CITY AND COUNTY. LOCAL MESSANGE. - We want wood. - Also greenbacks. - One of the other will save us from freezing.

- They have the Epizoot at Hamburg. - Hon. H. C. Lett is slowly recovering. - A week from next Wednesday will be Christmas day.

- Several members of the Lo family were in the city last week. - Rev. Slaughter's Thanksgiving Sermon will appear next week.

- Col. Austin has three good sewing machines which he will sell cheap. - Admirers of dialect poetry will find one of Will Carleton's best on our first page.

- Jake Rogers' bus horses at Council Bluffs have the Epizoot, and Jake has put on mules. - We received a very pleasant call on Monday from Dr. Duchan, of Hamburg, Iowa.

- Wiley is excavating more dirt preparatory to erecting a fine business block in the spring. - Brookins has returned, and his cabinations again roll and reverberate through our atmosphere.

- See Peru advertisements in today's paper. The ADVERTISER is popular in that enterprising little city. - Nebraska has a lady County Superintendent of Public Instruction - Miss Ada W. Lucas, of Pierce county.

- Let no farmer fail to read the Agricultural column on fourth page. Col. Furnas is again at the helm of that Department. - We have heard nothing lately of the Hook and Ladder company. We presume it will be organized after there is nothing left to pull down.

- The American House chimney burned out last Sunday afternoon. Had the shingles caught fire, the old building would have burned like a match. - The Epizoot has seized upon the stage horses at Beatrice, bus horses at Lincoln, and before Christmas will probably have effected all horses in this section.

- In our last week's paper we had 168,750 ems of new matter, or what would have made 42 columns of breviter type, the size in which we usually set our reading matter. - Complaints come to us that there are no Government stamps here. We have a tobacco factory, two cigar factories and a brewery here, and the want of stamps occasions serious inconvenience and loss. We appeal to Collector Newman to remedy this evil as speedily as practicable.

By Rev. M. Pritchard, at the residence of the bride's father, November 25, 1872, Mr. H. E. Nosler, of Oregon, to Miss Martha E. Savell, of Nemaha county, Nebraska. By the Rev. M. Pritchard, at the residence of the bride's father, November 28th, 1872, Mr. George T. Hatfield, of Sargey county, Nebraska, to Miss Nina S. V. Snyder, of Peru, Nebraska.

By Rev. M. Pritchard, at the residence of the bride's father, December 1st, 1872, Mr. M. G. Sweeney and Miss Julia G. Nims, All of Humboldt, Richardson county, Neb. Episcopal. Divine service in Christ's church on Sunday next, (third Sunday in Advent) morning and evening, at the usual hours. There will also be evening service in the afternoon at three o'clock, with catechetical instruction for the Sunday scholars at the close of the second lessons. The parents and friends of the children are especially invited to be present.

REV. J. E. ROBERTS, Rector. R. S. Hannaford, Esq., well known to every local reader of the ADVERTISER, has removed to Nemaha City, where he intends establishing a wholesale and retail furniture establishment. Hannaford knows his "biz," and we congratulate our neighbors on this acquisition to their census and trade.

Rev. Dr. Bolten, whose letters to the "Christian Advocate," written from points in this State, are now attracting attention, will reach Brownville this week, and preach at the Baptist Church on next Sabbath morning.

Hetzel is desirous of closing out his mammoth stock of clothing, under-wear, furnishing goods, &c., and guarantees that he cannot and will not be undersold by any house in town or State. Just try him.

Fire. On last Sunday afternoon, about 2 1/2 o'clock the cry of "Fire!" rang through our streets. The wind was blowing a stiff gale at the time, and terror seized upon the heart of every one who heard the alarm. The scene of the fire was Geo. Berkley's residence, situated upon the hill at the southwest portion of our city, and was occasioned from a defective flue. Mrs. Berkley had shortly before made a pretty good fire, in order that the house might be warm when she returned from Sabbath School. At the time of the breaking out of the fire Mrs. B. was in the Episcopal Church, nor did she reach the premises until they were well nigh devoured by the fiery element. The doors were broken in by those reaching the house first, and most of the furniture on the first floor was saved, but nothing from the upper story was rescued, and it was there that the most and best of the furniture was stored, together with all the clothing of the family. The citizens worked hard to prevent the spread of the flames, and fortunately succeeded.

