

THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1876.

Hackney bought a lot of fine hogs last Monday.

Rain, rain, rain—and corn and truck boom up.

The citizens of Lafayette precinct are going to celebrate on the 4th.

J. A. Hood, of Aspinwall, will open an auction room on the 22d inst.

That fellow who "don't bore with a gimlet" was in the city on Monday.

Ex-Senator Tipton will deliver the oration at the Tecumseh Fourth of July celebration.

Presbyterian Church Sociable at the residence of Mr. L. Headley this (Thursday) evening. All are invited.

The citizens of Lafayette have determined to have a Centennial Celebration on the 4th of July next at Howard.

On the fourth page of this issue we publish another interesting letter from our European correspondent, Prof. Wilson.

T. L. Schick, Esq., is engaged to deliver the oration at Harmon's grove on the Fourth, and Col. Furnas the historical address.

Married, on the 8th, Mr. J. Frederick Friday to Anna C. Poppe by the Rev. Leonard Fister at the Stone church, Brenton precinct.

We respectfully request those who furnish us with items from different localities, to say what they have to say as briefly as possible, and confine themselves to local news.

Graham got his mills and lumber out of the way just in time by working night and day. The water of the Missouri now flows and boils where the old mill stood for some seventeen years.

G. W. Fairbrother, Jr., and Miss Ada Smith went out to Tecumseh on Wednesday forenoon, in spite of the muddy roads. Mud or no mud, they were bound to go and see Albert and Mary married.

Wednesday evening of last week this section of country was visited by a rain, and since that by several copious showers. This was the first rain for nearly a month and came just in time to do much good.

The Presbyterian festival last Thursday evening was very well attended. We are informed the receipts amounted to $101.45. We were not furnished with the receipts of the other festival held last week.

Capt. Bailey received a letter a day or two ago from our fellow-citizen W. H. McCreery, who is, with Mrs. Mc., enjoying the scenes and curiosities at the Philadelphia Exposition. They were in good health and happy.

B. T. Skeen delivered to Capt. Bailey yesterday six pigs, 10 months old, weighing 1,900 pounds. Taylor says if any one can beat this he would like to hear from them. He says his soft corn has netted him 50 cents a bushel.

The grandest celebration ever held in this county will be that of Harmon's grove on the Fourth. Everybody is going who can get there—the Good Templars, the Sons of Temperance, the Grangers, and the beat-all will be there.

Nace has closed his grocery for the present. He intends to open up again the coming fall. He will start in a day or two on a visit to Ohio, where Mrs. Nace has been for several weeks, and will visit the great exposition before he returns home.

The river bank is falling in very rapidly and the water is high, and was rising on Tuesday evening. The stock scales of Bailey & McGee had to be removed to save them from going into the river, and the cattle yard is about gone. The water is nearing the Nebraska Railway track, but may not reach so far before it quits biting into the bank.

The Knights of Pythias of this city have decided to celebrate on the 4th. They now have their committee at work; have engaged the services of the band, and are making preparations to have a genuine, old-fashioned picnic celebration in one of the groves adjoining the town. Everybody invited to come, with well filled baskets. When these young men decide to do anything, 'tis never half done.

Wm. S. Clark, of Nemaha City started for Philadelphia last Friday morning, he having been notified that he had received an appointment on the Centennial Police force and required to report at once. Mr. Clark is a wide-awake, industrious, energetic man, well qualified to fill any position from tramping the beat of a guard to any office duties that may be required of him. We congratulate him on his good opportunity to take in the great show, and commend him to the friendship of all Nebraskans.

Rev. H. T. Davis gives notice of a National Camp-meeting to be held at Bennet, Nebraska, beginning June 23rd and closing July 5th. This is quite convenient for any of our citizens who may desire to attend the meeting, as Bennet is situated on the Nebraska Railway between Nebraska City and Lincoln. Reduction of fare has been arranged for, so that the round tripe can be made for one and one fifth fare—tickets good during the meeting. Parties desiring to tent will be required to furnish their own tent and to pay $1 for use of ground. Board and food for $1 per day, or $5 for the meeting. It is expected that all tents and buildings will be erected and all the work of fitting up, furnishing and seating, will be completed by Tuesday evening, June 27th, as the ground will be dedicated to the worship of Almighty God early Wednesday.

