Address of the Union Republican Congressional Committee.

We lay before our readers this week, in supplement form, the above named political document. We do this for the welfare, prosperity, and the regard we have for the Republican party, as well as for the interest and enlightenment of our readers. It is an able paper, full of facts and figuers which have become a part and parcel of the history of our country. We ask our readers all, and especially all Republicans, whether their faith in the old party for the Union be steadfast or For Superintendent of Public In- knife and the knife to the hilt," I am wavering, to give this address a careful reading, to weigh well the fund J. A FIGHT WITH CHEYENNES. News has been received by Gen. Sheridan, that the command of Gen. Miles met from 400 to 500 Cheyennes, twelve miles from Red River, Texas, on the morning of the 30th ult., and after an engagement, lasting from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., drove them over 13 miles of high hills and almost impassable canons. General Miles deserves the greatest credit for the energy and skill displayed in the campaign result ing so favorably. Our loss was three badly wounded, and the Indian loss was twenty-five or thirty killed and wounded. The officers and men acted with great gallantry.

In another letter to Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Miles says: This command has followed the confederate and hostile Indians for several days, from Sweetwater to the head waters of the south branch of the Red River, making rapid marches, gaining steadily on them until yesterday, when they turned and made an attack, which was repulsed. They retreated to a strong position, displaying a force of about 500 warriors. The troops had made extraordinary efforts and endured every privation in their energetic and rapid pursuit. In two days they marched sixty-five miles. They came up to the attack in splendid spirits. and without a halt went into the fight. The cavalry, artillery and infantry were all in, and the Indians, who appeared very brave at first, broke and ran in every direction, Whenever they made a stand they were charged and routed for one hundred and ten miles from the Sweet Water to the Staked Plains. Their line of retreat is strewn with abandoned and deserted property and broken down animals They hurned their villages during the fight.

POLITICAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Permit me to say a few words thro he columns of your valuable paper to the electors of Brownville and of the county generally, respecting the merits of some of the Independent candidates. I will commence with Mr. Howe, as he appears to be making himself most prominent, and seems to take a great interest in the welfare of the river precincts, and the city of Brownville in particular, At the meeting of the Central Republican Committee previous to the Convention last year, (1873,) when the delegates were apportioned to the several precincts Mr. Howe informed the writer of this article that his precinct and the back precincts, generally, would not abide by the action of the Convention, as the preponderance of delegates were from the river precincts thereby giving Brownville too much influence in the convention.

GRANT, September 14, 1874. Friend Fairbrother :- Feeling that you might like to hear from this part of the county, I drop you a line.

We are, of course, all farmers out here, and feel that our interests, in many respects, have not had that attention generally which they deserve. As a farmer I have felt, too, that we ourselves needed organization-or organized effort-and I have looked from grasshoppers. He add upon the Grange movement as a new different railroads, asking and ight dawning upon the farming interest. I believe yet, that legitimately carried on, much good would grow out of it. But no sooner do we get it out foreign aid. We, of course under way than the organization is only touch on these points, but seized by designing political tricksters show most conclusively that Gor who are prostituting it for individual ends and gain. See the ticket put np intelligent discharge of all for us to support, said to be in the in- He is, from his connection wi solved to have a temperance-prohi- terest of the farmer! What a redicubition is the name-paper started in lous idea. Hewett and Howe to lead ed man in the State. Gov. the State, and $6,000 were then and the farming interest! "GOLD-PEN." Editor Nebraska Advertiser. forward as a peace maker, all would have appreciated her efforts, but when she uses her talents to widen the breach, she is doing that which no lady will do. Her po-doggerel is not only in bad taste, but it is low. scurrilous, and unworthy of a place in a paper. Her allusion to Mr. P's service as a soldier is contemptible. and the allusion to his red head is not one bit lady-like, neither is the poet- enough capital to complete the Bo ry about his burial. When "Gold ville and Ft. Pen" has time to reflect, she will wish that she had never written that doggerel. When her children become fernal warfare among men and women she will be ashamed to let them know that she ever wrote pai causes why such poetry (?) I have heard sevoral ladies and gentlemen express their along the roads also injure the opinion of the poetic production of the bonds. Let all op "Gold Pen," and all of them consay, and give us the Trank read. demn it as being the lowest stuff they

Investigations and Political Virtue,
