

Lincoln is full of reformed soaks just now—Lincoln Democrat.

The Democrat man prides himself on being counted with the peddler, blue-eyed, foul-mouthed snarled "soaks."

Tom and Bill went up the hill To get a jug of water; Bill fell down And broke his crown And Tom came tumbling after.

A bill is before the Ohio legislature to allow persons having qualifications of electors, without regard to sex, to vote on the question of suppressing the liquor traffic on July 4th next.

He who is a gutter snipe one day and a temperance apostle the next, cannot expect to have the respect of decent people; neither will he have it or get it.—Lincoln Democrat.

Hence the Democrat man proposes to remain a gutter snipe.

The public debt statement issued the 1st inst., shows the increase during January to be $7,282,822.71; cash in treasury, $229,674,333.08; gold certificates, $65,414,800; silver certificates, $4,800,220; certificates of deposits outstanding, $3,000,000; refunding certificates, $867,250; legal tenders outstanding, $949,381.018.

The census shows that, notwithstanding the difficulties under which it labored, the south increased wonderfully in population in the last ten years.

The anti-Padlock held a caucus this evening, and forty men pledged themselves not to vote for Padlock, under any circumstances, also, that each faction would stand firmly and carefully for its candidate, in the election that the Padlocks would hold.

Will Rex deny the truth of that statement? We presume not, for every man in that caucus would swear to its correctness.

The next mention of the names of Daily and Reymann occurs in the description of the scenes enacted upon the 16th ballot—the next one after the above compact was made, as follows:

But before the secretary announced the result, Daily rose from his seat and surprised all by his accession to the compact. What a pledge word!

The farmers of the State are now rapidly organizing themselves into Alliances, and THE ADVERTISER has a word to say to the present legislature in their behalf.

Is there where the attack comes in, or was it in the following: The majority concluded that Van Wyck, who had charged the men from Dunly to Padlock, hit the nail on the head by exclaiming: "Trajectory, trajectory; but they can't deliver the goods."

Didn't Van Wyck say that? An opera house full of people will say that he did use those words—then and there hurling "trajectory" into Daily's face.

The next reference to the much attacked gentlemen is this: The members of the caucus were highly incensed at Daily, Reymann, and others, who violated the compact of the night previous.

Is there any attack in that very presumable fact? Will Rex say the members of the caucus were not highly incensed over the violation of a compact entered into on the honor of gentlemen? We know not. The next and last mention Rex makes to the "attacks" is his allusion to the caucus in which Van Wyck was nominated. He says:

The anti-Padlock forces held another caucus, sixty-two members answered to their names. Nemaha county washers represented by Church Howe, Van Wyck, Weaver, Mason and Post, were summoned to the caucus. They all pledged themselves and their supporters to the nominee of this caucus. BROWNVILLE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1881. VOL. 25.—NO. 34.

ESTABLISHED 1856. Oldest Paper in the State.

No gentleman, tho' he MAY be the tool of another, would under the circumstances attending the nomination of the members of the Legislature in this county, dare to make such an attack as the Advertiser hurls broadcast over the land at our respected citizens, Daily and Reymann, and no editor except "Wash Fairbrother," and he, not without having said himself, "BODY, MIND AND SOUL, to another, to bolster up his declining fortunes, would dare to insult the republicans of this county as he has done by publishing that article.

The foregoing is an extract from a communication, signed "Rex," written, however, by T. L. Schick, in the Sheridan Post of the 3d inst. Mr. Schick seems to have become unusually surcharged with wind, during his week's absence, so that when he arrived at home, he without delay hied away to the center of the county and emptied himself into his organ. The people here are to be congratulated that he didn't do it in Brownville.

The "attack" on Daily and Reymann, that Mr. Schick refers to, was contained in our Lincoln letter published in THE ADVERTISER of the 27th ult. Mr. S. writes three-fourths of a column believing that Wash Fairbrother and his correspondent had made an outrageous, malicious and false attack upon Daily and Reymann. Any reasoning man must see at a glance that the writer's object was not to inform but to misinform, for had it been otherwise he would have taken up the points of attack as made by our correspondent and proved them to be untrue; or, but this been too much of an undertaking, he could at least have denied them, and placed his assertion against that of Rix, our Lincoln correspondent. But he does neither, and leaves his readers in the dark as to the matter and manner of that "outrageous attack."

