thing in this case, to say so in the platform. Two thirds of the Republican party now believe with Gov. Butler that the greenback should be maintained as "the circulating medium," and the ambiguity of the greenback plank in the platform will not rebound to the glory of the party when analytically criticised by the shrewd flax-picking opposition. While we like the sentiment of the plank, we do not like its indefiniteness and the generalizing terms with which this now, most important, subject is disposed of. Is the Republican party in favor of greenbacks supplanting national bank currency entirely or not? Ah, the convention did not say. The very bed-sill of the paper currency issue is this question, yet the convention, proposing to speak the sentiments of the people, says nothing about it. When Gov. Butler with the psychology of his earnest presence, gesture and thunder tones declared that "by the Eternal greenbacks shall be the circulating medium of this nation," the cancellation of the doctrine was approved by "loud applause," but when the manipulators of party and platform got together they concluded that Butler's flatfooted, bold style, was not expedient—that to catch the bank and anti bank vote it must suffice to say that the people's money must be good money, without a suggestion of policy or plan. While awaiting news from the convention, a friend remarked to us, "wonder what they will do with the greenback question?" We answered that we should think the signs of the times and wisdom of the convention would meet the expectations of the party. Our friend then, from the gift of precedent rather than prophecy, said, "O, I presume they will get up something kind of smoothing it over." And that is what the Republican convention did with the currency matter—gave it a sort of wordy smoothing over. With the exception of the incompleteness of the greenback plank, the platform to us is without fault or blemish.

Nemaha County Fruit Exhibit at the State Fair. Since our reference last week, to the success of Nemaha County with her exhibit at the late Nebraska State Fair, the official report of the awarding committee has been published. We copy verbatim, from it. "For the best and largest collection of Fruits, we have adjudged the premium to that from Nemaha county. The competition was very close between this, and the fruits from Otoe and Washington counties. But we feel impelled to render as above. "For collection of fall and winter Peas, quality to rule, * Nemaha county. "For best collection of peaches, to Nemaha county, embracing a large number of fine seedlings. "For collection of summer, fall and winter apples, the second premium is awarded Nemaha county. The committee in speaking at large of the Nebraska Fruit-Exhibit say: "All of your fruits are remarkably fine, of greater size and beauty than the same varieties in the older sections. In this respect we should feel impelled to make further remark, were it not that these facts have been previously observed, and that they have indeed been made notorious by their prior triumphant exhibition in contrast with the fruits of the whole country, when shown in former years at several of the great exhibitions, especially those of the "American Pomological Society" at Richmond, Va., at Chicago, Ill., quarter centennial meeting at Boston, Mass., and manifestly so at the famous Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. At nearly all these your fruits were triumphant. "Such words from such men as John A. Warner, man something, and settles the question once and for all that Nebraska, as a fruit growing region, is unsurpassed, and further, that Nemaha county having taken the first premium twice in succession, at two of the most important and extensive fruit exhibits held in the State, stands ahead in the United States, as to fruit growing! "The "Italics" are ours, but the words, as said, are those of the committee, verbatim: "Believe not ill of a brother till it is proved beyond a doubt—Ed.

That is good advice. But if good of "a brother" how much better if applied to a sister? A man may be ill said of him, he may be slandered, his name may be blackened, but whether justly or unjustly, true or false, society will forgive him, forget, condone the sin, and he will mingle with, and be tolerated in society just as if no disgraceful things had ever been said of him. But not so with a woman. When her fair name is smirched by scandal's cruel tongue, she does not recover, her good name so easily—heartless and unjust society is loth to condone her sin. If even it ever does. Then, if it is your duty, all our duty, to "believe not ill of a brother," remember that it is a thousand times more our duty to believe not ill of a sister, and never to repeat to others anything you may hear calculated to injure her character—do unto others as you would have them do unto you. If you have a wife, a sister a daughter, just think how it would sting you to the very heart to hear of ill traveling from mouth to mouth of one of these.

The five mile boat race between Hanlon, the Canadian Champion, and Courtney, the American, rowed on Canadian waters, came off on the 2d inst. and was won by Hanlon by about one length. It was a very even race all the way. A correspondent of the Kentucky Live Stock Journal says he feeds his hogs skimmed milk and that a bucket full three times a day is better than four quarts of oats at a feed.

