PLATTSMOUTH LODGE No. 5. F. & A. M. Regular meetings at their hall on the first and third Monday evening of each month.

Geo. Mattison, Esq., one of the heaviest land owners in the vicinity of South Bend, was in the city yesterday.

One or two wagons smashed up and horses killed will teach people to not hitch their teams to R. R. cars while they are loading wagons.

Prole & Yates have just received 150 boxes of glass direct from the manufacturer at Pittsburg, embracing all sizes used in the west. Prices low. may14

Workmen are engaged making the excavation for Leonard's new building, adjoining Bloom & Co.'s on the west.

An exchange gives the following receipt for Indian Pudding: "First catch your Indians—two of them; boil till their heels come to the top; let them stand in a cool place for two weeks; then serve them with sardines and vinegar."

We can beat that. Just turn Phil Sheridan loose among them and he will soon turn them out properly "cooked."

The body of Isaac Dyer, who was drowned last week, has not been recovered, and probably never will be.

J. E. Tutt, a long time resident of the city, was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs last Friday, and is now lying in a very critical condition.

It is almost impossible to get sufficient cars to do the business of the B. & M. road.

The season has been very favorable, so far, for farm work, and large quantities of wheat and corn have been planted in southern Nebraska.

Hesser has lots of Cabbage, Tomato, and Cauliflower plants for sale, and he has the finest ones in the country. His plants are all hardy, and will all grow if properly cared for.

Four Republicans were elected in Nebraska City last Monday. This is the first time a Republican has been elected in that city for eight years, and the present success is owing largely to the herculean efforts put forth by that staunch republican journal, the Morning Chronicle. The Republicans of Otoe have felt the need of an able advocate there for years, and now they begin to see and appreciate the effects of the labors of the Chronicle.

The daily HERALD is the best advertising medium in the west. The issue of today is sent to over thirteen hundred different persons, and will be read by several thousands. Not had for a Platts-mouth daily, we think.

D. Osborne, Esq., of Dexter, Iowa, has been in the city for a day or two looking for business property. Mr. Osborne is favorably impressed with the future importance of this city, and will locate here and open an extensive jobbing house as soon as he can secure the ground and put up a building to suit his business.

Socrates, when asked what was the best mode of gaining a high reputation, replied: "To be what you appear."

Hon. A. B. Fuller was in the city this morning.

There has been not much less than fifty car loads of lumber unloaded at this place in the past three or four days.

We understand the editor of the Ashland Times recently found a seven pound local item.

LATER—Since the above was in type we learn that the item was a 9 1/2 pound!

Miller & Griffin are now receiving two car loads of lumber a day. They will open with about fifty car loads.

Wm. S. Jackson, Esq., correspondent of the Ottawa Free Trader, called on this morning. He is looking over the west, and expresses himself much pleased with our city and surroundings.

We understand that A. C. McMaken, Esq., has been appointed deputy City Marshal. He will make a good officer.

Prole & Yates are agents for the sale of the fine Old Bourbon whisky. Judges of the article say it is the best ever sold in this market.

Several large brick buildings will be commenced in this city as soon as the brick can be burned.

There are more buildings now under way in this city than we ever knew of before at any one time.

L. Broom & Co. are about renting the room formerly occupied by Platte Saunders, where they will remove their Cigar Manufactory.

It is reported that Andrew Johnson, who, it is perhaps necessary to say, was once President of the United States, is to visit Europe this season. He will leave the Constitution behind him.

O. H. Mathews, editor of the Ashland Times, came in on the train last evening. He will return to-morrow. He thinks Ashland is the greatest place this side of sunrise.

Trains from Keokuk, in connection with the Keokuk Packet Company, now make close connections with the B. & M. trains for Platts-mouth. This is a quick and pleasant route to and from St. Louis, and also one of the best routes for freight.

P. H. Barr, Esq., formerly division engineer on the B. & M. R. R. in Nebraska, has associated himself with Fuller & Wilsie, in the real estate business, with headquarters at Ashland.