Now then, let us hunt up a copy of THE ADVERTISER of the 27th ult. and see what Rix says that causes Rex to pester Rix reviews the scenes, ballots and caucuses of the Senatorial fight. The first mention he makes of Daily and Reymann is in his reference to what took place on Friday evening after the 16th ballot. He says:

The anti-Padlocks held a caucus this evening, and forty men pledged themselves not to vote for Padlock, under any circumstances, also, that each faction would stand firmly and carefully for its candidate, in the election that the Padlocks would hold. Daily and Reymann were in this caucus, and solemnly pledged their word and honor not to vote for Padlock. We shall see how well they kept this pledge.

Will Rex deny the truth of that statement? We presume not, for every man in that caucus would swear to its correctness. The next mention of the names of Daily and Reymann occurs in the description of the scenes enacted upon the 16th ballot—the next one after the above compact was made, as follows:

But before the secretary announced the result, Daily rose from his seat and surprised all by his accession to the compact. What a pledge word! As the eighth man, Reymann, rose, and changed from Dunly to Padlock (another broken pledge).

Is there where the attack comes in, or was it in the following: The majority concluded that Van Wyck, who had charged the men from Dunly to Padlock, hit the nail on the head by exclaiming: "Trajectory, trajectory; but they can't deliver the goods."

Didn't Van Wyck say that? An opera house full of people will say that he did use those words—then and there hurling "trajectory" into Daily's face.

The next reference to the much attacked gentlemen is this: The members of the caucus were highly incensed at Daily, Reymann, and others, who violated the compact of the night previous.

Is there any attack in that very presumable fact? Will Rex say the members of the caucus were not highly incensed over the violation of a compact entered into on the honor of gentlemen? We know not. The next and last mention Rex makes to the "attacks" is his allusion to the caucus in which Van Wyck was nominated. He says:

The anti-Padlock forces held another caucus, sixty-two members answered to their names. Nemaha county washers represented by Church Howe, Van Wyck, Weaver, Mason and Post, were summoned to the caucus. They all pledged themselves and their supporters to the nominee of this caucus. After some debate, it was determined that a two-thirds vote should nominate Daily now asked admittance, and said he desired to explain his course of the morning. He said he desired to acquit Dunly of all blame—that he knew nothing whatever of the movement of the morning, but that himself (Daily) was misled by politicians (We understand Majors and Hitchcock were said politicians, that he was sorry for what he had done and begged the caucus to forgive him. On mention of Church Howe, the caucus "forgave him." Daily was so "worked up," while explaining, that he spoke freely. He didn't excite much sympathy, as Dr. Taylor of Washington brought the caucus to laughter by exclaiming: "Damn it, this is no classmeeting." The members of the caucus then told Daily that, inasmuch as he had broken his word once, they would add his signature to a pledge, as assurance of good faith. As the other members were not requested to sign their names, Daily refused, and was requested to withdraw, which he did, instantly. A ballot was then taken, and, as the votes were being counted, Reymann, who had escaped from his keepers, was admitted, just in time to save his right of suffrage.

Now in every relation and statement that our correspondent makes he is corroborated by every newspaper respondent or editor that was on the ground and personally cognizant of the events connected with the Senatorial contest, especially as to Mr. Daily, he being the leader of the Dundy squad attracted more attention than did Mr. Reymann. Yet in some or all of our quotations from Rix he "attacks Daily and Reymann," and "Wash Fairbrother insults the Republicans of the county by publishing the article." Now, the question with the last named gentleman, who is the tool of another, is contained in our Lincoln letter published in THE ADVERTISER of the 27th ult. Mr. S. writes three-fourths of a column believing that Wash Fairbrother and his correspondent had made an outrageous, malicious and false attack upon Daily and Reymann. Any reasoning man must see at a glance that the writer's object was not to inform but to misinform, for had it been otherwise he would have taken up the points of attack as made by our correspondent and proved them to be untrue; or, but this been too much of an undertaking, he could at least have denied them, and placed his assertion against that of Rix, our Lincoln correspondent. But he does neither, and leaves his readers in the dark as to the matter and manner of that "outrageous attack."

