

THE ADVERTISER.

THURSDAY, OCT. 21, 1875.

TIME CARDS.

Daily Stage Line South. From Brownville to Arden, Falls City and Holt...

Nebraska Railway. From Brownville to Arden, Falls City and Holt...

Brownville Bus Line to Phelps. Leave Brownville 7:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 5:30 p. m.

Chicago & North Western Railway. Through Coaches leave Brownville for Chicago...

Publishers Notices. Extra Copies of the Advertiser for sale by G. L. Lowman...

Authorized Agents. WELBY BROTHERS at Sheridan, N. D. Our authorized agent...

LOCAL MATTERS. On the 12th inst. Trenton, Mo. voted $15,000 to the Q. M. & P. R. R.

"A Good Investment," even if you do not care for the story, to receive THE ADVERTISER five months for 50 cents.

Administrator's sale of the property of Widow Furlough, deceased, will take place in front of the Court House...

We are enabled this week to give our readers another letter from Europe, from our highly appreciated correspondent, Prof. Wilson.

The young men of this city are talking of organizing a Republican club. A good idea.

On last Saturday evening, passing by the Nesbit school house, two or three miles west of Nemaha City...

We are taking special pains to make THE ADVERTISER interesting, and to be desired and admired by every family it visits...

A carload of Newton Wagons at R. A. Hawley's.

George W. Fairbrother, Jr., and Albert Smith went out to Tecumseh last Sunday.

Adah Chapter No. 2. Order of the Eastern Star; regular meeting third Tuesday of each month.

James C. McNaughton and L. A. Bergmann went to Lincoln last Tuesday to attend a grand convocation and banquet of the Knights of Pythias.

Advertisers will be pleased to learn that our subscription list is rapidly increasing...

Ben Rogers informs us that the epidemic has got hold of his horses, but it is of a milder type than when it was its former rounds.

Mr. C. Neidhart has his Marble Works neatly photographed. It shows the splendid building and surrounding very accurately.

Nov. 4th we will issue largely over our regular subscription list several hundred copies more.

Billy Kaufman, who was of a hunting party, consisting of Oscar Cecil, Henry Emerick and M. Barada...

Overcome from $4.00 to $25.00, at L. Lowman's.

In calling at Neidhart's Marble Works the other day we noticed that he was finishing up a splendid Memorial Stone to mark the spot where lies the earthly remains of our old friend Dr. Rice, of St. Deroin.

Some fellow from across the river went into Stevens & Thurman's saloon last Tuesday and undertook to run the institution to suit himself...

The leading styles of Men's, Boys', and Youth's Clothing, at L. Lowman's.

Sheriff Plaster went down to St. Joseph this week after Shannon, the burglar who robbed Joe Shutz, but failed to get him...

Notions at L. Lowman's.

Hon. George S. Smith, District Attorney elect, was down to Brownville on Saturday last, and was present upon the vote of this county...

Dry Goods at L. Lowman's.

A friend, who votes in Bedford precinct, tells of a low-down, dirty trick, perpetrated by Church Howe at the polls in that precinct...

Church Howe said in this city the other day that he, in all probability, would be with the Republican party next year.

John Fitzgerald of Plattsmouth, D. Renick, of Pawnee City, and Mr. Baum of Quincy, Ill., heavy stockholders in the State Bank of Nebraska...

NEW MILLINERY. Mrs. Cook received a full supply of nice and sensible goods on Wednesday.

DRY GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, NOTIONS, AND DEFIES.

Low Price at which he is going to sell choice goods, for his motto is, and ever will be—BEST GOODS AT LOWEST PRICES—QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS.

Flour of All Brands and Prices at JUDKINS' Feed and Flour Store.

SMITH OR BROADY.

We Guess It's the Little Giant after all. The election is very close between these two gentlemen...

Smith, in Cass, - - - - 417 Lancaster, - - - - 806 Total, - - - - 1223

Broady, in Nemaha, - - - - 107 Otoe, - - - - 129 Total, - - - - 236

Giving Smith the election by six majority. These figures being derived from authentic sources...