An irate bar tender, having taken too freely of his own fluid, bantered his principal to "tread on his coat tails" or "knock a chip off his shoulder" last evening, and the said principal was compelled in order to quiet him to "shut off his hind" for a few moments. It helped him.

Capt. Beard, P. M. (which means post master) at Lincoln, came down on the train yesterday evening and returned this morning. He visited our city on business.

H. Newman, Esq., the representative in this city of S. Bloom & Co., is putting up a fine canvass awning in front of their clothing emporium.

A switchman in the R. R. Yard, we did not learn his name, had his foot mashed this afternoon while endeavoring to adjust a car coupling. He was trying to push the coupling pin in place with his foot, and caught it between the bumpers. He now thinks that is a bad way to couple cars.

Mr. C. B. Cooper has received the appointment of Station Agent for the B. & M. R. R. in Nebraska at this place, and entered upon the discharge of his duties yesterday. Mr. Cooper has had considerable experience in the business on eastern roads.

"The B. & M. railroad is being pushed west to Lincoln as rapidly as possible. Wooden bridges are being temporarily substituted for stone, in order to facilitate construction."

We clip the above from the St. Joseph Union. We agree with it all except the "wooden bridge" part. There is not a wooden bridge between this city and Lincoln where a stone bridge will ever be needed. The B. & M. folks never half do anything.

There will be interesting services, (D. V.), at St. Luke's Church, on Sunday next, (May 5th), 1870. After morning prayer (11 o'clock), the Rev. Merton D. Browne, Discip. St. Jno. College, Oxon, England, late Missionary to S. Africa, present Rector of "Holy Trinity," Bellevue, will preach on Church Work in South Africa. After evening pray r, (7:30 p. m.), the minister, H. St. George Young will preach of the "Po et. Con."

All are cordially invited. Seats always free. H. YOUNG.

As an illustration of how little is known of Nebraska at a distance, we heard a man telling, this morning, how he was armed and equipped when he first visited the State, expecting to be obliged to fight his way through myriads of Indians. He left the Missouri river for the west, and instead of savages covering with paint, he met farmers coming to town with produce, and saw fine farm houses, villages, etc., and finally he hid his fire arms in the wagon and acknowledged that he had never known Nebraska. He is now a valued citizen of the State, and I believe there is need of printer's ink in advertising our State.

THREE BRICK YARDS.

There are now three very large brick yards under way in the city, and we know of at least one other to be opened soon. This will give our citizens plenty of brick, and we look to see several fine brick buildings erected during the summer.

John Brown's gun that which which he defended himself at Harper's Ferry—is offered for sale by J. A. Adams, New York city. It was captured by Geo. W. Randolph, a grandson of Thomas Jefferson, who was Marshal of the day at Charleston when John Brown was hung, and who was afterward Confederate Secretary of War.

THE B. & M. HOUSE.

If there is any one thing which more than any other exhibits the growth of a city and the enterprise of its citizens, it is its hotel accommodations for the traveling public. When the eastern traveler, accustomed to all the conveniences of eastern hotel life, reaches the "far west" and finds nothing but defective arrangements for the accommodation of travelers, he involuntarily makes an indelible mental note, in which the town devoid of a hotel is put down as "moss-grown"—destitute of energy and without enterprise—consequently he infers that such a place is not the one for a man to settle in. The same opinions grow from want of many other city conveniences,—good pavements, good street crossings, hand some avenues, etc. But where all these attributes of energy, enterprise and go-ahead-iveness are found, the impression on the visitor is always favorable. He sees in these evidences of a live community. These arrow heads which point the direction of the current flowing from the many springs of inherent vigor in a place, settle definitely, in the minds of most observing men, that such localities are moving onward in the race to reach the great goal of success; and in proportion to such improvements will the favorable or unfavorable impression of travelers be meted out to our western cities.

