A Blaine Man the Slanderer of Garfield.

Those who seem to take a fiendish delight in abusing Grant, Conkling, Arthur, and the stalwarts generally, and assumed and charged that the recent attack, in the Washington Post, on the "lamented Garfield" was from the stalwarts, now that the author of that letter comes out over his own name and avows that he was one of the Kentucky delegation to the Chicago Convention and voted thirty-six times for Blaine, are placed in a most ridiculous and humiliating position. The name of that rampant Blaine man is Wm. Brown, and is remembered as standing upon a chair in the convention and advertising his own perfidy by declaring that he was there to violate the instructions from his constituents. He and his colleagues were instructed for Grant. Had the author of that malicious epistle proved to be a stalwart, a united and extremely virtuous howl would have ascended from the halfbreed camp regarding the universal brutality of the stalwarts and the unmitigated vindictiveness of stalwarts individually and collectively. For it is a well known fact that Conkling, Arthur, Grant and all who dare say a word in their defense, are, from the average Blaine man stand point, held responsible for whatever political misdemeanor or blunder any one of them may be chargeable with. But now that the tables are turned so beautifully upon them they will be reluctant to swallow their own sort of medicine. Had it turned out that Brown had supported Grant in the Chicago convention, why Grant and Conkling would have been stigmatized for his act by the half breed press from Maine to Nebraska. In fact they had even done so already, before they knew who the author was. Now that Brown proves to have been a most ardent Blaine man, according to the halfbreed logie Mr. Blaine has been guilty of attacking his old friend even in the grave. But the stalwart press, so far as we have read, has more sense and honesty than to assume such a position. And now we will give an extract from Mr. Brown's letter, as follows:

My former letter was attributed to the Hon. Chauncey I. Filley, of St. Louis, and it has been alleged, was inspired by the Stalwarts and written by one of the delegates who supported General Grant. This, you know, is a mistake. No living soul had anything to do with it, and no one saw it until placed into your hands. It was my own conception, impelled by the reason stated: I belong to a body of men who have high respect for General Rosecrans, though I have not seen him for many years, and as I know as much of all this matter as any one I did not think it right to permit this good old soldier to suffer in silence.

It is true I am a "Stalwart" in my devotion to the Republican party, but I was not a Grant man, and it is my duty to those who were for him at Chicago to say I was not one of them. General Grant, General Rosecrans, Mr. Conkling, Mr. Blaine, or Mr. Filley had no more to do with the letter than Malbone. In justice to the Grant men, I say that in the Chicago Convention I cast thirty-six votes for Mr. Blaine. WILLIAM BROWN.

The Inter Ocean tells a good one on a commercial drummer named Sam. Sproles, which consisted in the ill-luck that befell him as a "masher," at the Palmer House, Chicago. Sproles selected as his victim on that particular occasion a married lady boarder; and after bringing to bear upon her a couple of his most ravishing smiles, and not doubting that this facial bombardment had driven in the pickets that guarded her virtue, and that she would capitulate at once upon a direct charge, he proceeded to drop her this little note:

"Can the gentleman have the pleasure of making your acquaintance who smiled at you in the dining-room this morning, also at dinner. If agreeable to you, you would like to take a walk this afternoon. Will keep this little matter very quiet if you will grant my request. Yours truly, S. C. STEWART."

But those immense smiles were duly regarded by the insulted lady as but the smirking of a conceited puppy, and utterly failed to mash her heart into an "unrecognizable mass." She gave the fragrant missive to her husband. He, without delay, sought out the would be masher of his wife's fair name and self-respect, and forthwith, in a crowd of applauding spectators proceeded to smash him. He mopped the floor with Sproles' handsome and artistically wrought personal appearance. He mashed his nose, blacked his eyes, and made him whine for mercy. Sproles doesn't travel now as a professional "masher."

The attack in the Washington Post, on the memory of Garfield, by the Blaine wing of the Republican party, is too ungenerous and mean for calm consideration.

Brutus stabbed Caesar in the back, but the Blaine faction stabbed Garfield after he was dead. As to the degree of perfidy, take your choice.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Also excellent for human flesh. READ PROOF BELOW FROM

COL. L. T. FOSTER.

Youngstown, Ohio, May 10th, 1882

Dr. B. J. KENDALL & Co. Gents:—I had a very valuable Hambleton colt which I prized very highly, he had a large bone spavin on one joint and a small one on the other which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons which failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express, I determined at once to try it, and got our druggist to send for it, they ordered three bottles; I took them all and thought I would give it a thorough trial, I used it according to directions and the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame, and the lumps have disappeared. I used but one bottle and the colt limps are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles, who are now using it. Very Respectfully, L. T. FOSTER.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a derangement of the Liver, affecting both the stomach and bowels. In order to effect a cure, it is necessary to remove the cause. Irregular and sluggish action of the Bowels, Headache, Sickiness at the Stomach, Pain in the Back and Loins, etc., indicate that the Liver is at fault, and that nature requires assistance to enable this organ to throw off impurities. Prickly Ash Bitters are especially compounded for this purpose. They are mild in their action and effective as a cure; are pleasant to the taste and taken easily by both children and adults. Taken according to directions, they are a safe and pleasant cure for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Constipation, Diseased Kidneys, etc., etc. As a Blood Purifier they are superior to any other medicine; cleansing the system thoroughly, and imparting new life and energy to the invalid. It is a medicine and not an intoxicating beverage.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR PRICKLY ASH BITTERS, and take no other. PRICE, $1.00 per Bottle.
