

Call for Republican State Convention.

The Republican electors of the State of Nebraska are hereby called to send delegates from the several counties, to meet in State Convention at Omaha on Wednesday, October 1, 1879, at 10 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the following named offices, viz.:
One Judge of the Supreme Court.
Two Regents of the State University.
And to transact such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

The several counties are entitled to representation in the State Convention as follows, based upon the vote cast for E. C. Carz, Lieutenant Governor for 1878, except Madison, whose representation is based upon the vote cast for Governor in 1878, giving one delegate to each 150 votes and one for each fraction of 75 votes; also one delegate at large for each organized county:

Table with 4 columns: County, Votes, Delegates, Total. Lists counties like Adams, Antelope, and their respective delegates.

It is recommended, that no proxies be admitted to the Convention, except such as are held by persons residing in the counties from which the proxies are given.
Second—That no delegate shall represent an absent member of his delegation, unless he be clothed with authority from the County Convention, or is in possession of proxies from regularly elected delegates thereof.
By order of the Republican State Central Committee.

Fish Culture in Nebraska.

Governed by my own inclination to a great extent, and at the request of many gentlemen in this county who desired information in relation to the Fish enterprise recently begun in this State, I addressed a letter of inquiry to Gen. Livingston of the Nebraska State Fish Commission. The following is his reply. While not written for publication, I know of no better mode of giving our people the valuable information it contains than to publish it. I therefore take the liberty of having it published, believing the people of Nebraska County will derive as much gratification from its perusal as I have.

There are quite a number of favorable localities, and surroundings where fish can be planted in this county, and I hope those who are fortunately situated will test the matter of Fish Culture. As Gen. Livingston says, it is already an important factor in the industries of the country, the statistics of which will astonish those not acquainted.

DEAR SIR:—Your esteemed favor of 20th inst. is just received and I hasten to reply.
The Nebraska Fish Commission came into existence about 23 June last, and found an appropriation of $500 per annum for its use. We met and organized at Omaha, electing Hon. W. L. May president and H. S. Kaley secretary. On reviewing the law and amount placed at our disposal, it was resolved to use the $500 solely for fish culture and planting, and not charge anything for our personal expenses, although the law permits such charge. The very parsimonious allowance was too small to do much with, and we resolved to use what little there was in actual work, although this met opposition and was very reluctantly conceded by some of us.

The express charges on spawn cost about $50 per 100,000 eggs. We have no hatchery; no grounds with springs suitable to hatch fish. There are plenty of good springs in the State but we own none of them, and for the present will be compelled to hire the hatching done. We expect 500,000 eggs of California salmon from Prof. Baird, U. S. Fish Commissioner, which we will start to hatch in October. If we had means to pay for spawn we would procure French carp, grayling, black bass and other fish, but we are unable to purchase them. The fish commissioners of other States are full of generous expressions toward us. I have corresponded with some thirty of them, and they all wish us success and profuse assistance, but we are short, lamentably short, and until the next session of the legislature meet our garments in accordance with our cloth. Some time in December we will probably have 400,000 to plant, and will distribute them where they will do the most good. It will afford me great personal gratification to be able to supply you and your friends with your proportion. Our president, W. L. May, is now cast, and at my suggestion will do all he can, as a Nebraska pauper, to beg spawn and fry from the hatcheries of other States, and probably he may succeed in procuring a goodly number. If we succeed in hatching, and buying, we look for 1,000,000 fry for this year's plant, and from this amount expect to be able to make a fair distribution.

