WHISHY VS BRAINS

Judge Bay, the temperance lecturer, in one of his efforts, got off the following hard his at "moderate drinkers:" "All those who in youth acquire a habit of drinking whisky, at forty years of age will be total abstainers or drunk ards. No one can use whisky for years with moderation. If there is a person in the audience whose experience disputes this let him make it known. I will account for it, or acknowledge that I am mistaken." A tall large man arese, and folding his arms across his breast, said: "I offer myself as one whose own experience contradict: your statement." "Are you a moderate drinker?" asked the Judge. "How long have you drank in moderation?"

"Forty years." "And were you never intexical ed?"

"Never." "Well, remarked the Judge, scanning his subject closely from head to foot, "vours is a singular case: yet I think it easily accounted for. I am reminded by a loaf of bread and a bottle of whisky. Burlington & Wilssouri sat down to dine on the bank of a clear stream. In breaking the bread he dropped some of the crumbs into the water. These were eagerly seized and eaten by the fish. That circumstance sug- CHICAGO, BURLINGTON gested to the negro the idea of dipping the bread into the whisky and feeding it to them. He tried it It worked well. Some of the fish ate of it, became drunk, and floated helplessly on the surface.— In this way he easily caught a large nomber. But in the stream was a large fish, very unlike the rest It partook freely of the bread and whisky, with no per ceptible effect. It was shy of every effort of the negro to take it. He resolved to have it at all hazards, that he might learn its name and nature. He procured a net, and after much effort caught it, and carried it to a colored neighbor, and asked his opinion in the matter .-The other surveyed the wonder a mo-ment, and then said: "Sambo, I under stands this case Dis fish is a mullet-head; it ain't got any brain?"