Ben Rogers informs us that the epidemic has got hold of his horses, but it is of a milder type than when it was its former rounds.

Mr. C. Neidhart has his Marble Works neatly photographed. It shows the splendid building and surrounding very accurately.

Nov. 4th we will issue largely over our regular subscription list several hundred copies more.

Billy Kaufman, who was of a hunting party, consisting of Oscar Cecil, Henry Emerick and M. Barada...

Overcome from $4.00 to $25.00, at L. Lowman's.

In calling at Neidhart's Marble Works the other day we noticed that he was finishing up a splendid Memorial Stone to mark the spot where lies the earthly remains of our old friend Dr. Rice, of St. Deroin.

Some fellow from across the river went into Stevens & Thurman's saloon last Tuesday and undertook to run the institution to suit himself...

The leading styles of Men's, Boys', and Youth's Clothing, at L. Lowman's.

Sheriff Plaster went down to St. Joseph this week after Shannon, the burglar who robbed Joe Shutz, but failed to get him...

Notions at L. Lowman's.

Hon. George S. Smith, District Attorney elect, was down to Brownville on Saturday last, and was present upon the vote of this county...

Dry Goods at L. Lowman's.

A friend, who votes in Bedford precinct, tells of a low-down, dirty trick, perpetrated by Church Howe at the polls in that precinct...

Church Howe said in this city the other day that he, in all probability, would be with the Republican party next year.

John Fitzgerald of Plattsmouth, D. Renick, of Pawnee City, and Mr. Baum of Quincy, Ill., heavy stockholders in the State Bank of Nebraska...

NEW MILLINERY. Mrs. Cook received a full supply of nice and sensible goods on Wednesday.

DRY GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, NOTIONS, AND DEFIES.

Low Price at which he is going to sell choice goods, for his motto is, and ever will be—BEST GOODS AT LOWEST PRICES—QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS.

Flour of All Brands and Prices at JUDKINS' Feed and Flour Store.

Precinct Officers.

The following are the precinct officers elected on Tuesday of last week in the several precincts:

Island—Justices of the Peace, G. D. Malone, N. McArthur, Constable, N. P. Hinsel, Assessor, G. D. Malone, Road Supervisor, A. L. Welch, Judges of Election, H. B. Roberts, F. O'Conner, G. D. Malone, Clerks of Election, N. McArthur, I. B. Shields.

Peru—Justices of the Peace, R. B. Smith, John D. Storms, Constables, G. T. Dustin, E. H. Buck, Assessor, Thos. S. Horn, Supervisor Dist. No. 1, Er Phillips; No. 2, Jacob Zaring; No. 3, Greene Edwards, Judges of Election, Willis Carter, R. T. McAdams, John Welch, Clerks of Election, B. W. Knott, J. W. Swan.

Glen Rock—Justices of the Peace, Thos. Burgess, J. W. Tate, Assessor, John Cook, Judges of Election, J. F. Neal, T. Bunford, J. Epler, Clerks of Election, S. Wagstaff, N. P. Meader, Supervisor Dist. No. 1, J. Leahy; No. 2, John Cook; No. 3, G. Ashley; No. 4, S. Reed.

Lafayette—Justices of the Peace, H. Edmiston, J. G. Ewen, Constables, D. Keenison, W. Graver, Assessor, S. Robertson, Supervisor No. 1, J. W. Lash; No. 2, J. G. Ewan; No. 3, N. Johnson; No. 4, A. Perlet, Judges of Election, H. Edmiston, L. G. Hall, J. Edmiston, Clerks of Election, C. Blodgett, J. W. Lash.

Washington—Justices of the Peace, Simon Miller, C. R. Lee, Constables, DeLo Hughes, John Hagerman, Assessor, C. Schwan, Judges of Election, F. Murray, J. F. Gutzmer, R. M. Buckles, Clerks of Election, J. Gilbert, J. B. Johnson, Supervisor Dist. No. 1, C. B. Lee; No. 2, J. Shafer; No. 3, C. Schwan; No. 4, F. Murray.

