The prevailing opinion is that notwithstanding the presence of Mr. Frelinghuysen, there exists a very large vacancy in the place occupied by James G. Blain.—Blair Pilot.

Guiteau.

On Wednesday 25th ult., the Guiteau trial, before Judge Cox, came to a close. The Judge at once delivered his charge to the jury, which retired, and within ten minutes had agreed upon a verdict of murder in the first degree. The defendant's lawyer having four days in which to file a motion for a new trial, at once gave notice that he would file such a motion. The following from Washington indicates what has been done in the matter up to this time:

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the criminal court this morning Mr. Scoville stated that he would file a specific bill of exception and make a motion for a new trial this afternoon, although urged by the district attorney to fix next Tuesday for the argument. Upon motion, Judge Cox declined to fix a day at present.

Mr. Scoville filed in the supreme court to-day papers for a new trial. The papers filed in support of the motion alleged that newspapers were found in the jury room, indicating that the jury had been reading them, and also alleged newly discovered evidence. The first point alleged as ground for a new trial is informality in the verdict. "Guilty is indicted." 2d. That the verdict does not specify on which count the defendant is guilty; and omitted essential facts. 3d. That the trial extended over two terms of the court. 4th. That the court had no jurisdiction. 5th. That the court erred in overruling all prayers for instruction upon questions of law asked by the counsel for the defense and in refusing to instruct the jury as defense suggested. 6th. That the court erred in excluding the proper evidence offered by the defense. 7th. The court erred in admitting improper evidence from the prosecution. 8th. That the court erred in commenting improperly on defendants conduct and in making an arrangement with the district attorney to allow the jury and the experts to observe the defense. 9th. The misbehavior of the jury in reading newspapers. 10th. The discovery of new evidence. 11th. That the verdict was contrary to the evidence. 12th. That the verdict was contrary to law.

AFFIDAVITS.

Guiteau's affidavit was filed in the supreme court and alleged he is restrained of liberty. The affidavit of Frederick H. Snyder alleges that he saw jurymen reading certain newspapers which contained improper matter.

The arguments on Scoville's motion for a new trial will be heard Friday this week. The jurors all declare they did not read a word in any newspaper during the entire trial, and are very indignant over the charge, which will be thoroughly investigated.

The Union Hotel

Is growing in public favor. Commercial men are learning that at the Union is the best place to stop for good fare and cordial accommodations. Best table, best beds, best everything, and only $2.00 a day. The best and most convenient sample room in the city is now connected with the house.

Crown Sewing Machine the best, kept by J. L. McGee.

Guilty of Wrong.

Some people have a fashion of confusing excellent remedies with the large mass of "patent medicines," and in this they are guilty of a wrong. There are some advertised remedies fully worth all that is asked for them, and one at least we know of—Hop Bitters. The writer has had occasion to use the Bitters in just such a climate as we have most of the year in Bay City, and has always found them to be first-class and reliable, doing all that is claimed for them.—Tribune.

Decidedly Demorest's Monthly is the most admirable magazine of its kind in the world. Being a publication of great utility in the household, furnishing as it does, valuable information on all subjects connected with home, no family can very well do without it. In every essential, it is a family magazine, thoroughly reliable and comprehensive. Its stories are distinguished for literary merit; its poems are of more than average excellence; its sensible talks to women are a distinctive feature; and the topics of the month are discussed in a manner both suggestive and interesting. The engravings alone are well worth the money paid for the magazine (twenty-five cents). The January number is an excellent one, and contains an exhaustive article, fully illustrated, which will give you valuable help in decorating your home, the initial chapters of The Admiral's Ward, by Mrs. Alexander, one of the best novelists of the day, and many other articles of superior merit, thus making one of the most attractive numbers of this admirable magazine yet issued.
