CUT AND DRY.

The county was never more fully represented in a convention or by better or more intelligent men than it was last Monday. Forty-one of the 59 went to the convention united upon a programme, and they made short work in carrying it to consummation.
That was precisely as it should have been. Men are not apt to win a victory by a most sanguinary battle and then give it away. There were a few of the 18 out of the 59 delegates—four or five only that cared much about it —which did not enjoy seeing the forty-one get away with the baggage. But no one squealed out loud but Judge Stull. The Judge hasn't been in the habit of getting left and when he saw sceptre departing he could not restrain his feeling to kick. He spoke very feelingly about the helplessness of minorities, of concession, of cut and dried things. While the pathetic appeal was being made we looked around to see if Daily crying, but he wasn't.
He looked like he was at a funeral, but he didn't weep, that we noticed.
And then as some of the impolite boys laughed just as the Judge was getting down to business, he stopped and sat down. Judge Stull, of all the politicians we ever saw operate, is the last one who ought to scold about "cut and dried" business at conventions; for that is precisely his method of making political points, and he has always been a good one at it. He has been successful in his town and in the county by cut and dry jobs. He managed to get his name as usual on both the Howe and the Furnas tickets in Brownville by his remarkable talent in the cut and dry business. When there is to be a primary election the Judge makes up a "cut and dry" ticket of his particular friends, with his own name on it, of course, and then he goes to the other side and promises to do no work for either side if they will put him on their ticket, and having accomplished this cut and dry job he feels easy, secure, and works effectually on the sly gutting one or the other of those who have trusted him.
And in county conventions Judge Stull, when others were not on the alert has generally been the one to do the cut and dry work. We will mention one instance as a sample. It was, if we remember correctly, when Daily was a candidate for governor and Majors a candidate for congress, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Frank Welch, and Stull wanted the delegation to boost him for district attorney. Gov. Furnas will very distinctly remember Stull's cut and dry delegates of that county convention.
Furnas after being solicited and promised a place on the state delegation was left out in the cold. At that convention, according to the cut and dry programme, a committee was appointed upon Stull's motion, to select delegates to the state and judicial conventions. Stull, by courtesy was chairman of that committee, which he led out around the corner of the Sheridan school-house, and pulling a slip of paper from his pocket with the requisite number of names thereon, which had been selected several days before in Brownville by Majors and himself, he told the committee "these are the gentlemen we want," the committee said "all right," the cut and dry job was reported and adopted by the convention. And we could prolong this "cut and dry" record of Stull, Majors & Co., to any length. Yet Stull had the cheek to talk about "cut and dry" business when that business was proposed in convention by a majority of more than two to one. And the whine about concession to that minority was equally absurd and cheeky. When did ever Majors, Daily or Stull make a concession when they had the power to do as they pleased?
Especially, as regards Mr. Howe—when did they ever concede any advantage or any favors to him when they had the power to "set down on him?" Never in the world. The people will distinctly remember when delegates were elected, on the Blaine and Grant issue, to the state convention. When Mr. Howe had been nearly crushed to death by a runaway team, and thus disabled from securing a place on the delegation, which otherwise he could have done, yet lacked only one vote of election, Tom Majors who had the floor as Church Howe had it last Monday, refused in a most domineering and bombastic style to concede anything to that large minority.

We recall these things through no bitterness of feeling toward Judge Stull or any one else, but for the purpose of blunting the point that Stull attempted to make. His speech was unreasonable and inconsistent with the practices of politicians and large majorities everywhere. We think the wounded sixteen or eighteen will see wisdom in getting well speedily in adapting their course to the inevitable in acquiescing like true Republicans in the will of the majority, and helping carry through the old Republican party to overwhelming victory.

The American Woman Suffrage association will hold its thirteenth annual meeting in Omaha, Nebraska, in the Baptist church, September 12 and 13, 1882. It will begin its sessions on Tuesday evening, September 12th, at 7:30. Auxiliary state and local societies may send delegates equal in number to the congressional delegations of their state or territories. Where delegations are not full, alternates will be received from the states, consisting of members of the association in attendance at the convention.
All members of the association have a right to take part in the discussions.
The woman suffrage constitutional amendment now pending in Nebraska makes the present occasion of special interest and importance. Some of the speakers in attendance at this convention will probably remain and take part in the campaign. A full attendance of suffragists is specially invited.

A section hand named Henry Smith, near St. Joseph, Mo. hired a horse and buggy and induced a girl of twelve years to take a ride with him. After riding about three miles from her home, the girl was taken from the buggy and out-aged by the man, who finally left her in the darkness. Finding her way home, the neighborhood was aroused and search at once begun by the enraged people. At last accounts Smith was lost track of at St. Joseph.

The newspapers are wondering how the Utah commission is going to find out whether a Mormon who wants to be registered has more than one wife or not. They will swear him, of course. If he lies about it, and denies his other wives for the sake of a vote, possibly the other wives will make it pretty hot for him. A second or third wife would not like to be officially obliterated in this way, even in Utah.

The war in Egypt begins to be hot and bloody. Five Bedouins bit the dust in a skirmish with the British army day before yesterday. The British loss is not reported.
