At Howard 11th inst. HOWARD, Sept. 7th, 1880.

Please make room to say in this week's issue of your paper, as it has a large circulation in the west part of the county that the Republicans of Lafayette precinct expect to have a rousing meeting at Howard, Saturday evening, September 11th, at which time Hon. L. M. Hayward, of Nebraska City will address the Garfield club, also Capt. Mitchell will be there if the health of his family will permit.

Let us say a word as regards the "Great Democratic Barbecue" at Howard September 4th. There was perhaps nearly one thousand people present, of which one-half were Republicans. But we do not think the local committees did their duty very well, considering the weather. The first speaker was Senator Tipton. He merely recited to us what he said to us here a few weeks ago—State rights doctrine of course. Well who says that the States have no rights; Republicans say their rights are limited by the constitution of the United States.

Only he added that while the Republicans were so down on Southern Brigadiers holding office, why it was that Gen. Longstreet and Mosby were ministers to foreign country's they were Southern Brigadiers said in his funny way to "himself." He didn't tell us that they were among the first rebels to be reconstructed and their speeches at that time had a different ring to that of Wade Hampton at Stanton a short time ago, Republicans knew the reason. Baker from Pennsylvania, next spoke, he wanted us to support the idea that he was from Pennsylvania. Well if he was, we failed to see anything uncommon about him. He was sure Hancock would be elected because he was from Pennsylvania, and proud of him he was too. He didn't say how proud he was of Buchanan, also a Pennsylvanian. How he did eulogize Lincoln, Sumner, Chase, Stanton, Greeley and other founders of the Republican party, we thought of what Democrats said of these men in 1863-64. What did the Democrats say in their platform during the darkest days of the war. "We declare the war a failure, etc." This eulogy business is a trick to catch weak kneed Republicans. As to Broady's speech, we're tired of such, and didn't hear it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McGee left for Chicago Monday, for the purpose of purchasing for the fall and winter trade the largest and best stock of goods ever brought to this market. Mrs. M. knowing best the wants of the ladies, will personally superintend the purchasing of such goods as will not fail to delight them. Persons wishing dry goods, or clothing for winter wear, will do well to await the arrival of this mammoth stock of goods.

Attention Smokers. T. L. Jones has ordered the largest stock of fine cigars ever brought to this market. Come and see him.

Another Success. What are those soul-reviving strains that echo thus from Salem's plains?

Notwithstanding the driving rain, our convention commenced on Tuesday, the day announced in our circulars.

There was mud in front of us, mud in the rear of us, and at the right of us, mud at the left of us, mud down under us; yes, and mud all over us.

Part First. 1. Glee, "Our Western Home." 2. Cantata, "Life in the Scenes." 3. Song, "Fris of Orders Grey."

Part Second. 1. Opera Chorus, "Now the roll of the Drum." 2. Ballad and Refrain, "Miss Crouch in Solo."

3. Four part song in Chorus. 4. Quartette, "Vesper Bell." 5. Hymn, "Praise to Thee." 6. Song, "Let me like a Soldier Fall."

7. Song, "Three Fishers." 8. Duett, "When Life is Brightest." 9. Glee, "There's a good time coming."

10. Cantata, "Daughter of Error." This programme was performed to the perfect delight of all present, and the audience was large and appreciative.

Next we make mention of Miss Eva Ransom, who instead of a violin solo, sang a ballad, in which she displayed great power of voice, and was loudly applauded by the audience.

The opera chorus, with Miss Dillon as obligato soloist, was a gem. In the first place, the music is so bright and the singing so cheerful, and solo so sparkling, that it is almost dazzling in its effect.

Part second opened with a stirring opera chorus, after which Miss Ella Crouch gave us a ballad, "Old Friends are gone." Miss Crouch has a pure contralto voice of rare sweetness, and sang with an intensity of feeling that reached every one in the house.

"Let me like a Soldier Fall" was a tenor solo sung by L. F. Hitt. Mr. Hitt in this showed his great voice to good effect. All in all, Mr. Hitt is an enjoyable singer.

"The Three Fishers" by Miss Abbey was well handled. Miss Abbey, in the hand of an able teacher, could in time be a fine singer.

"When Life is Brightest" was finely handled by Misses Dillon and Crouch; and now last but certainly not least, "Daughter of Errors" appears with Miss Ina Dillon as Daughter of Errors. In this as in every other effort of hers, Miss Dillon is more than equal to her demand. She delights us with her pure and perfect singing; her tones so even and pure; her words so distinct; her manners so unassuming; everything so free from that languishing, sentimentalism so often indulged in by singers of greater pretensions, that we felt elevated and bettered by every song we heard her sing.

The choruses were all excellent, and scarcely a piece was performed during the evening from the songs, to the heaviest chorus, but was the recipient of vociferous applause.

Rev. B. Lawler, pastor of the Baptist church at Salem, and a member of the executive committee, was present opening the morning sessions by reading appropriate scripture lessons, and offering "prayers and praise to Almighty God." Would there were more ministers like him. In his remarks to the convention and audience, near the close of the concert, he said: "It is very rare that we see so much of devotion, so much enthusiasm, so much ability to bring great results from little means as we find in Prof. Worley, our successful director; and may God bless him in this field of labor, for which he is by nature, and acquirement, so peculiarly qualified."

It will be seen by reading the State ticket that our stalwart fellow-citizen, Col. Tom Majors, again received the nomination for Contingent Congressman. Mr. Lamberton in placing the name of Col. Majors before the convention, said:

I think it is desirable to put in nomination by the convention a contingent congressman. Under the constitution of 1870 the state has been entitled to an additional member of congress, but the right has been denied by a democratic congress. I trust the next congress will be republican and in that case the just claim of the state under the census of 1870 and the census of 1880 will be recognized. It is wise, therefore, to be prepared; and the man whom we ought to nominate is the man who has spent time and his money—more than any other man in the state—to secure the state. I nominate the Hon. Thos. Majors, of Nemaha, as a candidate for contingent congressman.

Mr. Jim Laird, of Juniata, seconded the nomination, and said: "Whatever may have been the political differences in this state, there is no man but will bear cheerful testimony to the fact that at all times, sacrificing business and personal interests, Mr. Majors has been ready to go wherever his party summoned him, and in his whole course of action he has never been found lacking (loud and prolonged cheering). We have come to know him—some of us in the occasional wholesome knock-downs which come to men who engage in the political arena (laughter). We have met him, and sometimes we have been his. He has met us, and sometimes he has been ours. It is the fortune of our warfare; but we have all come to respect Tom Majors, and therefore I cheerfully and heartily second his nomination."

The motion to nominate Col. Majors by acclamation was carried unanimously; and the nominee being called, stood up in the aisle and said:

Mr. Chairman, and gentlemen of the convention: I remember two years ago—perhaps four years ago it was, when I first received the nomination for contingent, or additional congressman for the state of Nebraska. I remember that at that time, or shortly afterward, I happened to be in Lincoln, and I was introduced by a friend of mine to a German friend in my official style. The German friend did not get it exactly, and pondered for a moment, then he said: "All Tom Majors—not is our declining congressman." (Laughter and cheers.) Gentlemen of the convention, I am thankful indeed of this delinquency. (Cheers.)