It is, therefore, with no little pride that we point attention to the heading of this article. We know of no house in Nebraska where every comfort of the traveler is so thoroughly provided for. Spacious and lofty rooms, most thoroughly ventilated and finished without regard to cost; everything being prepared with an eye single to the comfort of its guests,—a dining room eighty by thirty feet in length; a billiard hall attached as large as any in the State, except the magnificent palace of the Shoaf Bros. at Omaha.

Every bed room is so arranged that a fire can be used in cold weather. Elegant parlors, most luxuriously furnished; suites of rooms for families; tonorial rooms, attached to office; reading rooms, bath rooms; in a word, all things which tend to make a man feel comfortable, and cause ladies to feel delighted and charmed so far as hotel life can do so, are harmoniously arranged in this well ordered and elegantly constructed hotel; and from cellar to garret, everything, including furniture, bedding, carpets and all other necessities about such an establishment is new and sweet without comparison anywhere. Situated on Main street, it is within two minutes walk from the Railroad Depot. The Post Office is next door. Five Churches—the Congregational, Episcopal, Roman Catholic, Methodist and Presbyterian are within a few minutes walk. All the County, City, Railroad, Express and Telegraph offices are on the same street and within a few blocks. The Steamers navigating the Missouri river, land at the foot of this street—three blocks from the Brooks House; and to cap the climax of the many advantages, its internal management is in the hands of the very price of Nebraska landlords J. C. Higby & Son are renowned all over Nebraska for their uniform kindness and courtesy to travelers; and with us, it is a source of great pleasure to feel that with so truly elegant a hotel as the "Brooks," and with "mine host" Higby to superintend it, Platts-mouth will be a word recalling nothing but pleasant associations in the memories of its patrons.

It is the intention of the gentlemanly proprietors to have a general opening reception on the 12th inst., and we can assure all those who design visiting Platts-mouth, that if they arrange their affairs so as to be here on that occasion they will indorse every word we have said, and insist that we have not told half the good things we should about the Brooks House.

"IN UNION TH ERE IS STRENGTH." "In union there is strength," and this is not less true in politics than in business. The Republicans have found strength in union; to this and a thorough organization they owe their first grasp upon power and all their subsequent success; to the lack of it they owe the clouds that are already hovering in their future. No public enterprise, no private scheme and no political party, can reach ruin and defeat quicker than by forgetting and neglecting these maxims. Communists think, speak and act for themselves as bodies, and not for the individuals who compose them. No one man can always make an entire community think as he does, and many a man has ruined himself in the foolish attempt to accomplish this.

We clip the above very truthful paragraph from an editorial article in the Nebraska City Times. We agree with it all except we fail to see the "clouds" spoken of. There is no doubting the statement that "in union there is strength," and none ever felt the "strength" of the "union" more severely than did the political adherents of the Times during their recent effort to destroy the union. We hope true Republicans may never forget the truths contained in the above paragraph, written by one who learned the fact through adversity.

THE STATE PENITENTIARY. The Contract Let for the Temporary Building. An act was passed last winter authorizing the erection of a temporary building to be used as a penitentiary building until the permanent structure was erected. The Inspectors met at Lincoln last week and opened the bids for the erection of the temporary building. Messrs. Hallowell & Fitzgerald, of this city, were the lowest, consequently the successful builders. They went out yesterday to close up the details of the contract, and will proceed at once with the erection of the building. Hallowell & Fitzgerald can do the job better and in less time, probably than any other two men in the State. Mr. Hallowell is one of the heaviest building contractors in the west, and Mr. Fitzgerald is the great railroad contractor.

TO TRAVELERS.

To the many who, during the summer months seek recreation and a short, pleasant respite from the arduous duties of a close attention to business, we say come to Platts-mouth. No healthier locality can be found anywhere. The nights are cool and breezy, the days balmy and pleasant. If you are fond of shooting or fishing you can have abundance of sport, and if you seek to combine business with pleasure and salt a few hundred tons down here they will pay you bread and butter, here is the place.

