An X on your paper, or the wrapper, means, "Please pay your subscription."

January 1st and 2d were fair, only pleasantly cool, river still open, and steam ferryboat running.

The time has come again for you to turn that same old leaf, to be turned back again in a short time. It is getting well worn.

Now at the beginning of the new year, don't forget the printer. Call and pay for your paper, if you owe, and let's all live and let live.

The following item of local news we find in the falls city Journal:

There was a mortgage recorded in the County Clerk's office last night on the Republican Valley R. R., which states that said road runs from Blue Springs, in Gage county, to Table Rock, thence on the A. & N. track to Dawson, thence to Nemaha City.

We have sent out many subscription statements within the last few days, and hope all will attend promptly to our request. Although the amounts standing alone are small, yet there being many of them, the aggregate makes a sum that would materially assist us.

A buffalo overcoat may not look so nice, but there's comfort in them.—Friendville Telegraph.

We should say the comfort is in the coat if the man is in it. And now that we have settled that perplexing conundrum, gentlemen, we advise you to tackle something that will not be such a tax on your intellectual energies.

We notice that the Northern Indianian, published at Warsaw, has changed its form from a folio to a quarto. While our old favorite is not now quite so imposing in appearance, it is in better shape for its readers to handle and preserve than the bed-spread it was, and therefore the change is an improvement.

STOWELL. The Hog-eyed Pettifogger of Sheridan.

The Sheridan Post, of last week being refused admission to the mails, by postmaster Dundas, on account of its smutty, filthy contents, and not being considered a newspaper, experienced some difficulty in reaching its intelligent and high-toned subscribers.

We find this publication printed on one side of a sheet of wrapping paper, about the color we should think of the grand paternal ancestor of the editor of the sheet, that is to say O. J. Stowell, the hog-eyed pettifogger of Sheridan.

Taggart on arriving in town went directly to the law office of W. T. Rogers and L. L. Hulburd, the former being a friend, and the latter a son-in-law of the editor of the ADVERTISER, and displaying a copy of his publication volunteered an elaborate explanation of its authorship.

Taggart seemed anxious to lay all the blame onto Stowell, and taking a pencil he pointed out, and marked, to Rogers and Hulburd the lying and filthy allusions made to the editor of the ADVERTISER and others.

Taggart gave Stowell completely away, which fact knocks the wind out of the old saying, that "There is honor amongst thieves." Taggart, after placing the authorship of the articles believed by him and Stowell to be criminally slanderous or libelous on Stowell, went on to say that Stowell, after the matter for their publication had all been put in type completely wilted, and insisted that the whole thing should be suppressed.

Then Stowell, in his desperation and as a last resort to keep his shameful publication from the public, rushed in fear and trepidation to the postoffice and warned postmaster Dundas not to mail it, as it was obscene literature.

The pitiable wretch—and he claims, we understand, to be a gentleman and a lawyer. What a travesty—what a burlesque, on the honored profession of the law is Stowell. He has been a resident of this county but a year or two, yet already has been guilty of crooked practice, and conduct unbecoming a lawyer to an extent that would disbar him, if any member should see fit to crowd him to the wall.

Taggart stated further to Rogers and Hulburd that Stowell was shaking in his boots with guilty fear that he would bring suit against him for his villainous lies. But he need have no fears on that score, for there are insurmountable reasons why we would neither shoot the wretch nor bring suit for slander.

In conclusion we apologize to our readers for occupying so much space in our paper showing up such a man as Stowell. All can readily perceive the provocation—a villainous, unprovoked, cold blooded attack upon our private character. We never spoke to the man, never mentioned his name before, editorially, except in an occasional, friendly "personal" when we have seen him in town.

Fine Groceries Flour, of all Grades, Selected Teas, Pure Coffee and Spices, Choice Syrups and Molasses, Dried and Canned Fruits in Variety, Glass and Queensware, SEEMAN'S.

Now we call attention to the unenviable position in which Stowell has placed himself, according to the testimony of Taggart, his partner. He assumes editorial charge of one issue of a paper. Instead of trying to write something that would be a credit to him, he draws upon the baseness of his instincts and conceals a column or two of low flung billingsgate, lies, scandalous vulgarities about the private character of a man who never in manner had anything to do with him.

The Sheridan postmaster did refuse to send Stowell's filth through the mails, but nevertheless those sheets have become circulated, to some extent at least; and learning the inwardness of the affair from one of the publishers as we have, we deemed it due ourself, and the public as well, to expose the vile sheet and its authors.

Mr. Broady, in his letter last week, omitted one important argument for not withdrawing the railroad suit; which was the fact that all, or substantially all, of the expenses attending the suit had already been incurred.

Stowell, the hog-eyed pettifogger, says the members of the Brownville Temple of Honor are a lot of jacks. Now if Stowell can stand the racket of such unprovoked and uncalled for insults, certainly such gentlemen as B. M. Bailey, Jno. L. Carson, James Stevenson, Prof. Wightman, Rev. Esterbrook, A. H. Gilmore, George Crow, John S. Minick, and the hundred other members of the Temple, will be able to survive, the remark coming from so irresponsible and characterless a whelp as Stowell.

We would respectfully inform the ladies of Brownville and vicinity that we are prepared to do dressmaking at our residence, corner of fifth and Atlantic streets, (old Jim Dye residence). Solicit a share of your patronage, and will take great pride in giving new styles and good work.