Douglas—Justices of the Peace, W. Hannaford, A. W. Morgan, Constables, C. Dundas, F. Higgins, Judges of Election, Ed Wood, there being a tie vote between C. Wilson, J. B. Piper, S. Cochran, and J. Dundas, but one elector.

London—Justices of the Peace—F. G. McGraw, John Harding, Assessor, J. H. Peery, Judges of Election, H. O. Minick, W. J. Jones, J. H. Peery, Clerks of Election, A. J. Skeen, R. W. Coleman, Supervisor, G. Maho, Dist. No. 1; A. J. Skeen, 2nd Dist.

Brownville—Justices, T. L. Schick, E. E. Ebricht, Constables, John B. McCabe, S. Seeman, Assessor, B. B. Thompson, Supervisor, John B. McCabe, Dist. No. 3; J. Marlatt, No. 2, Judges of Election, G. H. Lannon, J. O. Hamilton, M. M. Conner, Clerks of Election, E. M. Lippitt, J. B. Docker.

Nemaha—Justices, J. P. Crother, A. Gunnison, Constables, J. K. Smith, O. P. Willis, Assessor, W. S. Haeker, Judges of Election, J. H. Drain, J. Henderson, S. A. Huntington, Clerks of Election, J. P. Crother, Philip Crother, Supervisor Dist. No. 1, W. Hawkins; No. 2, John Arngrigt; No. 3, A. Gunnison.

Aspinwall—Justices, J. M. Paulin, G. R. Shook, D. Low, Constables, G. W. Culp, M. J. Woodward, Assessor, A. L. Jennett, Supervisor Dist. No. 1, M. B. Jones; No. 2, Wm Lambert, Judges of Election, H. A. Brown, S. L. Siers, Henry Hart, Clerks of Election, J. M. Paulin, Guilford Lilly.

St. Deroin—Justices, M. Brannon, J. H. McLain, Constables, A. W. Shook, Assessor, J. P. Thornton, Supervisor, A. J. Bitter, Judges of Election, J. L. Overman, G. W. Fouch, M. Brannon, Clerks of Election, P. Fraker, F. M. Taylor.

Bedford—Justices, D. M. Morris, Wm. Howell, Constables, Louis Engel, J. Kleckner, Assessor, Leroy Mason, Judges of Election, D. M. Morris, J. W. Huntington, H. Cowell, Clerks of Election, C. Tucker, A. C. Howe, Supervisor, A. Kearns, C. Howe.

Benton—Justices, D. W. Shurtliff, J. Frericks, Constables, J. H. Koster, H. M. Stover, Assessor, Wm. Windsheffe, Supervisor, A. Foss, Dist. No. 1; D. S. Haeker, Dist. No. 2, Judges of Election, T. Casper, M. Paulus, J. Frericks, Clerks of Election, H. M. Stover, J. H. Koster.

John Fitzgerald of Plattsmouth, D. Renick, of Pawnee City, and Mr. Baum of Quincy, Ill., heavy stockholders in the State Bank of Nebraska...

NEW MILLINERY. Mrs. Cook received a full supply of nice and sensible goods on Wednesday.

DRY GOODS, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, NOTIONS, AND DEFIES.

Low Price at which he is going to sell choice goods, for his motto is, and ever will be—BEST GOODS AT LOWEST PRICES—QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS.

Flour of All Brands and Prices at JUDKINS' Feed and Flour Store.

"A GOOD INVESTMENT."

We take pleasure in announcing this week that we have secured, from Harper Brothers, New York, the right to publish one of the most interesting serial stories that was ever written.

"A GOOD INVESTMENT," will be introduced to our readers the first week in November, and will run between four and five months.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

Remember the Dead.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for the sacred resting places of the dead. It is not the civilized or christian man that has this feeling alone, but it is common to the heathen and savage.

There is no feeling more universal among the human family than that of respect for