We have railroad connections with all parts of the continent, east and west north and south. The construction of the Burlington and Missouri River Railway in Nebraska is opening up mines of wealth for enterprising capitalists. New towns are springing up into existence all along the line, and the future of southern Nebraska looks most bright and promising. From Chicago you can get tickets through via Burlington; and from St. Louis via the North Missouri and Hannibal & St. Joe R. R., and then by Council Bluffs & St. Joe to Platts-mouth.

BUILD HOUSES.

Let us have a large block at once. We have constantly urged upon our property holders the necessity of building large business houses if they would be ready to accommodate the demand this season, and we now find men enquiring for first-class business houses when none are to be had. As no individual appears inclined to take hold of the building of a large block, we now suggest that a Stock Company be formed and a block of business and office rooms be erected. Some one can put in a couple of lots, others can put in brick, lumber, rock, hardware, labor and those who are so poor that they have nothing else to put in can furnish the cash. A three story block, with stores on the first floor, offices on the second, and a fine hall on the third floor, can be built which will return a fine income to the stock holders. Will the property holders and others interested in the prosperity of the city take hold of this matter at once, or will they wait until the building season is over and then wish they had commenced in time.

NEBRASKA CITY ELECTION.

Republican Recorder and City Council Elected. Dillon Elected because Motion opposed him.

The city election came off in Nebraska City yesterday, and resulted in the election of a Republican Recorder and three Aldermen (all there was to be elected this year.) Dillon was elected Mayor because of Morton's opposition. Had Morton only worked for the entire Democratic ticket he would have defeated all of it and elected the entire Republican ticket. What a blessing it would have been had Morton only favored Dillon's election and thereby secured Denver's election. Morton's favor, politically, is sure defeat. Sterling is the most played out political hack in the country, and we now await his oft repeated threat to burst the democratic party the moment it ceased to serve his individual purposes. We understand Sterling and Billy Miller are about to start an "honest man's party." They will suit exactly for Morton will want Billy to act as scullion for him and Billy will be perfectly contented with his post of honor.

That Serenade. The St. Joe Herald says: "We heard another serenade the other night. It was on this wise: Lady, open thy we-he-hind, and incli-hine thine ear. While the moon is be-hine, Deign my lay to be-he, ear."

We doubt very much if the He-he-Herald's man really heard that serenade. We think he saw a woman in the pa-h-lapers, as it has been going the rounds of the pre-h-ess for several months, and he just chi-h-hipped it out.—Kansas City News.

We learn from a private source that the great Zammet, Collins, Ohio, $1,500 in gold case has come to a close, and that the poor Maltese, Zammet, came out with only one hundred and ten dollars left out of his $1,500 in gold. He won't care to be arrested by Hollins again. How about "Rogue's Harbor" now?

OUR WYOMING LETTER.

Another Indian Raid—An Attack and Repulse—Cattle Killed and Herders Missing. (From our own Correspondent.)

FORT LARAMIE, Wyoming Territory, April 29th, 1870. Editor Nebraska Herald, Platts-mouth, Neb. DEAR SIR:—Our garrison was considerably excited this morning by the intelligence brought in by a citizen that the Mail Station on the Chug, about half way from this place to Cheyenne, was attacked yesterday afternoon by two parties of Indians—one of 12; the other, of 8. They were repulsed without doing any damage. They then proceeded up the Chug about four miles and attacked a camp of Herders, killing several head of cattle belonging to B. Mills, Esq. The two herders in charge of the camp have not been heard from, and it is feared they have been killed. The mounted detachment, while out making observations, saw several Indians just across the Platte this morning. It seems that parties of these savages are hovering about the Post, constantly "seeking whom they may devour." Gen. Flint, commanding the garrison, is wide awake; and if Mr. Lo comes within range of men looking out for these marauders, they will feel the virtue of lead. Several officers are now out on the Bluffs anxiously desiring to get a sight of the dastardly cowards who shrink from a fair fight and skulk along the roads awaiting weak parties that may be travelling. Last week a four mule team came down from Fort Fetterman, bound for Cheyenne for vegetables. When they arrived at La Bonta Hill they were attacked by Indians but the escort understood their business, and the Indians concluded that retreat was their best chance of safety. The weather is delightful and my garden is coming on finely. By the first of July I shall have vegetables in abundance. More anon. A. WRIGHT, Post Chaplain U. S. A.

