At a recent rabbit hunt at Janesville, Wis. 491 scores were made, nearly all rabbits.

Chon Yow was hanged at Bridgeport California, on the 6th, for the murder of Ah Pow.

The total vote of Illinois at the late election was 445,560. The Republican candidate for State Treasurer received 36,573 majority. The total vote of the national was 65,589.

A batch of forty-four Indian agents were indicted by a Yankton grand jury last week, as timber thieves and Indian robbers. If the Indian thieves are found guilty, it wouldn't be far out of the way to turn them over to the "Indians they have wronged, for punishment.

The most contemptible, and ill-mannered little jackass in Congress, is Sam Cox, elected from one of the lowest districts of New York city. He is worthy of notice only on account of his low-bred slang, learned among his ruffian constituency and the bawdy houses of his district.

The Chicago excursionists to the City of Mexico, are to leave Chicago on January 4th. The Mexican Government has appropriated $50,000 for the entertainment of their American guests. This disposition on the part of the Mexican neighbors to court and secure abiding friendship with the United States, augurs well—much better than guerrilla fighting on the Rio Grande.

It is the right of every citizen, possessing the qualifications prescribed by law, to cast one undivided ballot, and to have his ballot honestly counted.—President Hayes.

That is the way honest people understand it; but the Wade Hampton Democracy refusing to accord such rights, steal from the ballot box the "unintimidated ballot," and substitute therefor a thousand tissue tickets cast by one dirty bulldozer.

We have heard it rumored within the past few weeks that the U. P. railroad company has purchased the A. & N. railroad; and the following item from the Tecumseh Chief is somewhat confirmatory:

An extra went up on the A. & N. Wednesday, containing a U. P. passenger coach. We rather suspect that the U. P. officials were inspecting the line for the purpose of purchasing it, if they have not already done so.

If the U. P. henceforth controls the A. & N. it is not probable that the B. & M. will finish their road from here to either Falls City or Salem; but will strike out from Nemaha in a south west direction, via Pawnee City. The war between the two great corporations is too sanguinary for them to run on the same track, even a short distance.

Upon opening the President's message, the first thing hunted up and read was that part bearing upon the Southern policy. The President had given the South all it demanded, had removed every cause of even a pretext for complaint, had recognized Nicholas and Hampton as Governors, when he could not have believed they had received majorities over their competitors, all for the sake of harmony, reconciliation, and peace between the races, the parties, and the removal of sectional bitterness existing between the North and South. He went as far as any President would or could go toward tearing down party lines and inducing the South to conduct itself toward the Government as law-abiding citizens. This was called the President's Southern policy; thus far the policy had been defined by his various acts. But the part yet undefined, except as indicated in messages, the sequel, what shall the end of this policy be? was what the people were anxious to know about. They knew the generosity of the President had been betrayed; that his conciliatory acts had been taken advantage of to perpetrate the most criminal violations of federal laws and damnable outrages on the rights of citizens; that people had been murdered for opinion's sake, that the rights of the elective franchise had been denied to many, whilst others who were permitted to vote had their ballots stolen and others substituted, thus preventing a free and fair expression of the will of the majority at the ballot box. The anxiety of the Republican reader is pleasantly relieved in reading the message. The fear that he would be blind to the great crime of the South, and ignore it was happily swept away, and his renewed promise to punish the criminals and to protect, as far as lawfully can, the rights of citizens give universal satisfaction. We may have at once endorsed the Southern policy in the beginning, but we may now endorse it's consistency if carried out according to promises made in all his messages. This policy is the best one we have, and every patriot should endeavor to make the best of it. In the efforts of the Administration to carry out the policy, as we see it outlined, it should have the strong and unwavering support of every good citizen. All should cease their criticisms of the President regarding his Southern policy, and give him their moral support in carrying out his idea and intent, to the best and most successful consummation possible. What good is there in continuing to harp upon what might have been, or upon supposed better policy? It is of no avail now. We may believe that Packard was fairly elected Governor of Louisiana, and Chamberlain of South Carolina, and ever strongly deny the possibility of a contingency which would justify the setting aside the will of a majority; and when reasonable, and pertinent, defend this chief corner stone of a Republican government; yet, we are not estopped from believing the President's intentions were good, nor from holding up his hands now in his efforts to punish subverters of the constitution and general laws of the country. If the President's course with the South shall prove to be the inauguration of a firm policy that will ultimately untrammel the ballot down there, it will be hailed as far preferable to the policy of protecting voters and keeping bulldozers and kuklux in subjection by the power of the U. S. army, which should be resorted to only after the firm application of a policy administered through the judiciary has failed.

