family can less afford to be without. Many magazines are accountiated.