The house was valued by Mr. Berkley at $1,800, and was insured in the Underwriters Insurance Company, for $1,200. Mr. B. was in Iowa at the time of the fire, thus adding much to the distress of his wife, who, as she gazed upon her home as it was disappearing by the breath of the ferried heat, shrieked as though with it her heart was being torn out.

"Westward the Epizootic takes its way," and may be around here had some day; although not yet to an alarming extent, still a few cases have occurred in this city. There seems to be a desire to keep mum by those whose horses are said to be affected, for in trying to trace out a rumor of this kind, we are always met by the remark, "It must be a mistake." We hope it is, and may always be, for the Epizoot is in no wise to be desired by "man or beast." We have heretofore alluded to most of the cures or preventives, the latest of which is said to be either tobacco or tobacco stems, the stall being thickly sprinkled with it, and also, some being placed near the manger so that the horse may help himself.

BREEZY HILL.

BREEZY HILL, Dec. 9, 1872.

Editor Nebraska Advertiser. DEAR SIR: - As I see in your valuable paper an invitation for us to contribute to send in a few lines would be sufficiently acceptable to you to publish, therefore I have ventured to ask a few questions, hoping that you or some one who is posted would answer them through the ADVERTISER.

As you know, it is generally supposed that we farmers are not acquainted with the laws of our State as we should be, which is undoubtedly the fact; but it does not speak very favorably for free American citizens, who have for so long a time had the privilege of depositing that silent but powerful ballot.

The average thinker would suppose that farmers by this time have become better acquainted with our laws than they are, but that they are not sufficiently acquainted with our laws to deposit their ballots intelligently, is a lamentable fact; and your correspondent pleads guilty to a very great extent.

And now, I wish to inquire why we cannot ascertain, between each session of our Legislature, what laws were passed and what the laws are, without employing a lawyer to tell us? What is the reason that when our precinct officers apply to the County Clerk for a copy of the law, we are told that the Legislature has made no provision for us, and yet we find that they have made a provision for two copies for each and every member of the session of which they were members?

Is it possible that the great State of Nebraska cannot afford to furnish its very humble county and precinct officers a copy of the laws, or must they go it blind, and then because they make mistakes, be reprimanded by the powers, that they, by their votes, place over them? or is it because the Legislature is ashamed of the "infant" that we can't see it.

Now, in regard to our assessment laws, we hear it currently reported that some of our largest towns return as capital employed in merchandise, not one-tenth of what they should, while some individual firms of said towns return not more than one-fourth or one-third as much as some of our small country stores, and yet all appearances are doing ten times the business. What is the matter? Is it the fault of the assessor? or where is it? and what is the true cause that our County Commissioners were obliged to raise the tax levy one mill above what it was last year?

And now, Mr. Editor, one more question. Is it not a discrimination against the farmers in the way the dog tax is handled? Yours, BREEZY.

Miss Robbins and Mrs. White, proprietors of the Bazar Millinery Store, are weekly receiving new and seasonal goods in their line, and invite ladies to call upon them on visit of inspection. Mrs. Berkley will always be found present ready to fill all orders in the manufacture of hair articles.

Goods expressed free, by Stevenson & Cross's. If you want to buy a good boot, and cheap, every peg and stitch of which is warranted, call at Denny's, next door to Carson's bank, there you will find just what you want.

FROM LONDON.

LONDON, Dec. 3, 1872.

Editor Nebraska Advertiser. DEAR SIR: - Pursuant to previous announcement, the friends of education met at the school house in Dist. No. 18, December 2d, at 7 1/2 o'clock p. m. The house was filled. Mr. Isaac Black was called to the chair, and Mr. Wm. McKinney led in prayer. After a very appropriate prayer, Prof. Dye, F. R. Sykes, Miss Decie Johnson and Miss Fannie Arnold gave us some very fine, even excellent, vocal music.

Mr. Black then introduced Mrs. Ebright of Brownville, to the audience, who proceeded to give us some superb instructions with respect to the moral training of our children in our public schools. The lecture was carefully prepared, and well delivered in her usual style. She entered into the subject with spirit and vitality. I believe she meant every word she said, and her words made an impression. I wish that every man, woman and child in the county could hear the subject discussed as she discussed it, and be made feel the importance of such instruction as she feels it. Her idea of the teacher being the very bead ideal of a perfect teacher is certainly one worth contemplation. Those present were pleased, and went home well paid for their trip.

