

MONTEREY.

It is well known that Charles Fenno Hoffman the poet, has for many years been a devotee of theism...

We were not many who stood before the iron sheet, but they were many who stood before the gallows...

Now here, now there, the shot was halted in deadly drifts of fiery spray...

And on, still on, our column kept, through walls of flame its withering way...

The foe himself recoiled against, when striking were they strongest lay...

Our banners on those turrets waved, and there the evening battle waned...

We were not many who pressed beside the brave who fell that day...

SEEKING INFORMATION. A Correspondent's Visit to Lookout Mountain Bible Field.

Poking among the crevices with a walking-stick was a melancholy, one-eyed man...

He took a sort of inventory of himself, as if to see what led me to such a supposition...

"Ah! Some personal interest in the suit, I suppose? Your regiment, perhaps, was in this battle?"

"No, I was never in the army." "Ah! but, ah! I eh, we eh, my friend there, I was wondering if you didn't lose your arm in this battle..."

"That arm," said he, "was snaked off in a sawmill; and he left me like a man who was terribly bored."

"That interview didn't turn out to suit us, and we thought we would have some fun with the colored troops. Calling a mammoth lump of ebony to him, my friend asked:

"What do you call this a battle ground for?" "Cause der wuz a fight here, sah."

"Who fought?" "Massa Gen'l Hookah, sah; an' I don't love de oder gentlemans name, sah; I disremember dat just now."

"Which licked?" "Massa Gen'l Hookah, sah, of course." "What did they fight about?"

"Well, sah, I don't reckon what de heah fight was 'bout; de whole fight, sah, was to free de niggab, sah."

"Who owned de nigger, Hooker or the oder man?" Pompey's eyes opened till they looked like two round agates. He looked at my friend and then looked at me...

SHOWING THE BOYS IN WASHOE HOW TO SHOOT.

Recently, at the saloon on the Divide, some men were discussing the shooting affray which occurred during the morning between the two brothers-in-law, Fullman and Ward.

It was agreed on all hands that it was shocking bad shooting—a discredit to Washoe. At last a Pioche man bantered a Comstock man whom he knew to be a good shot with a pistol...

To go out in the back yard with him and do some shooting with him just to show the boys how it should be done. In the saloon was a box of eggs, and what the Pioche proposed was that each shoot two eggs off the head of the other at the distance of ten paces, the one missing to treat the crowd.

The Comstock was bound not to be bluffed by a man from the other end of the State, so to the back yard all hands adjourned.

Each man used his own six-shooter. The Comstock first "busted" his egg on the top of the Pioche's head, which exploit was loudly applauded by all present.

It was then the Pioche's turn to shoot, and an egg was produced to be put on the head of the Comstock, but when he removed his hat there was a great laugh, for the top of his head was as smooth as a billiard ball.

For ten minutes all hands tried in vain to make an egg stand on his head. It could not be done. The Pioche then taunted the Comstock with having gone in to the arrangement knowing that he was safe.

The latter told him to set up his egg and it was all right—he was there. The Pioche went into the saloon, and a moment after came out with a small handful of flour, which he dabbed upon the bald head of the Comstock, and then triumphantly planted in it his egg, fell back ten steps, and then knocked it off.

The Comstock then told him to put up his second egg and shoot it off, as he did not want his head chalked twice during the game. This was done, and the wreck of a second egg steamed over the Comstock's pate.

The Pioche now stood out with his last egg on his head. The Comstock raised his pistol and fired. The Pioche bounded a yard or two into the air, and the egg bounced whole from his head.

"Let all come and take a drink. By a slip I have put half the width of my bullet through the top of his left ear!" and so it proved upon measurement.

DOMESTIC. GRAHAM GEMS.—Two eggs well beaten, two cups of milk, two cups of Graham flour, one teaspoonful of sugar, salt; heat the dish very hot and butter it well; add the mixture and bake in a quick oven.