PLATFORM OF THE REPUBLICANS OF NEBRASKA.

The Republicans of Nebraska, reaffirming the principles that carried the Nation successfully through the crisis of the rebellion, the dangers of reconstruction, and the readjustment of the social and business interests of the people, and meeting the issue of the hour in the same unflinching spirit with which they confronted the grave problems that met them upon the threshold of their power, declare— 1. Elections shall be free in the South as in the North; equal rights of all citizens, as ordained by the amended Constitution, shall be guaranteed, and it shall not be dangerous to the life or limb of a citizen to hold and express an opinion, and to vote as he pleases. 2. The public service shall be elevated on a basis of a pure, economical, and efficient administration of affairs, and the office to be secure for the term prescribed in the commission, during a faithful performance of the duties, and the rights and privileges of an official, as a sovereign citizen of the Republic, should not be interfered with so long as they are exercised without neglect of his duties. 3. Sincerely seeking fraternal relations with the States lately in rebellion, we sympathize with the people and the States, and war against the demand that the damages sustained by the people of those States, in consequence of the unprovoked war waged against the Union, shall be paid out of the national treasury; and the holds of the solid South, in anticipation of democratic control of the national purse, must be met with the same unflinching spirit of resistance which foisted the attempt to take possession of our rights and property with an armed hand. 4. The authority conferred upon Congress by the constitution to regulate interstate commerce, and the authority reserved to the several States in their domestic affairs, are sufficient to afford the means for the growing oppression of powerful monopolies; and the rights of the people should be jealously guarded against extortion and their control of masses of property, by adequate state and national legislation. 5. The faith of the nation shall be sacred and its contracts be redeemed in spirit and letter, and the nation's honor shall be held as inviolate as the nation's life. 6. We halt the suspicious signs of reviving trade and industry, and congratulate the people upon this practical evidence that the depression which grew out of the financial disaster wrought upon by the rebellion is giving place to returning confidence and permanent prosperity, which can rest alone on a fixed monetary standard, settled values, and full security and certainty for the future. 7. The greenback shall not be dishonored or depreciated; shall be made as good as honest coin; the laborer's dollar shall mean a real dollar; the uncertainty of its value, which robs toil and paralyzes trade, shall cease, and our currency shall be made a reality, because, whether paper or coin, it shall be equivalent, convertible, secure, and steady. 8. The demonetization of silver worked a fraud upon the people by creating the nation's resources for paying its indebtedness. The act restoring its legal tender character and providing for the coinage of standard silver dollars, was timely and just; but its passage should be free and the 300,000,000 trade dollars now in circulation should be made legal tender. 9. The record of the Democratic party in its recent attempt to steal the presidency by violence, intimidation, and murder during the campaign at the polls; by stuffing ballot boxes, falsifying returns, and obstructing the canvassing of votes; by bribery of electors and by pretended returns from false and fraudulent electors; followed by the device of an extra constitutional method of canvassing the electoral votes; its repudiation of its own offspring—the electoral commission—as soon as it failed to carry out its party designs; its plot to precipitate anarchy and revolution by filibustering on the House of Representatives until the expiration of the Constitutional time in which the electoral college was to meet; its attempt to elect a president on a condition precedent to the abandonment of the conspiracy, illustrates the spirit of its so-called democracy, being subservient to the party, and destructive of law and order, and in contempt of public honor and decency. We arraign this party as a constant disturber of public tranquility; as a source of public anxiety; as the perpetrator of assaults upon the authority and stability of its established government; as false to the nation in crippling its army in a time of uncertainty and danger; as guilty of false promises in claiming for the Democratic party the credit of the reconstruction of the South, and the removal of the Indians now within our borders to the territory set apart exclusively for their use. We invite all good citizens of whatever previous political ties to unite with the Republican party, the only effectual bulwark against national repudiation and disgrace, the only organization capable of preserving the national honor. This party, by its appeals to all Republicans to rise to its high obligations and join heart and hand for the triumph of the principles upon which the security and welfare of the Republic depend.
