— T. C. Hacker, postmaster of Brownville, was a welcome caller at this office yesterday. "Dory," as he is familiarly known to his hosts of friends, is one of the pioneer printers of Nebraska, and as fine a fellow as ever broke spaces. The personal friendship between him and a number of Journal folks is of twenty years' standing.—State Journal.

— W. E. Wilson, well known as an educator in this State, has accepted the professorship of natural sciences in Coe College, Iowa. This college is under the care of the Presbyterian Synod of Iowa North. There is a preparatory department, and full classical and scientific courses. The grounds are within the city plat of Cedar Rapids, and are valued at $80,000. The building cost $20,000. A boarding hall, twenty-five rooms, for young women, is to be opened in December. Mr. Wilson was married this summer to Miss Flora Ramsdell of West Virginia.—Literary Notes.

— It is pleasant—and it looks like business to walk through the big dry goods stores of Brownville. J. L. McGee is stocked up equal to any precedent. His store room is so full that there is scarcely standing room, and goods still arriving, and his house is daily thronged with customers. See his big ad. for particulars.

McGee & Moore, always carrying a big stock, have added, during the last few days an immense amount of goods, and load upon load have been hauled up from the depot, and the clerks are as busy as they can be, opening, carrying in, assorting, marking, placing in position, and attending to the wants of customers that at all hours of the day and evening line their counters. This week they also open a five-thousand dollar stock of general merchandise at Calvert, to begin with, which will be continually augmenting as the trade demands. See the big ad. of McGee & Moore.

Stevenson & Cross, in their various lines are not excelled in south-eastern Nebraska, a section through a large portion of which their trade extends. They now display, certainly the most excellent selections of stoves, especially heating stoves, for coal or wood, ever brought to this market. They have recently made queensware a noticeable feature of their business.

Dolen is fully up with the times and the demands of the trade. He is now opening many cases of his superb and tasty selections so attractive to the ladies. There is, after all, always something "new under the sun" being made for ladies' apparel and decoration, and Dolen always has it. Read his new advertisement.

Tom Richards, of the "Regulator," has just returned from the east with a large stock of goods—hardware, stoves of all kinds and patterns, and everything else for the full trade.

— We have just received the finest, best and largest stock of heating stoves that was ever brought to this country, at prices that will sell them. Come and make your selections early.

STEVENSON & CROSS.

— Church Howe & Son, on Wednesday September 28th, will have a public sale, at Walnut Grove Stock Farm, Bedford precinct. The things to be sold consist of agricultural machinery, wagons, horses, cattle—sixty-two head of cattle, 24 of which are milk cows; the balance, 2 year old and 1 year old steers and heifers, and steer and heifer calves. See posters for details.

— Stevenson & Cross carry a line of goods that no other house in Nebraska carries—always glad to see old customers and new, and prices will be found as low as goods can possibly be sold.

— The concert of Miss Cora Gates, with her music class, on the evening of the 28th inst., promises to be a very pleasant affair, and will repay all who attend. In addition to an otherwise splendid programme, a quartette from Lincoln, composed of four of the most charming singers of that city, promise to be present and assist in the entertainment.

— We are doing a large trade in queensware and glassware. If you need any get our prices. We will save you money. STEVENSON & CROSS.

— The grand jury of the present term of court is as follows: Wm. Delay, H. D. Ewan, Fritz Oesterman, H. M. Stover, Asa Day, J. M. Campbell, Wm. Sutton, Moses Banks, John Bright, D. S. Hacker, Wm. Boatman, Jacob Good, foreman; Paul Perkins, Jas. Johnson, M. J. Fenn, Alfred Crane.

— School books, of every kind at Nickell's drugstore.

— An abscess has formed in the President's lungs, "not at all alarming." The parotid gland is real healthy. His original wound is "doing doing as well as could be expected." Pulse 105, temperature 99, respiration 20. Therefore he is "improving wonderfully."

— A nice line of guns just received at prices that will sell every time.

STEVENSON & CROSS.

Boarding House.

Opposite the Sherman House Brownville, Neb.

E. J. HAWKINS, Proprietor.

At this Boarding House, though not a hotel, Travelers and boarders are always used well; The proprietor and lady are jovial and kind, And the waiters obliging as you'll commonly find. They set a good table, with good victuals on it, And have a safe place for your hat and your bonnet, You can have a good meal any time in the day, And get the full worth of all that you pay, If you are fatigued, they have seats that will ease you; And if you are hungry, their victuals will please you. If you think you'll do better at some other place, You will find upon trial that that's not the case. And now at the close, permit me to say, If weary or hungry, just call round this way, And I am quite sure it will never be said, I am sorry I came by any wise head.