Dr. McGrew was then called for, and responded with a few remarks. Mr. Black was also called for, and made a few remarks. We then had some music from the choir, which was cheering indeed, and made our hearts feel ecstatic.

Mr. Sykes, the teacher of the school in Dist. No. 18, who has successfully taught the school the past quarter, then made a few remarks to the parents, asking their hearty co-operation the next quarter, and expressed a desire to have their aid more directly in securing regular attendance at school, also punctuality. I believe Mr. Sykes is a good teacher, and will do all in his power to develop the young mind. Visit him often. See that he has necessary apparatus and the musickers, (if I may be allowed the privilege of coining a word,) then sang another song.

Moved and carried that a vote of thanks be extended to Mrs. Ebright for her able address, and also to Prof. Dye, Miss Arnold and Miss Johnson, for their assistance in the musical department. May the happy time come again. Yours, G.

PERU CHIPS.

His Excellency the Governor of Peru, to the Editor of the ADVERTISER, Greeting:

"STOP MY PAPER." Quicker than the electric flash the news sped on the wings of the wind, and we learned from reliable authority that THE GOVERNOR HAD STOPPED THE ADVERTISER.

We were overwhelmed with emotion; stricken and bowed down with grief. With a reporter's keen instinct we flew to our quill to relieve our overburdened feelings, with a deep sense of the weight of our responsibility, commissioned, as we were, to write the obituary of our old friend. It was a solemn occasion; an imperative duty we were to perform; an office of love and respect.

This last sad (write we wrote: DECEASED - THE NEBRASKA ADVERTISER. Established in 1856, by R. W. Furnas, (Governor elect of Nebraska,) and raised to the front rank in journalism, in great part, by this gentleman's exertions. Under his management (Furnas) it was a red hot sheet, and redeemed the county from the bondage of Democracy. A few years later the ADVERTISER was placed under the fostering care of a

CHURCH. During this period its issues were noted for their piety and temperance of tone, and these pious and temperate impressions characterized its after life. Some two years before its demise the editorial room was occupied for the purposes of a Calligraphy, whereupon a mighty man of valor in the county declared it was a BAWLING SHEET, and

Other thoughts and emotions shot through our mind; sadness gave way to indignation; the utterances of grief and the sobbings of woe changed to exclamations of resentment at the course of the dignitary who, possessing the power, had used it in suppressing the ADVERTISER. We tho't of Jerusalem, which stoned and killed the prophets; of Lovjoy, mobbed for conscience's sake; of the martyred millions of the ages, and decided at last that this was "the most unkindest out of all." But a brighter thought came to our relief. We ordered our steed and departed in hot haste to view the last remains, to mourn at the shrine of the dear old sheet. As we whirled along our heart was filled with anxiety. The hours seemed weeks; the miles leagues. We alighted - we ascended the stairs - we paused at the threshold - we composed ourselves, brushing away a tear from the left hand corner of our right eye. With the stiffness of a funeral occasion we opened the door. Oh, joy! who sits at the editorial desk? The same editor as of old - There was an unconscious period in our existence; our overstrained nerves gave way. Through the kind attention of friends, consciousness was at length restored. We were shown in the press room; the same number of hands were at work as of yore; the same busy click of type-setters and presses.

THE WORLD STILL MOVED. We learned that the venerable gentleman at Peru had merely ceased taking his own copy of the ADVERTISER. With surprise, appreciating that enterprise which could survive such a terrible calamity as the loss of a subscriber, we returned to our quiet little home town with the glad news; spent an hour in canvassing and obtained one hundred dollars worth of advertisements, and twelve subscribers for the ADVERTISER.

Citizens of PERU, we are authorized upon the authority of competent judges, to state that from this untoward event no additional earthquake may be expected for the next two thousand years. The sun will not stand still for a single moment. The movements of the planets composing the solar system will still be constant. Even the laws of terrestrial gravitation will not evince the least shadow of turning. Drouth nor blight upon crops will not probably ensue the coming season. The prices of grain will not be affected, and the ADVERTISER will still be printed in the future as it has been in the past, a straight Republican paper. It has not suffered, but received encouragement ten-fold greater from this terrible blow.

Subscriptions, advertisements, or contracts for job work received by "CHIPS."