Last Friday night two burglars broke into the store of W. T. Den, this city, and carried away about $200 worth of goods, consisting of ready made clothing, boots and shoes and a shot gun. Billy McReynolds, the clerk, was sleeping in the store at the time, and they took his watch and fifty cents in money from his pockets. The burglars effected an entrance into the cellar through the door at the rear end of the building and then forced up a trap door which leads from the store room through the floor to the cellar. After hurriedly gathering up some goods and scattering some over the floor they went out the same way they entered. They must have been very cautious and noiseless in their proceedings or they would have waked up the sleeping clerk.

On Saturday morning Den and Sheriff Plasters started in pursuit of the robbers, going down the river as far as St. Deroin, we believe. On their road down they notified different parties of the robbery, amongst whom was young Cranmore who lives some two miles below this city. After the Sheriff had passed Cranmore's some time, two men approached Cranmore's premises and went into an old stable for protection against the rain that fell nearly all that day. Cranmore went out to the stable where the men were, and after taking a good look at them and noticing their new boots and wearing apparel felt satisfied that they were the chaps that Den and the Sheriff were after. But Cranmore kept his thoughts to himself, and kindly invited the men to go to the house and warm and dry themselves. This they at first declined to do, saying they could do very well where they were until the rain abated; but Cranmore insisted and said they were welcome, and so on, and finally they were induced to go into the house. Then Cranmore went out and kept a vigilant watch for the return of the Sheriff and Mr. Den, and it was not long until his anxiety was rewarded by seeing them coming up the road—the gentlemen in the house were yet warm and drying themselves.—Cranmore beckoned to the Sheriff and Den to come to him, which they hastened to do, and in a few words Cranmore informed them of what was the matter. And they went in and without difficulty made prisoners of the two strangers. Cranmore's suspicions were correct—they were the robbers. Den as soon as he saw them, saw and knew some of his goods.

These men came to this place down the river in a skiff, and after committing the robbery left the same way, but did not go far for some reason, and ran their skiff up a slough, which is now filled with back water from the river. In this skiff or near it in the brush were the stolen goods wrapped in an oil cloth; and at the request of the Sheriff and Mr. Den they went and got the goods and shot gun. And the clerk got his watch.

On Monday morning the burglars were taken before Judge Church when they waived a trial and were committed to jail in default of bail.

They gave their names as Charles Blanchard and Wm. Allison, but from papers and letters found upon Allison, it is suspected that Allison is his alias, and that his true name is James Stewart. Upon his person were found a letter supposed to have been written by his wife, directed to James Stewart, and a receipt for taxes paid by Jas. Stewart, to J. T. Brock, Sheriff of Montgomery county, Kansas. The letter did not indicate where it was written, more than that it referred to business matters in Kansas and to Independence, and there is a town by that name we believe in Montgomery county, Kansas. The letter is written with care not to reveal the place of the writer, and there are careful allusions made in it to the burning of a house, which leads to the suspicion that these fellows, or Stewart at least, has been engaged in committing crimes elsewhere, and where he is now wanted. We understand that Sheriff Plasters has written to Independence to find out about the matter.

They are both young men. Blanchard is the younger, and has lost one leg from just below the knee and now sports a very nice cork leg. His friends may remember him by this description, and if they want to see him they may do so by applying to the jailer of this city.

M. E. Church Centennial Services.— There will be appropriate Centennial services in the M. E. Church Wednesday evening, the 28th inst. Rev. S. G. Wilson, of Pawnee City, will preach the discourse, and other speakers are expected. Come one, come all.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

London. Don't forget the next meeting at the Christian Church basket meeting. The much desired rain has come, and the thirsting earth is glad, and men are thankful—I guess.

Mrs. Henry Seymour is very sick at her father's house. She is a daughter of Mr. Kesterson. Farmers, when they can get seven dollars a hundred for hogs had better take it, than to wait a few weeks and get four, as many have done.

Man is naturally religious; the form of it is a matter of education. Let no one be deceived, thinking education creates the religion. It cannot do it any more than it can create intellect. Education creates nothing. It develops—the faculty is back of it. People should not say unkind, uncharitable things about the form of his neighbor's religion. The same idea may be expressed differently.

Resolved, That in the death of sister Esther Baustfield the lodge has lost an efficient and worthy member, one who was ever ready to extend a helping hand; who during her sojourn among us has in the fullest manner demonstrated the principles of our order.
