His grandson was Sir John Cochrane of Ochiltree, who, along with Sir Patrick Hume, of Polworth, was concerned in the political troubles which in the reign of James the II., brought ruin on the Stuart dinasty. While Hume was so fortunate as to escape abroad, Cochrane was taken prisoner in the rising under the Earl of Argyle, and being conducted to Edinburg, was ignominiously lodged in the Tolbooth, on the 3d of July, 1685 there to await his trial as a traitor .-The day of trial came, and as a matter of course, he was condemned to death.

Sir John Cochrane was married and had a family of several sons, and at least one daughter, Grisell, about eighteen years of age. While lying under sentence of death in that gloomy Tolbooth, Sir John Cochrane was permitted to see members of his family. Afraid, however, of implicating his sons, he forbade them visiting him until they could take a last farewell on the night previous to his execution. His daughter, however, was allowed to come as of-