There is no more profitable work on earth than the water farming. The rapid increase of weight of the fry is marvelous, and whoever undertakes to open ponds will make a great profit if he attends to securing the necessities to success. We hope to make such showing in our reports as will induce the legislature to be more liberal with us hereafter. A hatchery will cost for grounds, say $300; for hatching house, troughs, pipes, screens, etc., $750; expressage on 3,000,000 spawn per annum, $1,500; personal expenses of commissioners, say $150 each, $450; and we have permanent investment in hatching and ponds, $1,050; annual expenditure, $1,500, requiring an appropriation of $3,000 for 1881, and $1,850 for 1882. These figures are small compared with what has been done in other States, but there is no use in having any commission without a State hatchery, etc. I have put the figures very low for it. There should also be an appropriation for a superintendent and at least one or two hands to help him, for the reason that the hatching, to be useful, should be under the care of a competent fish culturist, with sufficient help to watch the water, keep the eggs clean and feed the fry, etc. Excuse this long word, but you see while we have a Fish Commission for which the people expect something, these figures will show you how inadequate we are supplied with means to accomplish much.

And now my dear Governor, let me talk to you a little about this fish business—let me ask you as an old friend to throw your good will in with ours towards educating the people of Nebraska to sustain this laudable effort towards stocking our streams with food fish. Five years work will plant, say 10,000,000 fry, and allowing 20 per cent. to be destroyed by predatory fish, we have 8,000,000 fish, averaging five pounds each, at the end of five years work. This will give you 40,000,000 lbs of the cheapest kind of food, and bear in mind, that by the end of three years the fish planted will be spawning and increasing their kinds, so that the above estimate does not include the "planting" of fish. This system of work is producing most wonderful effects in other States, and it would do you good to read the reports of the superintendents and commissioners of other States, of which I have received a large number. One case of water farming will give a fish farmer more money than 100 acres in grain or fruit. The figures sound and look fabulous, but the report as shown in reports, speak out in meeting and show that ly how much cheap and wholesome food may be provided for a people by a reasonable expenditure. Let us all pull together in this good work, and bless the poor and the rich alike by giving them the one cheap food and the other healthful and exhilarating sport. We cannot expect to accomplish such miracles as the fishermen of Galicia did, but we can at least try. I should be pleased to correspond with any of your friends, and do all in my power to assist them in increasing our fish supply. Anything I can do is at your service. Do not hesitate to command me in any way. I shall take it as a favor, and derive much gratification in aiding you or your friends in any way in this business of water farming.

By the way, there is to be a meeting in Chicago early in October, under the lead of Fred. Mather, for the purpose of forming a national organization of all interested in fish culture, and I hope you will attend. I shall send you the notice as soon as published.

In conclusion do not set anything in this rough letter as sheer enthusiasm; read the results of other States, and join hands with me in working out this task.
I am greatly delighted at your shoofly talk and organizing for the protection of game and fish. In this young State a timely application of such law will provide abundance of game for the future.
With kindest regards, I am yours,
R. R. LIVINGSTON.

The following, one of the resolutions adopted by the late Pennsylvania Republican State convention, should be a plank in every Republican platform:
Resolved, 1st. That the Republican party again stand for and forward for the defense of human rights, after a struggle lasting through a generation, finds itself confronted by the same foes of federal unity, political liberty, and National honor which it has so often overthrown in civil contest and armed conflict.
2d. That we appeal to the Union loving people of Pennsylvania, to arrest by their votes the mad career of the Democratic party, which insists upon placing the National Government under the dominion of the men who lately fought to destroy it, and who are now plotting to give triumph to the doctrine they failed to establish in the field—the establishment of State Sovereignty by the overthrow of National Supremacy.

No doubt Mr. Broady would make a better race than any one the Democrats could nominate; but he nor any of them can be elected, if the Republican delegates of the district will go to the convention determined to give a "fair deal." We wish Judge Ponce could be re-elected easily over Mr. Broady or any other Democrat. And then we have two Republicans down this way—Judges Stull and Schick—either of whom could carry the Republican vote of Nemaha, and stand fair, we believe, in the district.
Says the Ponca Journal: As an instance whether farming pays in Nebraska, we cite the prosperity of Geo. Kohls, who lives in Cedar county. He now has 1,400 acres of land, a splendid house, barns and outbuildings, 100 head of cattle, 100 sheep, 17 horses and 100 hogs. He markets every season a large amount of farm produce, his sales of cattle almost last season amounting to $4,000. Since nominations for Regents of the University seem to be in order, it strikes us that we may as well suggest a man.
