EDITOR ADVERTISER:—I am informed that the report is being circulated that the Sheridan school district is in debt to the amount of $1,500. Allow me to say this district has never been more than $700 in debt, and at the present time is practically out of debt, as we only have one bond of $150 outstanding, and it is provided for and will be paid by the tax of 1881. WESLEY DUNDAS.

There were several Brownvillians in town this week. They say their town is not dead, nor is it sleeping. It is still the county seat, and because of the jealousy existing between Calvert and Sheridan, it is liable to be for a long time to come. A new paper to be started there soon will help to boom it, and business, they say, is comparatively good. As a clown years ago said, we would rather own a lamp post in Calvert than a corner lot in Brownville.—Tecumseh Torchlight.

Death of William S. Clark.

DIED, at his residence in Nemaha City, on Friday, the 14th of April, 1882, at 7 o'clock a. m., Mr. William S. Clark, in the 44th year of his age.

The deceased was born at Meadville, Crawford county, Pennsylvania, Jan. 15th, 1838, and came to Nemaha City, Nebraska, in 1859, where he married Miss Mary Jane Pavey, daughter of the late F. G. Pavey. He resided at Nemaha City, except for short intervals, ever since. In March 1862 he went into the army with the present editor of THE ADVERTISER, was assigned to Penick's famous regiment, Co. D, and being a superior business man was commissioned by Col. Penick as quartermaster sergeant; and served his time out with ability and satisfaction. He was a ready accountant and competent book keeper, being a graduate of Iron City Commercial College, Pa., and had a diploma from that school. The deceased was a cousin by marriage of the writer hereof, and in his death we lost one of our dearest and best friends. We loved him as a brother, for his devoted friendship to us, for his genial nature, kind, manly and generous disposition to all mankind.

Close his eyes, his work is done! What to him is friend or foe man, Rise of moon, or set of sun, Hand of man or kiss of woman? As man may, he fought his fight, Proved his truth by his endeavor; Let him sleep in solemn night, Sleep forever and forever.

Cut down in the prime and vigor of his life, enforces and renews the lesson that all flesh is as grass. Our friend was sick but a few days, being forced to quit his work and go to bed on Saturday the 8th, and on Saturday the 15th he was carried to his grave. A few days before he was taken sick he was out getting some forest trees to plant, and was exposed in a heavy cold rain, by which he caught a severe cold, and he died of congestion of the lungs. Eld. Chas. Rowe, at the residence, preached a beautiful and tearful sermon to hundreds of sympathetic friends who had congregated in and around the house. The funeral procession was one of the largest that ever followed the remains of a citizen and neighbor to Nemaha City Cemetery. Our deceased friend leaves a weeping and comfortless widow and three children to face the storms of life without a father. And in this connection the stricken widow requests us to return her most grateful thanks to her thoughtful and ever kind neighbors for their care, solicitude and sympathy in this, the dark and sorrowful period of her life.
