seizes upon the idea of "clasping hands across the bloody chasm," and of "filling the bloody chasm," as tho' they were poetic expressions, sure to strike with effect the popular heart.

We are told that the chivalric sons of the South, who took up arms against the Union because Abraham Lincoln was constitutionally elected President, feel debased in being subover by the Chieftain who forced them to lay down their arms and quit their hellish pastime of "Yankee HORACE GREELEY blood-letting."

We wish every candid, reasoning and reasonable reader to canvas this " bloody chasm" idea in his own mind and see what he can evolve therefrom. What is this "chasm?" Why, it is the chasm separating the hungry malcontents from office.

And how is this "chasm" to be filled? The first thing to be thrown into this "chasm," is President Grant .-What patriot will consent to this sacritice to appease the "outs?" After Grant must be flung the Republican party. Upon top of the Republican party is to be piled the "carpet-baggers" of the South, the men who, while fighting their country's battles picked out their future homes in Dixie. Upon the "carpet-baggers" are to be thrown the "scallawags," or poor whites, who insist upon voting the Republican ticket despite Ku Klux Klans or other opposition. Then, to fill up the "chasm," the darkeys and negro suffrage must be thrown, vide the Minority Report of make thereover a road-way for the vocates of "State Rights" to walk into power over. In the name of God, we ask, has not the "bloody chasm" been filled until the filling has risen to the very heaven in evidence? In April 1865, Gen. Grant threw into the "chasm" the parole of Gen, Lee and his cohorts. Then the Republican party marched up to its hideous edge, representing the authority of the nation, and threw into its depths the enormous guilt attaching to rebellion and treason. Again, that magnanimous party moved up in line and any office." threw into the "chasm" the God-accursed institution of slavery, and finally topped it with universal amnesty and universal suffrage, every conspirator against the life of the nation being rehabilitated with the boon of
