Jefferson Davis and the Andersonville Murders.

The main facts on record in Gen. Hoh's office touching the connection of Jefferson Davis with Andersonville murders are so easily stated that I shall give a paragraph to them, lest they may not happen to fall under your observation:

The rebel idea of killing off our prisoners so as not to be obliged to meet them in battle developed before the Andersonville pen was made. Robert Ould, the Commissioner of Exchange, [illegible] in a letter to Gen. Winder less than [illegible] arrangement I have made works largely in our favor. We get rid of a lot of miserable wretches, and receive in return some of the best material I ever saw." The "miserable wretches" being so useful, a plan was devised to increase the number, and it was stated by a rebel surgeon (not in evidence however) that when Winder got his order to make the Andersonville pen, Davis told him to locate it as near hell as he could and Winder always insisted that he had succeeded exactly. It was filled with prisoners early in 1864, and put in the hands of Wirz. Its horrors began at once, but Winder did not go near it till June. Meantime Wirz reported to the authorities at Richmond and got his instructions there. In May there were twelve thousand prisoners in the eighteen acres inclosed, and the deaths were so frequent and resulted so manifestly from ill-treatment of the prisoners that an officer of the rebel Government reported the facts and earnestly protested against any more prisoners being sent there. It is in evidence that this report was indorsed "noted" by the Secretary of War, showing that it had been carefully read. Colonel Parsons testified that, moved by a desire to mitigate the hardships of the place, he ordered several trains of lumber to build shelter for the prisoners, whereupon he was removed, and the lumber used to build new quarters outside, but not a board suffered to go within. The removal took place immediately on the arrival of General Winder from Richmond, on his first visit in June. The prisoners then had been increased to 19,000, more than a thousand to an acre. Many witnesses testified to hearing Wirz and Winder say that they were doing more for the Confederacy than General Lee and that they were doing the work expected of them at Richmond. In August the number of prisoners was increased to over 32,000, and Colonel Chandler, an officer of the Inspector General's Department, after reporting the horrible condition of the prisoners, recommended the removal of General Winder and the appointment of some one "who does not advocate deliberately and in cold blood the propriety of leaving them (the prisoners) in their present condition until their number has been sufficiently reduced by death to make the present arrangement suffice." This report reached Richmond on the 17th of August, and Adjutant General Cooper endorsed it; "The prison is a reproach to us as a nation. Colonel Chandler's recommendation is concurred in." The Assistant Secretary of War also indorsed on the paper. "These reports show a condition of things in Andersonville which call very loudly for the interposition of the Department, in order that a change may be made." But after Mr Davis and his War Minister had consulted about the matter, General Winder, instead of being removed, was put by order No. 84, dated October 21, in command of all the prisoners east of the Missippi, and the starvation and murder went on without further attempt to stop it, to the close of the rebellion.—Washington Cor. Toledo Blade.

Personal Defamation.

The most marked characteristic of the Democrat press at the present day is personal defamation. Conscious of its false principles, and having nothing to say in the way of argument, the staple of its articles is abuse of its opponents. Every man of prominence in the Republican ranks reviled as if he were a thief or murderer. The decent portion of the press of the civilized world in fact shrink from applying to even thieves and murderers the reckless abuse, the systematic imputation of the vilest motives and designs, which the Democratic presses pour out every day upon the most eminent of our statesmen and heroes. Most assuredly, no decent newspaper in treating even of the vilest criminals, would concoct fictions to their disadvantage or seek to blacken them unnecessarily by gross and baseless perversions. But the ordinary staple, as we have said, of the Democratic newspapers is low abuse and shameless misrepresentations of their opponents.—Rochester Democrat.

☞ It would seem, as the result of a long series of experiments, conducted by Professor Bellini, that the best antidotes against strychnine are tannic acid and tannin, chlorine and the tinctures of iodine and bromine. These agents do not, however, act chemically on the poison, but only through the astringent effects produced by the acid on the mucous or inner surface of the stomach.

DELINQUENT TAXES FOR 1866.

Notice is hereby given, that I, S. Duke, Treasurer of Cass County, State of Nebraska, by virtue of the power in me vested, shall on the first Monday in September A. D. 1867, commence selling, at the office of the Treasurer, in Cass county, and State aforesaid, at public auction, so much of the following tracts of land and town lots as shall be necessary to pay the taxes, penalties, interest and costs, which shall have accrued thereon on that day. Sale to commence at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and on each succeeding day at that time, until all has been sold or offered for sale upon which the taxes remain unpaid on the day of sale.
