Howe, the committee exonerated tions on that instrument. See her ad-Carnes. White-wash and investigating committees go hand in hand.—Tecum seh Torchlight.

The Torchlight, the Bee, and such papers, pretend to think that Robberts is a good witness, that his affidavit slandering Lieut, Cov. Carnes and "implicating" Church Howe was true, and that the investigating committee in finding the charges in the affidavit unsustained by the evidence did a whitewashing job. We think their finding eminently justified both by the character of the witnesses and the preponderance of the testimony.

Let's see what kind of a witness is the fellow that the Torchlight takes so much stock in. First, he makes a worn statement implicating Mr. Howe; then when he faces Mr. Howe and the committee he wilts, says Howe never mentioned bribery to him, and to make his retraction strong, authorizes the Omaha Republican to exoner-

Mr. Robberts is the member who at the regular session being counted among the friends of the prohibitory amendment, did not leave his room at his boarding house when the main question came up. He said he was sick. Nobody then or now believes he was sick; but they do believe, and the Having been recently Surveyed and Platted on charge has been bodly made that he played sick for a fee-that he was on the make-that he actually received $250 for so doing. He was able to be about just before that vote was taken and just afterward, and if he was not bribed the fact that he remained out at that partidular time, was extremely suspicious. Furthermore it was shown before the committee that Robberts got up that affidavit, at the instance of another man who had a spite at Carnes. This Robberts Limself verifies. And that other man attempted to blackmail Carnes on the strength of it. Robberts' record is clearly such that his statement or his affidavit is placed outside the pale of credence, and should not either implicate or exonerate anybody; and had the investigation stopped there, without the evidence of Carnes, Howe, Thurston and Kimball, the legislature would have been justifiable in rendering the judgment they did, that Robberts sworn charges were unsustained. But added to Robberts self-condemnatory actions, is the positive testimony of Thurston that no money had been placed in his hands or under his contified as unqualifiedly that Thurston, nor Carnes nor any other person had been authorized to offer any bribe, and that the U.
