Written for the Advertiser. THE RAIN.

BY WITCH HAZEL. Out on the willow hedges, Down on the growing grain, Oe'r the early flowers, Falleth the warm spring rain. Cheering the full June roses.

Bending the ripening grain. Pelting the new-mown hay fields. Falleth the summer rain. Dripping from laden orehards, Flooding the desolate plain. Plashing against the windows. Falleth the autumn rain. Blinding the eyes of the mourner, Chilling our hearts with pain," Beating the graves of loved ones.

Falleth the pitiless rain. Teaching us not to murmur, Making our duty plain. On the just and the unjust, Fulleth God's merciful rain.