CORN BATTER BREAD.—Take six teaspoonfuls of flour, and three of corn meal, with a little salt; sift them, and make a thin batter with four eggs and a sufficient quantity of milk; bake in small pans in a quick oven.

BROWN BREAD.—On pint of Indian meal, half a pint of rye meal, one pint of sweet milk, one even teaspoonful of soda one small half pound of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt; dissolve the soda in the molasses; boil four hours.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES.—One quart of buckwheat, table-spoonful yeast, salt, and cold water. Put the salt in the yeast. Pour the yeast on the buckwheat. Add enough cold water to make a thin batter. Let it rise over night, and bake on a griddle in the morning.

MINCE MEAT.—Four pounds of boiled and chopped meat, 8 pounds of chopped apples, two pounds of chopped suet, three pounds of raisins, four pounds of sugar, three ounces of cloves, three ounces cassia, four nutmegs, one pint of molasses, two pints of cider, one pint and a half of brandy, salt.

TOMATOES—A NEW DISH.—Slice ripe tomatoes as thin as you can conveniently, dip them in flour, both sides, with pepper and salt; have some boiling lard ready in a pan and fry them a nice brown; then add a little butter if you like, and serve hot for breakfast. Some prefer the green ones done in the same way; both are substitutes for egg plants.—German-Latin Telegraph.

TO KILL FLIES.—I am told by one who has tried it, that a strong tea of quassa sweetened with molasses, will kill flies, and has the advantage of not being a deadly poison. It is said, too, that horses washed with a tea made of quassa will not be tormented by flies. It can be bought at any drug store, and is worth trying, if it will abate the fly nuisance any.—Rural New Yorker.

NOT LONG SINCE at the meeting of a club in New York, a jelly was exhibited on the table, and along side of it an old, well worn leather boot. The spectacle of the boot was a mystery, until it was explained by one of the members that from the fellow of the boot the jelly was made by some chemical process. Jelly for the table out of old boots!—Chamber's Journal.

BREAKFAST ROLLS.—Take a coffee-cup of new milk; two beaten eggs; half a cup of fresh yeast; a teaspoonful of salt; a teaspoonful of sugar; stir in briskly enough sifted flour to make a stiff batter. They should be mixed in this way at tea time, and covered up to rise. Late in the evening, when the dough is light, mold it out on the board and put back in the pan, and cover again. In the morning tear off, but do not cut, in pieces of sufficient size to twist up into rolls, working it as little as possible; when they puff up, bake in a quick oven, and eat them while hot.

A Dutchman who thought he had purchased a change of heart, and wishing to join a certain church, applied for admission. The pastor, in order to find out how well he understood the "plan of salvation," asked him who it was that created him.

"Well, I suppose it was God," said the Dutchman. "Very good," said the minister; "now can you tell who died for you?" "Well, I suppose it was God, too."

"No, no," said the man of cloth, "it was Christ, God's son."

"Ah, ish dat so! It was de boy, den! I thinks all de time it was de ole man!"

To distinguish a young from an old fowl, a writer of an agricultural paper says, "The rear end of the breastbone in a chicken is soft, a gristle, which as the fowl grows older, hardens into solid bone; by pressing inward upon this bone it can readily be ascertained whether the fowl has been wintered or not, as it will easily bend in a chicken but cannot be bent in an old fowl. All edible birds when young have the lower part of the legs, feet, and the under part of the feet soft, but as the fowl matures these become hard and rough."

"KITTY, where's the frying-pan?" "Johnny's got it, carrying mud and clam-shells up the ally, with a cat for a horse."

"The dear little fellow, what a genius he'll make—but go and get it. We're going to have company, and must fry some fish for dinner."

A rice pond in Georgia was last year drained and the ground planted in corn. The first crop has made its appearance, and is a hybrid. The stalks, blades, and cob resemble corn, while the kernel on the cob are grains of rice.
