When a fellow thinks he has the world by the seat of the breeches and finds out when the votes are counted that he hasn't, it is somewhat embarrassing.

The Democratic party can carry an election in Nemaha county any time they feel a little ambitious or hungry, with the help of 250 Republican allies, which they can get hereafter without any trouble.

Notwithstanding the woman's mass prayer meeting in Omaha, the day before the election, the suffrage amendment failed to carry in the state. The Lord must be opposed the measure.

A few days before the election, in Indiana, a secret circular was distributed among the saloon keepers throughout the state, which said the Republican party had always been their enemy, and imploring all levers of Democracy and whisky to vote the Democratic ticket.

The following is a conundrum, and it being originated before the result is known, must not be considered a thrust at any particular faction. Here we go: Why is the temperance party in Nemaha county like Davy Crockett's coon? Our columns are open for answers, but no premiums on a dead sure thing.

While Neal and Craft, charged with the double murder at Ashland, Ky., some time ago, were being conveyed from one prison to another, in charge of soldiers, a mob undertook to get hold of the prisoners to lynch them, when a fight ensued. The soldiers fired on the mob, killed five and wounded thirty. All the injury sustained by the soldiers was three slightly hurt. That mob was out of luck, and good enough for it.

The wife of Dr. Sequin, New York, recently took her three little children to an upper room in their fine residence, locked the door, tied the hands of the children behind their backs, blindfolded them, and then with a pistol killed them, sending a ball through each young brain and then one through her own. It is said to have to have been a very loving and happy family, and the husband and father is crazy with grief and his life despaired of. The awful tragedy is accounted for only on the theory of insanity.

Sullivan to Knock Elliott Out.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2, 1882.—Articles of agreement entered into at No. 219 East Randolph street, Chicago, Ill., this 2d day of November, 1882, between John L. Sullivan, of Boston, Mass., and James Elliott, of New York City. The said John L. Sullivan agrees to give an athletic entertainment in a building in either Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., or Pittsburg, Pa., on the evening of the 9th day of December, 1882.

The said John L. Sullivan further agrees to spar James Elliott four rounds, Marquis of Queensbury rules, with small, soft boxing-gloves, in a 24-foot ring, and in the event of John L. Sullivan failing to "stop" or "knock out" James Elliott, the latter to receive the entire gate receipts, less expenses.

John L. Sullivan to deposit the sum of $500 with J. H. Romaine, No. 148 South Clark street, as stake-holder, to be forfeited to James Elliott should John L. Sullivan fail to give an entertainment and spar James Elliott on the date mentioned.

The name of the city and place of entertainment to be made known to James Elliott by John L. Sullivan at least ten days previous to December 9.

The referee and gloves to be mutually agreed upon two days before the contest. James Elliott agrees to accept all of the above conditions, and to deposit $500 with J. H. Romaine, to be forfeited to John L. Sullivan in case he fails to box upon the date agreed upon.

This agreement was signed by Jere Dunn for John L. Sullivan, and Chas. E. Davies for James Elliott.

For twenty years the American Agriculturist, now in its 43d year, has been recognized as the leading agricultural journal of the world. Notwithstanding its past wonderful career, it now enters upon a new era, and proposes to excel its past accomplishments—moving forward to fresh conquests.

The October number appears in a new cover, new dress, new type, new engravings, with new artists, and additional editorial writers, making altogether the most superb periodical of the kind ever issued. From this time forward the American Agriculturist is determined to avail itself of the best brain power, and the first artistic talent in the country. The proprietors have but to point to its past record as a guarantee of our promises for the future. Never before in its career was the journal so prosperous as now, and at no time since the first year immediately following the war have subscriptions come in so numerously as they are now coming. We confidently believe that the American Agriculturist is the best paper in the United States for other journals to club with, being exclusively agricultural in its character, as it is, and thus competing with no local journal. Price $1.50 a year. Single copies, 15 cents. ORANGE JUDD COMPANY, DAVID W. JUDD, Vice-President. SAMUEL BURNHAM, Sec'y.

Cornstalks as Fuel.

An Iowa farmer, who has both coal and wood on his farm, warms his house with cornstalks and claims that they make the best and cheapest fuel he can get. He uses a large stove and burns the stalks in tightly bound bundles weighing about forty pounds each. A bundle burns three hours (without flame) in an air-tight stove. The large stove offers so much radiating surface that it does not need to be very hot. Five bundles a day, or 600 for the winter, suffices to keep stove going and the room warm. The farmer, Mr. Ruggles, says: "I can burn up 600 bundles of cornstalks in two days alone. I could not chop the wood to warm my room in a week. Then in the spring I have a load of strong ashes for my wheat field, while my neighbors have to cut up the cornstalks to get them away from the harrow. It makes me smile when I hear about those idiots up in Minnesota who have fifty-acre cornfields, and still go cold or buy coal. Why, I would rather burn cornstalks than cut maple wood within sight of the house."

The Corn and Hog Crops.

The Live Stock Indicator, Kansas City, has reports from 125 counties in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa in regard to the yield of corn, as compared with last year, of which number ninety-two report a larger yield and the balance about the same as last year. Of hogs to be marketed during November and December, thirty counties only report that the number will exceed last year. In regard to young hogs coming on, as compared with last year, forty-two report the supply larger. There are but seven counties which report any disease among hogs.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty year's successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure as simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