Cocce How.

In the earlier days of Nebraska the aboriginal legislators and primitive politicians of these plains used the Indian greeting, "Cocce How!! i. e. "Friend how are you?"

But now, Cocce How of Nemaha has usurped the place of the pure and simple "How?" of the aborigines, and the evidences of advancing christianity and civilization are found in the fact "Cocce How" comes in where formerly, the ground was occupied by the savage "Cocce." Friend How of Nemaha—hereafter to be pronounced Nema-How—is a staid and earnest man, and a prodigious patriot. He proposes infinite reforms for Nebraska, and hitherto up to date has been a most successful warrior, on the ground of his patriotism; we rather think the commonwealth will be pulled through to a safe, solid and substantial standing.

It is already promulgated, by "the Granger," that Mr. How will lead off with a slashing bill on act to regulate rates of freight and passenger tariffs on railroads. This will come with exceeding grace from How; he so fully identified with the farmers and mechanics, and so at variance with the Union Pacific and B. & M. Railroad interests that every body will know he is strictly prime in the honesty of intention with which he proposes such a measure. Then looking at the regulatory experience of Iowa and Wisconsin, regarding railroads, and this most statesmanlike statesman certainly can observe the benefits resulting therefrom.

That invention of the burly brain of Statesman Gwyer—called, "the incubus of inertia," will secure a long job, here, in Nebraska, whenever Statesman How and other thiering statesmen take charge of the property of corporate capital and limit its earnings by enactments.

U. P. Hows does not mean, however, up Hows and to them, but it may mean "you pretend," possibly. How is that?

The above appears in the Nebraska City Press, as an editorial; but there is nothing Press-like about it, but the grammatical errors some of which we correct. For the brain that evolved that piece of refined irony we guess we would have to look outside the sanctum of the Press. We doubt if the Press ever had sense enough to so comprehend the real alms of our "Nema-How," or if it had, it has hitherto lacked the honesty to say so.

I am unwilling to forego a renewed appeal to the legislatures, the courts, the executive authorities, and the people of the States where these wrongs have been perpetrated, to give their assistance toward bringing to justice the offenders and preventing a repetition of the crimes.—President's Message.

They having lied to the President, and abused his confidence, showing that they cannot be trusted, he will cease to appeal to them to act as good and law-abiding people, but will at once apply the penalty of violated laws. Then the President further says, regarding the outrages on the federal election laws:

No means within my power will be spared to obtain a full and fair investigation of the alleged crimes, and to secure the conviction and just punishment of the guilty.

The law-abiding people every where will endorse President Hayes and give him their support in his efforts to punish the criminals and to protect the rights of citizens. For as he says in another paragraph:

THE FOLLOWING TABLE SHOWS THE AMOUNT OF TAX LIEVED AND AMOUNT YET UNPAID AS SHOWN BY THE TAX DUPLICATES OF THE DIFFERENT YEARS:

IT APPEARS FROM THE ABOVE TABLE THAT THERE IS DUE AND UNCOLLECTED IN ROUND NUMBERS, $100,000.00.

A large portion of this is on town lots and tracts of land along the river; in many cases the property is not now worth the tax. From the above amount would have to be deducted a considerable amount of worthless personal property tax, erroneous assessments, tax remitted by county commissioners, tax on school lands which the legislature by an act, passed at the last session, wiped out at least the most of it. But with all these deductions, we have sufficient assets to fully pay our outstanding warrants. Delinquent tax draws one per cent. per month interest, and warrants ten per cent. per annum, so the advantage is in favor of the county in interest.

THE INTER OCEAN.

