District Court.

District Court was in session last week. There was but one jury trial, and but few witnesses and litigants, and as farmers wanted to get home as soon as possible to attend to spring work, it was an exceedingly dull court, and failed to be a bonanza for the hotels and restaurants; and scarcely succeeded in marring the usual holiday polish of the excessively quiet and law abiding old burg.

Judge Pound was promptly in his seat Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, and Sheriff Tate made the usual formal proclamation, that the honorable district court is now open, etc., and called the spectators and attendants to order.

The Sheriff had ex-Sheriff D. Plaster employed as second in command, with a corps of lieutenants, viz: Tim McLaughlin, John M. Kieckner, Jim Johnson and Grant Clover. There was but little use for juries, at this term, and there was but one indictment found by the grand jury. The latter, however, got in two days and a half, being discharged Thursday at noon.

The lawyers present were John C. Watson, district attorney, T. B. Stevenson, Nebraska City; O. J. Stowall, Sheridan; W. F. Straub, Cincinnati, Ohio; Gen. Montgomery, Lincoln, and the Brownville Bar, viz: J. H. Broady, Osborn & Taylor, J. S. Stull, W. T. Rogers, L. L. Hulburd, O. A. Cecil, including W. H. Hoover, district clerk, O. F. Mulien, the genial, efficient and accommodating court reporter. The court and bar got along most pleasantly indeed with each other, the lawyers indulging in nothing more disagreeable than supposed sharp sarcasm and witty retorts. They all like Judge Pound. He is a perfect gentleman, and as perfect a specimen of the noblest work of God as any of them could remember of all the profession they ever knew. If we had a good case we would rather leave it with Judge Pound than any jury.

There was a pleasant episode to the usual monotonous routine of court proceedings on Friday evening, when Mr. Rogers rose and proceeded to make some remarks, which the judge failed to get the precise gist of until Rogers handed him a neat leatherette case and said something about white gloves, a present from the lawyers. Judge P. responded in a few well-chosen words, accepting the gift. The reason of this neat little presentation was the observance of a custom with judicial bars to present the judge a pair of white gloves—kid, we presume, as were these—on occasions when there are no criminal cases during the term.

In the case of Barbara Dodd against her brother, John Bennett, to recover for maintenance of their father, the judgment of the court was that plaintiff pay costs of suit, and suit dismissed.

In the action for damages by Benj.

Cooney against Patrick Burke Sr. and Jr. the jury gave a verdict in favor of Cooney for $200.

The slander case of Dr. B. Bell Andrews against Eli Terry was continued on account of defects in depositions on both sides.

Adolph Carlson, widower of Mrs.

Shadley, was granted a divorce from his wife, Fannie M.

Mrs. Lavina J. McMains was granted a divorce from her husband, John H. McMains.

Mrs. Nellie Daily Dillon received a decree of divorce from Oscar Dillon, and judgment to recover $1,000.

Fannie E. Johnson was divorced from Jno. W. Johnson.

In the action in error of Aaron Palmer against W. Ross Witcherly, the court rendered judgment against the plaintiff in error, and ordered execution to carry into effect the judgment of the court below.

Lewis M. Swan was divorced from Sarah H. Swan; cause, abandonment.

State of Nebraska vs. Sam. C. Bennnett and George Neal, for violation of liquor laws. In regard to Bennett a plea was entered. Neal paid $50 and gave Bennett and Dr. Andrews as sureties for the remaining $50 of the $100 fine.

In the case of the State vs. Jacob

Hull and Thos. Townsend, of Tecumseh, the grand jury failed to find sufficient grounds for an indictment. The parties in this case were arrested last fall, at the instance of one Edwards.

The matter was examined before

Judge Stull, who put them under $1,000

bonds, each.

State vs. Jas. F. Gagan was dismissed.

State vs. Jesse Graham, indicted for adultery, continued, defendant enter-ring recognition of $500, with Thomas M. Self as surety.

There were a number of other civil cases disposed of besides those referred to above, but not of interest to our readers. Court adjourned Friday evening, until the September term.

Death of Pollock.

Died: In this city on Thursday morning, 30th ult., Capt. Wm. A. Pollock, in the 65th year of his age.

Mr. Pollock was an old settler of Brownville, and having held several official positions of trust and honor, was well known to the people of the county. He served two terms in the State Legislature, and for about ten years as postmaster of Brownville. In 1861 he entered the army for the Union as a lieutenant in the Nebraska 1st, where he served during the war. Mr. Pollock was unwell during most of the winter, but did not seem alarmingly sick until a week or two previous to his death. Being conscious of his rapidly approaching dissolution he dictated regarding his funeral. It was his wish to be buried by old soldiers, choosing Capt. R. C. Berger, of his old company to conduct the escort, and Senator Tipton, the chaplain of the Nebraska 1st, to conduct the funeral services, all of which was done in an appropriate and impressive manner. The old soldiers generally turned out to the funeral and a squad of twelve with guns led the large procession to the cemetery, where they fired the regulation salute of honor over his grave.

While Capt. Pollock was eccentric in his ways, he was an honorable man and a good citizen. He leaves a widow and grown up family. He was a pensioner of the government, which fact will assist his deserving widow to a maintenance.

Miscellaneous News.

J. H. Broady, Esq., started to Washington Thursday of last week, to attend supreme court.

Mrs. Permilia Morris, an aged lady, mother of Wm Morris, died in this city after much suffering, on Saturday morning last, and was buried Sunday.

The Poncha Springs, (Col.) Herald, has an item about our old friend G. W. Neely, that he has sold "the Chicago Lode on Elk Mountain for the sum of $100,000." George's many friends here will be glad to hear of his great success in making a big stake.