The Farmers of Seward.

Four years ago the population of Nebraska was widely scattered over an hundred of country, ranging over four hundred miles from east to west, and a hundred from north to south. Now the farmers of Nebraska till our soil from the Missouri to Fort Kearney, and from miles up the Elkhorn valley to the State line of Kansas, in a continuous chain of settlements, north and south, east and west, through the great valleys of the Platte, the equally productive tributary valleys of the Shell Creek, Wood River, the Great and Little Nemaha, the Big and Little Blue, the Big and Little Niobrara, and others, of less note, where we find our sturdy farmers, intelligent, industrious and thriving.

Within this period Seward county has been settled with an intelligent farming community—the home and sinew of our strength—and the hope of our country. They are the workers in mines of wealth, as the results of their labors have proved. We shall only be able at this time to offer a few words, and our interests represent, and the inducements which encourage them to assist other counties in the work of building up a great commonwealth.

The soil, everywhere throughout the State, is the richest the sun of heaven ever shone upon, and no county in the State has less waste land than the county of Seward. The railroad project in Nebraska, when completed, will afford easy access to the best markets, and the annual embara-sments, consequent upon the hard struggle to weather the storm, the first years, the vain attempt or former years to a remunerative sale for surplus products, are fast giving place to the most encouraging and satisfactory condition in a pecuniary point, and our farmers thus cheered by liberal returns for their labor, are even now doing better than almost any other branch of industry in the country. They have markets in the mountain region, and the immigration they invite every year, gives us a home market also, for every grain of corn and every kernel of wheat, everything indeed that we produce finds a ready sale.

Seward county and the Blue valley invites the farmer, by all the inducements that encourage men to industry and labor. There can be no question about this. Almost every farmer who came here a few years ago, and had to struggle with poverty day after day and month after month, will now tell that to-day they are enjoying plenty and independent homes. We are proud of our farmers, and of our prosperity. All honor to the farmers of Seward, and if we have one purpose nearer our heart than another, it is to render ourselves useful to the great cause of Agriculture in this portion of our State.

Now is the time to ornament your lots, side walks, and streets in front of your premises, by planting shade and ornamental trees. Nothing adds so much to the beauty of a town as an abundance of trees scattered along every street. If you should want to dispose of your house and lot, no improvement would pay so well as to adorn the premises with a good supply of shade and ornamental trees, to work them, dig out the dead shade trees, and fill their places with live ones. Set out a tree here and there, wherever you have space sufficient, and a few weeks hence you can sit in quiet under the shade of your own trees and rejoice.

Pointed Thrust.

During the session of a certain court, a merry-faced and bright-eyed Milesian was arraigned for disorderly conduct. The Judge inquired very angrily, "If he was not ashamed to be there?" "Pon me soul, I am your honor."

"You are in a very disreputable company."

"I know it, your honor."

"It is shameful."

"Too true," was the penitent rejoinder.

"If I permit you to go this time, will you ever be caught in such company again?"

"Not unless your honor sends for me!" was the meek reply.

The New York Mail says: "Had the colored citizens of Connecticut, voted on Monday, they would probably have given 'another color' to the affair. The members of the Mississippi Legislature are economical in one respect at least. They have voted themselves one dollar a year each for postage."

Andrew J. Bander, clerk in the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad office in Toledo, yesterday afternoon. Infidelity on the part of the wife, the alleged cause Bander surrendered himself.
