The portly figure of Dr. Glasgow, of North Auburn, was visible on our streets in the early part of this week.

Our sister, Tecumseh can show as large an average of pretty girls and good looking boys of any town of its size in the state.

The Johnson base ball club will play the Nemahas at Nemaha City, next Saturday, and at Johnson one week from that day.

Mr. Whitney, a contractor from Humboldt, was in the city last Sunday in search of carpenters to help him out with his contracts.

The ball given last Friday evening at Samuelson's hall, by the social circle club, is said to have been a successful and enjoyable occasion.

The Douglas precinct delegation to the County convention were among the best dressed and most intelligent looking men in the hall.

Give us another week or two of this sunny weather, and we will show you the biggest crop of corn that was ever raised out of doors.

We forgot to mention before now that Fisher, of Devin & Fisher, had accepted a position as traveling salesman for a Lincoln wholesale house, and is now on the road.

R. S. Maloney, Jr., of Humboldt, was in the city last Sunday with a couple of his fast horses. Dick left for Dubuque, Iowa, on Monday with his famous trotting stallion, "Maxey Cubb."

Jim Stevenson, one of Brownville's best and most substantial citizens, and one of the most stalwart of stalwart republicans, was at the convention last Monday, and did some effective work for his ticket.

If Ted Huddart wasn't one of the best of landlords and didn't know how to meet an emergency, the hungry politicians and their famishing friends who besieged the Holdrege last Monday would have bred a famine.

John Nulk, of Flowerdale, was in town this week again, and as usual left some of his superfluous wealth in exchange for agricultural implements. We like to see John coming to this town to trade, for he is a solid one.

Normal Students Visit to Auburn.

EDITOR ADVERTISER:—On the 9th of August, a number of Normal students (as we are called) gathered together, and all of us having a desire to take a ride—being as it happened we were all classmates at the Normal, and desired to have a good time while together.

It was moved and seconded that we should take a ride to Auburn, that lively little town on the prairie. We were all longing to see that town, and the surrounding country, so a resolution was passed that "our little company would take the trip on the 10th." Well we were all anxious for night to come so we might go on that pleasant trip the next day. We talked of all we were going to see and do on that trip. Early on the morning of the 10th we started, our trip to Auburn was about fifteen miles, we drove by fields of corn and wheat and many beautiful places until we came to the farm and residence of Mr. John Maley, a well-to-do farmer and fruit-grower of Nemaha county, residing two and a half miles northwest of North Auburn. To our idea and those of many others, he has the most beautiful and best improved farm in Nemaha county. As we came from the north the first we met was a beautiful peach and apple orchard of about ten acres, the trees looked handsome and just such a position to that south, is his old peach orchard of ten acres, which shows it has done service for our friend, for it is fast dying out, but still appears to have a good many peaches on it. The whole farm is enclosed with a heavy locust hedge, but in front of the orchards and house, which we next meet the hedge looks beautiful, it is so nicely trimmed that it shows its owner has good skill in trimming hedges. South of the house is two beautiful apple orchards of about five acres each, which looks too handsome to be expressed in words. Our friend has all his orchards nicely sown with blue grass and timothy which aids in the looks very much, and much more when mown, as it was standing real high and promising its owner good hay. In driving by the house we halted and went very slowly so that we could see all that was possible to see. The house is a white frame house and shows by its appearance its occupants are neat, tasty, and take great pleasure in beautifying their home. Over the porch is a beautiful twining rose with the blooming geraniums beneath it, and over the front door he has a "mass style" which our teacher in history used to tell us so much about, one of those porticoes, which was also filled with geraniums, and by the looks of the front yard we have the idea that it will soon be sown in bluegrass as the orchards are, for it had just been plowed, how beautiful it will look then. On gazing on the outdoor scenery we were almost tempted to call in to take a peep inside for we know it must be just as nicely fixed and furnished as the farm and yard. If we thought that Miss Jennie and Anna were at home we would surely, for we were always classmates together at the Normal and loved each other as brothers and sisters. Oh! how we would like to have made a call on them and talked over our school days at the Normal, of all the pleasant and some hard times together getting our lessons. It is so long since we have seen them, our hearts were sad after we passed the gate that we did not stop even for five minutes and see if they were at home, but our trip was so limited for our ride. But had those apples, peaches and pears which we saw, and blackberries and other fruit which we knew he must have, been ripe, we could not have resisted the temptation, but rest assured we will take another trip when then they get ripe. After a short ride we reached North Auburn, where we took dinner, and after riding through North and South Auburn and seeing all or partly of what we wanted to see. It being near evening we started home, being very much pleased with our trip and hoping to take such a pleasant one again. J. W. E.

In 1862 Kansas had 2,936 acres in corn, and sent 96,892 bushels to market. In 1882 she has 522,796 acres in corn, and will send 20,911,840 bushels to market, according to the estimates of the best judges in the State. The increase in acreage this year over last is nearly 200,000 acres, or about 54 per cent, while the increase in yield will be 100 per cent. It is claimed to cost $5.00 an acre to produce corn in Kansas, so that the profit upon this year's crop will bring an enormous amount of wealth into the State, and, together with the magnificent yield of 35,000,000 bushels of wheat, this will be the most prosperous season the State has even known.—Inter Ocean.

There are three French physicians in New York who have a remedy for hydrophobia which they claim is infallible, and which consists in throwing the body into such a perspiration that the poison will be forced out of the system through the pores of the skin. They are so confident of its value that either one of them agrees to be bitten by a mad dog and undergo treatment by his associates, in order to prove its efficacy, provided a pecuniary reward is offered by the government or by individuals for the test.
