WILLING BROS. & JORDAN.

There has been rumors of a family drowning across the river, but from the best information we can get there has been no person drowned up to this date in this region of country.

Mr. Phillippi, Superintendent of the B. & M. was down to this city this week and purchased all the stone he could get, for riprapping the river banks on the line of his road at this place.

Clothing, Clothing, Clothing at Dolen's, Dolen's, Dolen's, for men, for men, for men and boys and boys and boys.

The river at this rise has been about fifteen inches higher than it was in 1843; which up to this rise was the highest since the first settlement of this country by white men.

Mr. George Harmon resided where he now does in 1843, and noted the rise then and every big rise since. In 1867 it rose to within one foot of his '43 mark, the highest rise since '43 until the present one.

DOLEN'S BAZAR OF FASHION.

Ladies, call at Dolen's and see his new and nobby wraps, the newest in the market.

We notice in the Omaha papers that some one from Brownville has been writing up the Tanner case, and every sentence of the whole article shows the prejudice of the writer.

While we do not wish to take sides in the controversy, we feel it our duty to protest against the means that are being used to prejudice the people, be fore the trial. Mr. Tanner has given a good bond for his appearance at court and will no doubt be on hand for trial, and he is, as all men are, entitled to a candid hearing, and we say let him have it. It is time enough to form our opinions after we have heard the sworn testimony.

From the Nemaha Times.

Levi Johnson, J. J. Bender, Dr. Andrews, Dr. Kay, Rabe Elliott, Mr. Losie and others have been setting out shade trees this week. This is a good work, and we hope others will follow the example, until our streets are lined with shade trees.

Having dropped in at J. L. McGee's, Brownville, we saw one of the largest and finest stocks of goods in this country. It certainly is the place to buy.

Last Saturday the public square was staked off, and our citizens began setting out shade trees, and the square is now well filled with trees. Walks were laid out, twenty-five feet in width, from each corner of the square to the center, where there is a space left without trees. The space between the walks is filled with forest trees of various kinds. Around the square, outside of the space left for a sidewalk, is also a row of trees. The square will be fenced in immediately to protect the trees.

Incidents of the Flood.

The wreckers have been doing well, catching much wood, many saw logs, railroad ties, bridge timbers etc.

Nace Cochran caught a pig floating down the river. It was alive and all right.

Jim Johnson and Fremont Strong had quite a race after a pelican, but they captured it alive. Measured a foot from "tip to tip" of wings.

The ferry boat went up Sunday last, about three miles on the Missouri side, and brought over Geo. Thompson's cattle—They had a rather damp time getting to the boat.

The water, Sunday, threatened to wash away some of the railroad track just above town, and Mr. Harris the agent and operator went up and secured it with wire and stakes.

Mike Barada, in command of the Government flat boat, went down Saturday and helped the Pennys to get their goods and stock to the bluffs.

The telegraph operator at Nemaha, said to this station Friday, "I am wading around in six inches of water on my office floor."

The farms on the bottom between Brownville and Nemaha are all flooded and it is doubtful if even a crop of corn can be raised this year on any of them. But they may be able to do something by June.

Mr. Hawes, sold his 200 acre farm on the bottom below this city to Mr. Beard for $500. The place is well improved, and has good timber worth double the money paid.

One man on the Nishna lost forty head of fat cattle in trying to swim them across the stream. He drove them in above a bridge that was full of water to the floor, and they were swept under it and all drowned.

Mike Barada, Nate Vanlavan, and all the other oarsmen and river men have been very efficient in hunting up imperiled people on the river bottom and putting them safely on dry land.

The government flat and skiffs in charge of Mike Barada went down on the bottom below Phelps, Mo., Tuesday and brought up about forty men women and children and considerable baggage.

The steam ferry brought over about 400 head of cattle from one point on the Missouri side, about three miles above Brownville.

Well watered farms for sale. Enquire of any one on the Missouri bottoms.

F. P. Tenney and his fruit trees are beyond the great waters.

The Nebraska City and Weir breaking plows are for sale by Dundas & Miller.

Last Sunday we stood on Kearney heights and looked over one mighty expanse of water, and in the language of that other great man who first set eyes on the Mississippi we exclaimed, "Thunder what a stream."

Dr. Opperman visited Humboldt last Sunday and operated upon the eyes of John Schmelgel very successfully. The doctor reports John doing well.

"Trust in the Lord and do good and so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed," is a trite quotation from Bible songs, and in it the good people of Sheridan are resting their hopes. But in our opinion it don't boom us worth a cent, for if it don't mean over the hill to the poor house it certainly does over the hill to Akron.

Dave Day is going about town telling folks that it is a boy.

A. Brodfield has moved out to a farm in Bedford precinct.

Resolved, that man is not morally justifiable in voting the "straight ticket," was discussed by the Franklin Literary Society last Friday night.

A Literary Revolution Challenge.

The old-line publishers have, very naturally, not been well pleased with the new famous enterprise, "The Literary Revolution;" and in depreciation of its character have laid special stress upon the claim that in cheapening books so vastly it is against the interests of American authors. The Revolution boldly meets this assertion by statements as follows: 1st. That they are already paying to American authors more money than any other publishing house that is less than twenty-five years established. 2d. That American authors rarely receive from publishers a copyright exceeding 10 per cent upon the retail price of their books actually sold. 3d. That at least one-half, and probably more nearly three-fourths of the books published by American author's expense, the publishers furnishing no money, and paying no copyright, but themselves receiving a large percentage upon sales made. 4th. That they propose hereafter to pay to American authors for acceptable manuscripts a copyright of 15 per cent, instead of 10 per cent, and they claim that their low prices, and immense sales resulting therefrom, are far more in the interest of authors than much larger copyright on the commonly limited number of sales. "One thousand books, profit $1.00 each—$1,000. One million books, profit one cent each—$10,000."

As an example of an American copyright book, they issue, in an exceedingly handsome form, the famous poetical, historical, and satirical American classic, "M'Fingal, an Epic Poem," by John Trumbull, with very full annotations by the celebrated historian Benson J. Lossing, LL. D. This poem is almost as much a part of American history as the battle of Bunker Hill itself, and Dr. Lossing has greatly increased both its interest and its intrinsic value by his historical comments and illustrations. This book was published a few years ago by one of the old publishing houses at the price of $2.00 per copy, and had only a very limited sale. The publishers claim that the reception of their new edition guarantees a sale of at least 50,000, or even more probably 100,000 copies; and Lossing well, of course, reap a handsome reward, even from the small royalty upon the low price, American Book Exchange, Publishers, New York City.
