Life and Work of Garfield.

Embracing an account of the scenes struggles of his youth; the might of his early manhood; his valor as a soldier; his career as a statesman; his election to the presidency, and the tragic story of his death, by John Clark Ridpath, L.L. D., author of Ridpath's history of the United States, etc. Embelished with fifty magnificent engravings on steel and wood. A book so full of the inspiration of a noble life, so replete with pathetic interest, heroic suffering, and glorious triumph, as to constitute the most thrilling biography of the age. No American household should be without it. Pub- through the year by your friends, lished in English and German. There is no name dearer to the American people than that of Garfield. There is no subject in which there is a deeper and more general interest than the story of his life. There is no book more worthy of circulation and study. No book published in the United States was ever greeted with as large and general demand as this. Those who know the reputation of the author are convinced. that it is just what they want. It is outselling every other book, no matter what its pretensions, now before the public. Address W. H. McClain, cor. fourth and Walnut sts., Des Moines, county, and will wait on you in a few lays. It is the life of Garfield you want, and you should not fail to se cure it.

We have an article from J. H. In our railroad litigation, and especially such as are circulating and signing a petition for the withdrawal of the suit.

People who understand the question ly such as are circulating and signing a People who understand the question and those whose interests are especially involved do not want the suit withdrawn, now, that there is scarcely doubt that it will terminate favorably for the county. We have not any fear that the commissioners would seriously consider the withdrawal, but to have a more intelligent understanding amongst all of the status of the suit for the ownership of the old B., Ft. & Taux & C., Augusta, Maine. that the commissioners would seriously for the ownership of the old B., Ft. & P. railroad have we solicited this plain statement from Mr. Broady, Broady makes it plain that the commissioners cannot, in the light of honor and fidelity to duty, withdraw the suit, without at least, the consent of the precincts especially interested, and we cannot conceive that there is a man in the county having knowledge of the law and the facts, who would ask them to do so, unless perchance he was a paid tool of J. N. Converse.
