

PRESIDENTIAL ITEMS.
Facts for the People—Col.-fax!
Weighed and found wanting—Hampton!
Democratic "Brick"-dust, The La Crosse Democrat!
A standard Democratic work—
"Blair's Rhetoric!"
The trumpet blast of the Democracy —a general blare!
A new exercise in grammar—Seymour declining nomination.
The gray uniform well becomes Seymour, but how does it fit Frank Blair?
Candidates of the Fourth Party—Bright Young and Brick Pomeroy!
Hendricks says that Blair is generous. With shirts? or lemons and whisky?
Dix to Seymour—"I have troops enough to take care of the mob, and you too."
A Southern journal calls Seymour—our Horatio, mind you—the "Artful Dodger." Heavens!
A. J. compares the New York nominations to the small-pox—liable to kill, hard to cure and harder to endure.
"He (Seymour) wears the mantle of Democracy." [Copperhead paper.]
"The green mantle of the stagnant pool." [Shakespeare.] Pendleton announces that he means to keep a tight hold of the Democratic candidates all through the campaign.
Poor Belmont.
The Democratic newspapers are very much worried about the loyal carpet-baggers at the South. They prefer the Rebel knapsackers.
As the Democrats can't agree about the platform, and are still stumped with Blair, Mr. Seymour means to go it alone on his department.
The World speaks of Horatio Seymour as a "patriot." This is an allusion to the Pat Riots in New York in July, 1863.—Detroit Tribune.
Fifteen men and boys, headed by a brass band, are called "a long procession" by the copperhead journal of Scranton, Penn. What immense enthusiasm!
Many of the unfettered base their hope of Seymour's carrying New York upon the fact that his "friends" can vote oftener than the friends of any other man.
At the Democratic ratification, in Richmond, Vance declared that "what the Confederacy fought for would be won by the election of Seymour and Blair." Of course.
The Seymour-shriekers, who are endeavouring to restore the old state of things in this country, might as well try to force a three-months' chicken back into its shell.
The papers announce the portrait of Frank Blair, taken in 15 different positions. There is one characteristic common to them all; in every position he is in pursuit of office.
It took the Democratic National Convention three days to nominate a candidate, but only three minutes to pass a resolution requesting President Johnson to pardon Jeff Davis!
An Exchange says that the Democrats in Indiana are so enraged at the defeat of Pendleton that they actually show symptoms of apoplexy if a greenback is exhibited to them.
The Democratic National Convention opened with an eloquent prayer by the Rev. Mr. Morton and closed with eloquent curses, not loud but deep by the swindled Pendletonians.
The Commonwealth says: "We are expecting every day to hear some enthusiastic Democrat give as a reason for Colfax's unfitness for the Vice-Presidency, that he never was drunk in his life."
Somebody thinks that Seymour ought to be elected President, because the New York militia went to Washington when Lee invaded Pennsylvania.
Who did the more to defeat Lee, Seymour or Grant?
Mr. Pendleton, with his theory of unlimited greenbacks, clings around the neck of Seymour like the Old Man of the Sea on the shoulders of Sinbad.
Seymour is sure to be choked unless he breaks his tormentors head.
When people are drowned cannon are sometimes fired for the purpose of raising their corpa. The Democrats have been firing cannon over Seymour and Blair.<sup>2</sup> But there is no hopes of getting their heads above water.
An old soldier who has lost an arm says: "I am waiting to see if the people of this country are going to elect Horatio Seymour, and if they do I will swear that I lost my arm in a threshing machine, not in defense of my country." A New York paper says that Blair takes whiskey for medicinal purposes.
The Hartford Post says: "We are inclined to think it was "for medical purposes" — to wit for corpa. He was dreadfully corned all the time he was here."
Hendricks gave Seymour a first rate character in his recent speech in the Senate, but "didn't" think it necessary to go onto Blair," and "hadn't time to explain what the platform meant." Not altogether satisfactory, but prudent.
Doolittle says that Seymour can't be elected without the support of the "Conservative Republicans." As the survivors of that party are supposed to be only three in number, Mr. Doolittle evidently does not hope for a very large majority.
There is hardly a democratic Senator or Representative, outside of the Kentucky and Maryland members, who does not privately admit that Seymour will be defeated.