Weekly, $1.15; Semi-Weekly, $2.50; Daily, $10.00.

The Inter Ocean, as a political journal, stands confessedly at the head of the Republican press of the West, and as a reliable newspaper has a reputation second to none. While it has never wavered in the support of party principles, has never failed to do its full duty in critical times, and has never hesitated to strike hard blows in defense of the Republican cause, it has never ceased to be a good newspaper, independent of all political and party considerations.

With the record of seven years' conscientious work and efficient service behind it as a certificate of character. The Inter Ocean enters upon the work of a year's term upon the work of a year the most important, perhaps, in its history, and the most momentous in the history of the Republican party. Lines are already forming for the great battle of 1880, and the country has never felt the need of staunch and able supporters of principle for the sake of principle as it will in the coming year. It has been the good fortune of the Inter Ocean to lead in the formation of public opinion, and to have a tremendous following. It has maintained this position as leader because of its unquestioned loyalty to the fundamental principles of the party, its boldness in defending them, and its fairness in discussing great political questions. As the Inter Ocean has sounded the key-note of the contests in past years, Republicans will look to it as a faithful guide and leader in the coming year. And they will not be disappointed. The paper will stand, as it always has stood, the organ of no faction or clique, battling in the front rank for the principles that have made the country what it is.

The Inter Ocean expects to receive from enemies and opponents hard blows, and to return them with interest. From Republicans and friends it expects only such consideration and fairness as any political journal may claim at the hands of those interested in the success of the the party and in the triumph of party principles. The issues are sharply defined. On the one side is the solid South aided by the Democratic party. Naturally at such a time Republicans will turn to a paper able, aggressive, and of unquestioned loyalty. All that we ask is that they judge the Inter Ocean by its own utterances, and not by what Democratic organs and envious rivals say of it.

Outside of party considerations Republicans will choose the best newspaper. And in this particular the Inter Ocean has no superiors. It is in every sense of the word a national newspaper, presenting, home and foreign news in attractive shape, and accompanying it with intelligent comment.

It will be as enterprising as any of its contemporaries, more accurate and more discriminating. For two years its cable dispatches have been fuller and of higher character than those of any other Western journal; its Washington and foreign correspondence more readable, covering more topics of special and general interest, and its home correspondence more varied and more complete. All these departments will be continued, with such improvements added as experience may suggest and increased facilities for collecting news allow.

Independent of politics and news, men want a symmetrical, interesting, and wholesome journal for the family and the home. They will find such a paper in the Inter Ocean, which devotes more attention than any other political newspaper to departments prepared and conducted with the wants of home and family in view. This applies to Agricultural, Domestic, Educational, Scientific, and Social matters.

THE CURIOSITY SHOP, covering answers to all sorts of political, scientific and general questions, will receive more attention, even than in past years, and will be a complete encyclopedia of information not accessible outside the great reference libraries of large cities. In this department the Inter Ocean has been without a rival and, realizing the importance of the department, the publishers have made arrangements not only to maintain its high character, but to make it answer more completely the demands of subscribers.

THE HOME DEPARTMENT has within the past year assumed a new character and a new importance. It is the outgrowth of the Inter Ocean policy of fostering home interests, and, while it is unique in its freshness and its plan, it is unequalled in its interests and in the amount of suggestive and practical information on Home topics.

THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT will be in charge of one of the most experienced agricultural editors of the West, and will give each week timely hints, suggestions, and discussions of practical interests.

THE VETERINARY DEPARTMENT has become a standard authority among horsemen, and is republished from week to week in many of the Farm and Stock Journals of the country. All questions of subscribers as to diseases and treatment of stock are answered without charge by a distinguished and experienced specialist. This department will be maintained at its present high standard.

THE WOMAN'S KINGDOM, devoted to woman's interest and work, will be continued in the generous and conservative spirit that has made it so popular.

THE COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT has had a reputation for reliability and completeness all its own. It will remain in charge of the same editor, and will be made up with the wants of the readers in view.

IN FICTION the Inter Ocean will present a serial by a popular Western author, covering ground in the West not touched upon hitherto by writers of fiction, and replete with incident and
