The two saloons in this city—one by Phil. Fraker and one by Jake Rauschkolb—closed their doors on the thirty public at noon on the 23d inst. They were selling under license from the city council given last May in accordance with the old liquor law. They each paid $500 license and gave bond in one thousand dollars. They hoped that the Slocumb law would be declared unconstitutional, and had a strong, unshaken faith in what their lawyer told them, that if it were not so declared, a license under the old law, before the new law became operative, would hold good the year for which taken. All this has proved a delusion. The recent decision of the Supreme Court has done what THE ADVERTISER tried but failed to do—demonstrate that liquor selling under the old law was a continuous offense against the State, subjecting those engaged in it to the pains and penalties of the real law. Those saloons, however, have been patiently tolerated, notwithstanding the conflict waged between temperance and drunkard making, until the pending decision of the highest authority could be had. When that was made known it was expected that the saloons would close at once, and until they could open under the Slocumb law. After waiting a reasonable length of time for them to close, and it appearing that unless some action was taken to close them they would continue to break and defy the law, some of the leading men of the city resolved to take immediate steps to have the law respected and enforced in this regard, and to this end employed J. H. Broady, Esq. While there might be any number of finable cases brought against the saloon keepers, who have been heaping offense upon offense since the first day of June, Mr. Broady was instructed to notify them that if they would stop now, and continue closed until they can open their saloons according to the only law there is regulating their business, the employers of Mr. Broady will institute no arrests or suits for past violations, letting by-gones be by-gones. So as stated, our saloons are closed, and THE ADVERTISER hopes the compact will be honorably kept, so that there may be no occasion for strife, bitterness, arrests and fines.

Hay Rakes, Coffins and Lace Curtains, by Stevenson & Cross.

One more lady made happy by taking one of the Crown Sewing Machines at J. L. McGee's.

If you want grapes for jell, canning, putting up, leave your orders at Stevenson & Cross.

LOCAL PERSONALS.

J. L. McGee is in St. Joe this week.

Lon. Jones is able to be out again after a short spell of sickness.

Mr. J. Rauschkolb, of the Beer Halle, started to New York Monday last.

Wash. Hacker sends us a specimen ear of his corn ten inches in length.

Alf. Burnette, of Brownville, purchased a beautiful residence lot Tuesday.—Calvert Courier.

P. J. Hite, Esq., started last Thursday on a visit to Martinsville, Ind., to be gone several weeks.

Miss Celia Furnas who has been spending a month past with her sister at Osceola, returned last week.

Rev. H. O. Scott, who has been enjoying a vacation at his old home in Pennsylvania, returned home Tuesday.

Mrs. Weeber and the baby are spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. W. Furnas of this city.

Mrs. W. S. Clark and baby, and master Charley, of Nemaha, were in the city Friday last having baby's picture taken.

Misses Kate and Sallie Cox, of Humboldt, Neb., and Miss Pratt, of Jacksonville, Ill., are visiting with the family of D. O. Cross.

Mr. J. Clark Odell, one of the best carpenters in the State, is now getting out the wood work for a fine brick house for the farm of Mr. Wm. McIninch.

Grandma McComas, who has been on the invalid list for the past four or five weeks, by reason of a badly sprained foot, we are glad to know, is able to be around again.

Mr. M. L. Emery, of Podunk, was in the city Monday night this week. He brought us some specimen ears of corn grown on the farm of Simon Robinson, one of which was a foot long and perfectly grained. Plenty of corn in this county.

John S. Hughes—old settlers of this vicinity, Nemaha, Bedford, and Benton, will remember with kindly feelings, "Uncle John," as he was called. Levi Hughes informs us that the old gentleman departed this life at Dayton, Yamhill county, Oregon, on the 22d of July, 1881, aged 84 years.

Mr. George Berlin, having purchased Mr. Beech's interest in the barbershop of Berlin & Beech, is again the sole proprietor of that splendid shop. Mr. Berlin informs us that within a day or so he will have in his employ new first-class workmen that will, he hopes, give perfect satisfaction to the public.

G. W. Taylor, one of the legal lights of Brownville, spent last night in the city, the guest of the printers. Mr. T. came out for the purpose of assisting A. E. Ewan, Esq., in the prosecution of the case of Harms vs. Boyle, sustaining his reputation as an able lawyer. Mr. Taylor was a former practitioner of Sidney, Iowa, and his good name there has followed him to this county.—Calvert Courier.

We state from reliable authority that Wm. T. Rogers, Esq., who removed from this place last fall to Sherman, Texas, will be a citizen of Nemaha county again within the next 30 days. William is most thoroughly and permanently disgusted with Texas. And there is no place like "The Garden County." His old friends will give him and his good family a most cordial greeting.

Fruit Jars, low prices, STEVENSON & CROSS.

MARRIED:—In this city, on Sunday, August 21st, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Elder Rowe, Mr. D. C. DOVEL and Miss MARY SCHANTZ.

We wish Mr. and Mrs. D. a long, prosperous and happy married life.

Stevenson & Cross carry a line of goods that no other house in Nebraska carries—always glad to see old customers and new, and prices will be found as low as goods can possibly be sold.

Farm for rent, joining Nemaha City—60 acres under cultivation. Inquire at this office.

We are doing a large trade in queensware and glassware. If you need any get our prices. We will save you money. STEVENSON & CROSS.

The boom has struck Dolen. He is selling lots of goods.

Furniture, large stock, low prices. Stevenson & Cross.

FOR BARGAINS

In Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Groceries and Millinery Goods go to John McNeal. Lowman's stand.

DRAKE'S LITTLE GIANT POST,

Patented Oct. 15, 1872, by A. B. DRAKE, Clay Center, Kas.

