Correspondence for this column must be written plain and grammatically with ink, and on one side OF only of white paper. Let them be short and to the point.

We learn from a communication from J. W. Barnes, residing at Savan- Three-ply, Two-ply, Union, Stair, Rush Matting, Oil-Cloth and Rug, in great variety. nah, Missouri, that there is no whisky allowed to be sold in the place, except at drug-stores And one of these sold a "man" enough to intoxicate him, a few days ago, and the consequences was the ladies gave bim a "call" and dis posed of the remaining 'fluid" by success to your efforts.

INTEMPERANCE.

Almost from time immemorial, yes, ever since our first parents were expelled from the fairy bower of the Garden of Eden, to gain their own livelihood by the sweat of the brow. has this curse of curses been doubling and redoubling its exertions in building up its strong bulwarks in defence of society. We see it in almost every village, town and city intertwining itself, like a cunning serpent, around the tendrils of society. We daily read of poor Heathens sacrificing their lives before some graven image or idol, by casting their bodies before an immense wheel and are crushed to death. Oh ! how it makes out blood run cold at the thought of being thus crushed out of America we not only read of but behold our fellowmen sacrificing their lives to that deadly poison, and merely pass it by without one thought, or making an attempt to reclaim the fallen from a drunkard's grave. Oh! how horrible it is to see a brother thus degrading himself by wallowing in the mire, with bloated visage and glaring eyes, with no higher feelings than that of the dumb brute. What cares he for the name "Drunkard?" What cares he for the many tears and pleadings of a sister, or a mother, or his broken hearted wife at his desolate home, and more than either, what re the record, which he so soon shall be called upon to stand before and give an account for every word, thought and

Watch him as he leaves his home, his little ones, and grief-stricken wife are gazing after him with the hope he may return with the same face and mind as when he departed; but, ah! 'ere night shall wrap her sable mantel around us, he is found staggering and reeling, not knowing which way to go. Follow him to his once happy home: there in one corner of a desolate room sits she whom he won from her happy home; she, whom he pledged to pro tect in herlth and prosperity, care for in sickness and adversity; sad and pale she is watching over her children as they peacefully slumber, almost hoping they may never see the day that they, too, shall feel the disgrace and dishon or their father has brought upon them.

I ask: are we, as a nation, doing our duty in trying to banish Intemper ance from our land? Are we, as a people, doing all that is in our power to blot out this, our country's foulest stain ? I answer for one and all, we are not! SADIE.

Plattsmouth, Neb. Sept. 3, 1868. A True and Touching Incident. A young man and his wife were preparing to attend a Christmas party at the house of a friend, some miles distant. "Henry, my dear husband, don't drink too much at the party to-day : you will promise me, wont you?" said she, putting her hand upon his brow, and raising her eyes to his face with a pleasing smile "No, Milley, I will not; you may trust

She wrapped her infant in a soft blanket, and they descended. The horses were soon prancing over the turf, and a pleasent conversation beguil-

"Now, don't forget your promise," whispered the young wife, as they passed up the steps. Poor thing she was the wife of a man who loved to look apon the wine when it was red. The party passed pleasantly; the time for departure drew near; the wife descended from the upper chamber to join her husband. A pang shot through her beating heart as she met him, for he was intoxicated; he had broken his promise. Silently they rode homeward, save when the drunken man broke into snatches of song or unmeaning laughter But the wife rode on, her babe pressed closely to her grieved heart. "Give me the baby, Milly; I can't trust you with him," he said, as they approached the dark and swollen stream.

After some hesitation, she resigned her p taining to a general Land Agency. Titles inves-first born—her darling babe, closely licated. wrapped in a great blanket to his arms. Over the dark waters the nobe steed safely reached the bank the mother asked for her child. With much care and tenderness he placed the bandle in her arms; but when she clasped at to her heart, no babe was there! It had stipped from the blanket, and the drunken fa her knew it not. BLACK HAWK Two Horse WALKING By practical experiments in the field and by test-ng them with the best Walking Cultivate a made, hey have been brought to a state approaching Perfection In construction. The cultivator consists of two wrought iron axistrees, arched and well braced.

The plows are simply two iron teams with DOUBLE SHOVEL PLOWS attach d to the axie by a double joint which gives the clow an easy, but at the same time perfectly true vertical and horizontal motion.

The tougue's double and fastoned to the arch of the axietree by clamps, a that it can be raised or lowered at will, when the coin is young, reducing draft, and raised when the coin is higher.

The shovels are furnished with Reversible Teeth, so that the soil can be thrown either to or from the form. It e Plows are connected by means of loose coupling, which enable the plowman to control both The following are a few of the advantageous coints of superjority which this Cultivator has over others It Is is stronger and lighter, being made a most entirely of wrought from. 2d The double points by which the showels are attached to the axic enables the plowman to move his plow either to or from the corn or lift it out of the ground with the least effort. 3d. With this Cultivator the depth of the furrow can be regulated plowing shallow or deep whether the ground is hard or soft

4th. By means of the loose coupling which con-nects the two plows you can make the two plows run any distance apart tha you may desire. With oth erplows it is almost impossible to hold both shovels, when throwing earth to the carn, and to keep them from crowding together when plowing from the corn, For further particulars, call, or address