Now then, let us hunt up a copy of THE ADVERTISER of the 27th ult. and see what Rix says that causes Rex to pester Rix reviews the scenes, ballots and caucuses of the Senatorial fight. then realized that his warfare did not mean Church Howe alone, but war to the knife also on all who dared to be friendly with Howe or treat him with the respect and courtesy due him and the position in which the people had elected him. Therefore Mr. Daily must abide by the record he has made and was so anxious to make, whether it be good or bad; and THE ADVERTISER will give it due publicity. Mr. Daily has utterly failed in his assumed role of "crusader," and he stands in the State in bad repute as a politician. This is his present record. Were it not that he has forced himself into this position against the interest of his people and the advice of his friends we could eat an onion and sleep with him, but under the circumstances we couldn't pump from the briny depths a single spungethetic tear.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS. Jas. Farrell was shot and killed recently by the Marshal of Pueblo, Co. Three children were recently burned to death at Sumter S. C. by the explosion of a coal oil lamp.

At Gaines Landing, La., last week, E. J. Osterhaus and J. L. Schroeder, prominent merchants of N. O., quarreled about a bale of cotton, and the former was killed.

The heaviest storm of the season visited the Atlantic coast about the 1st inst., doing great damage.

Extensive rains and unprecedented floods are reported from California.

At Piqua, Ohio, 31st ult. Wash Harburg, a dentist, quarrelled with his wife, and then shot and killed her. He then went to his room and killed himself. They left three children to battle with the world.

At Decatur, Ill., 1st inst. John A. Hornstein attempted to kill his wife, and then severed his own jugular vein with a wood saw, and bled to death. The trouble was, he was 57 years old and his wife 18.

Plymouth, Va., was recently nearly wholly destroyed by fire—the result of a kerosene explosion. 400 bales of cotton were burned.

Mrs. Rose Love perished in a burning building at Grand Rapids, last week. S. F. Brumde, suicided, at Geneva Lake, Wis., 31st ult. by hanging.

A Michigan Angel. An angel was described by certain respectable persons, at the Seventh Day Adventists' Tabernacle, Battle Creek, Mich., on New Year's eve. It appeared at a large window, and was distinctly seen for at least a minute. The attention of those present was attracted toward it by a brilliant light which streamed through the window. It is described as dressed in flowing white garments and a halo about its head, from which radiated the most brilliant light—so bright that those who looked at it were dazzled, being unable to take their gaze from it until it disappeared as suddenly as it appeared.

A Blizzard. "A blizzard," says a Dakota man, "is the northwestern name for a gale of wind filled with snow and by particles, as fine as fine powder, with a temperature ten or twenty degrees below zero. A genuine blizzard is so fierce and dense that you can neither see it or distinguish objects ten feet away from you. In Dakota and Minnesota during the prevalence of the blizzard farmers only venture out of their houses with guiding ropes around their persons, to enable them to find their way back."

Speaking of the legislators who were in the caucus that nominated Van Wyck, the Lincoln Globe says: "Eighty-one members of the Nebraska legislature can neither be bought nor sold. That caucus was composed of Church Howe and sixty other members. But the Globe has all along insisted that Howe had been bought up by two railroads. The Globe misleads us.—William Weaver.

We see that our former fellow citizen, Hon. A. S. Stewart of the U. S. land office at Deadwood, is favorably mentioned as a candidate for U. S. Senator from the new State of Dakota. The Doctor is an active Republican and fully competent for the position.—Tennessean Chronicle.

Church Howe has left for Nebraska City in response to a special invitation from the citizens of that city asking him to be present at the Van Wyck boom to-night. Church will be there. He has stuck to the boom too long to neglect it now.—Lincoln Journal.

A rare instance of bovine fecundity was presented to the astonished gaze of Frank Heffer this morning when he visited his stables and discovered three little dead calves, all the offspring of his favorite Durham.—Fauquier Press.

Hon. Church Howe, on Saturday morning, greatly accelerated the Van Wyck boom by one of the neatest and most graceful speeches we have heard in a year of Sundays.—Central City Item.

Hon. Wm. Daily should drink a quart of yeast, rise above the trajectory of politicians, and politely tell them to go—to—to—h—alifax.—Pawnee Republican.