Letter A represents a post, which has the iron rod B inserted at its foot, and thence extending perpendicularly downward to a sufficient length to secure a hold in the ground, where the said rod is bent at a right angle and is extended thence horizontally as far as necessary to secure the required firmness, and then it is bent upward at an acute angle to connect with the upper portion of the post A, and forms a firm base there with, as shown in the cut. If deemed necessary, a stone or block of wood, or other substance, may be placed upon the horizontal portion of the rod, or the excavation may be partly filled with cement. The posts or setting will be found to stand with unusual firmness and permanence.

Which the severe Frosts Will not effect in the least.

Fence posts used in connection with this improved setting may be made much lighter than usual, and the improvement is admirably adapted to various other uses besides fencing.

Manufactured and sold by

WM. ROSSELL.

Last Sunday we were hustled into a wagon with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Sanders, G. W. F. jr. wife and babies, and were soon carried twelve miles away when we found ourselves at the much talked about town of Calvert. This was our first visit to that piece of beautiful prairie land since it has been chosen as the spot upon which to build a city that shall overshadow rivals and competitors. It is the child of the B. & M. land Company, and is at present being fostered with jealous care by the influence and money of that strong combination. At the conception of Calvert it had no expectations for nourishment beyond that furnished by the B. & M. railroad, and no dread of a rival interior town. But since that event the serenity and confidence of the new town has been interrupted, and its greatness threatened, by the encroachments of the B. & M.'s most formidable rival corporation. At once it was plain that if the M. P. should run by Calvert without giving it a depot and give the depot to Sheridan, only a short distance off, the latter town would have at least an equal chance with Calvert and therefore be a perpetual check to its growth. This being the situation for the past month a desperate struggle has been going on between Calvert and Sheridan for that depot. At this writing, the tide of success seems with Calvert. In fact we may say that our information is such as to warrant us in saying that the M. P. will take the Long Branch route, which means that Calvert will have the M. P. depot. That will give it two depots of the two strongest railroads in existence, and that will insure Calvert a greater future than were even dreamed of by its founders in their most sanguine moments.

Calvert is only about two months old, yet we found some 25 or 30 very respectable buildings erected; some of them finished and painted, while others are under way of completion. The residences are neat, and the business houses substantial—all much better than first buildings usually are in a new town. We may in some future article mention some of the buildings and other features of the enterprise of Calvert, that especially attracted our notice—have not time now.

We enjoyed our ride to the "center" very much, for there are beautiful lands, farms, residences, orchards, all along the road to delight the beholder. The corn crops generally that we saw, are better than we expected to see. Occasionally a field very late and very poorly planted will yield little beside fodder, but such fields are only a few exceptions to the general rule of 40 to 50 bushels to the acre.

Ladies, Dolen has the biggest and best line of shoes in the city. Call and see.

The law enacted by the last legislature, known as the Slocumb's high license bill, has been pronounced constitutional and valid by the state supreme court. From this decision there can be no appeal. While some of the features of this law are unreasonable and onerous, it becomes the duty of the law officers and courts to enforce its provisions as far as they can practically be enforced, until the law making power shall either repeal or modify it. The best way to get rid of a bad law is to enforce it.—Omaha Bee.

Don't forget to take in some of those fine teas and tea canisters at J. L. McGee's.

Be Wise and Happy.
If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cures—also, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments, you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it. See another column.

Since our last issue President Garfield has been, as we construe the bulletins, constantly sinking, and the people may be prepared to hear of his death at any moment. His pulse has for days stood at or near 100 and oftener above than below that mark, thus indicating a stage of fever that no mortal man can long endure. His stalwart physique of over two hundred pounds in health has become so emaciated that he would scarcely weigh 120. The parotid glands are swollen and he can scarcely open his mouth. He has not the strength to turn himself in his bed. That "chance" which the brave man said "we will take," is about gone. Words, prayers, skill, science, a Nation's love, all seem vain mockery against the natural results of Garfield's bullet.

Under date of July 8th, Governor St. John writes to a friend, in answer to an enquiry, as follows:

It is impossible for me to take the time to refute all the falsehoods that are put in circulation by the whiskey ring in relation to the working of the prohibition law in this state; suffice it to say once for all, that prohibition in Kansas as a whole is a grand success; in fact prohibition is absolute except in a few of the larger cities, and it will not be long until the backbone of the whiskey rebellion in these places will be broken. You need have no fear of the final result of prohibition in Kansas.

Immediately upon the announcement of the fact that the Slocumb law had been declared constitutional, every saloon in town closed its doors. Those of the saloon keepers who had some time ago taken steps toward taking out a license, proceeded at once to comply with all the requirements of the law, and on Monday evening three, of the twenty in our city, were running at full blast again, and well patronized. Several others are at present engaged in procuring petitions and bondsman, and in due time will open up again.—Grand Island Times.

The Secretary of the Interior and the Sioux and Ponca chiefs now in Washington, have agreed that each Ponca family shall have 640 acres of land and that each Ponca without a family shall have 60 acres. Red Cloud did the talking at the conference; and when he asked about Sitting Bull, Secretary Kirkwood said S. B. is still in charge of the war department, and the Interior has nothing to do with him yet.

All who visit Calvert express surprise at its rapid growth. But it is not to be wondered at when the fact is considered that wealth is at the bottom of every enterprise that has been undertaken. It takes money and energy to carry a project of any importance through, and of these requisites Calvert possesses the necessary amount.—Courier.

Brownville isn't howling about prospective railroads—because she hasn't anything particular to howl about. But her time will come, and don't you forget it.—ADVERTISER.

The same here brother, and when it does, will join you on the chorus and our noise can be heard from afar off.—Rock Port Journal.
