PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., May 27, 1870.

THE CONVENTION.

We attended the Republican County Convention at Weeping Water yesterday, and are glad to be able to say that the proceedings of that body were marked with the utmost harmony. Several individuals labored assiduously for the election of the men of their choice, which was perfectly right and proper, but as all could not succeed those who were in the minority cheerfully acquiesed in the will of the majority. There was a very full convention—being only three votes absent—two from Oreopolis precinct, and one from South South Bend precinct. We trust that the spirit of fairness which seemed to pervade the convention will have the effect to more firmly unite the Republicans of Cass, and to show to all concerned that the party in this county is actuated by higher and nobler motives than mere personal or sectional aggraindizement. We publish full proceedings of the convention to-day.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

In pursuance of a call of the Republican Central Committee, the Republicans of Cass County met in delegate convention at Weeping Water, on Friday, July 29th, 1870, at 1 o'clock p. m., and were called to order by Hon. Isaac Wiles, Chairman of County Central Committee.

RAILROAD MEETING.

Omaha & Southwestern R. R.

Immediately after the adjournment of the regular County Convention at Weeping Water yesterday, a railroad meeting was organized for the purpose of taking action in the construction of the O. & S. W. R. R., via. Rock Bluff and Weeping Water Valley.

Hon. Lawson Sheldon, of Avoca, was called to the chair.

The meeting was addressed by Hon L. Sheldon of Avoca; Dr. W. S. Latta of Rock Bluffs; Hon. Isaac Pollard of Mt. Pleasant; Gen. Livingston of Plattsmouth; Hon. Eugene L. Reed of Weeping Water; Mr. D. L. Clapp of Stone Creek, and Mr. Edward Post of Tipton.

Some little doubt was expressed by a few parties as to the real intention of the O. & S. W. Co.—but the majority inclined to the belief that the enterprise should be encouraged. The speeches were short and to the point, and the people seemed alive to the development of that beautiful country tributary to the Weeping Water.

An Executive Committee was appointed by the chair, consisting of Hon. E. L. Reed, Chairman; R. R. Livingston, Secretary; Edward Post of Tipton; Hon. David McCay of Elmwood; D. L. Clapp of Stone Creek; Orlando Tifft of Avoca; Isaac Pollard, of Mt. Pleasant; Samuel Cannon, of Liberty; and Dr. W. S. Latta, of Rock Bluffs.

This committee will correspond with the company and take such other action as will best subserve the railroad interests of the country adjacent to the proposed line.

We are glad to see this important subject assuming a shape commensurate with its incalculable advantages to the southern portion of this county, and we assure our friends along the line that no effort will be wanting on the part of the HERALD to carry out their views and desires in this indispensible development of the material wealth of the beautiful valley of the Weeping Water.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Stranger Comes near Falling into the deep cut on Third street.

C. P. Moore, Esq., in charge of the County jail, discovered, this morning, a man lying with his head hanging over the cut on Third street, and at once rushed to his rescue. He proved to be a stranger, who was evidently sleeping off the effects of an overdose of poor whisky. It was at least fifty feet to the bottom, from where he lay, and his head and shoulders were hanging over the side of this perpendicular bank. A single miss-move would have sent him into eternity without warning.

AT WEEPING WATER.

We had intended to write a general article in relation to the country, crops, improvements, etc., witnessed on our recent trip to Weeping Water, but having delayed the matter until this late day we will only say that the county is being settled with a rapidity which is hard to credit. The crops are splendid, and the improvements made at Weeping Water and between this place and there are of the most substantial character, and many of the houses erected are very tasty in style of architecture.—In the immediate vicinity of Weeping Water we found a large number of new houses, such as remind us of eastern farm houses. At the town of Weeping Water we noticed a fair quantity of improvements; and among other things we were pleased to notice the erection of a very nice stone Church, which, when completed, will surpass anything in the interior of the State, and will compare favorably with anything in the river towns. It is a building which would cost every cent of $7,000 in Plattsmouth or Omaha, but they estimate it can be built for a much less sum at Weeping Water, where the finest building rock in the State are found in great abundance. The corners are being constructed of a superior article of white lime stone, nicely dressed.

A Mississippian has discovered that coal oil will make the hair grow. Properly applied, it will remove it unquestionably.

A Chicago arrest declined to be photographed for the benefit of the rogues' gallery. He first smashed the camera, and then finding the supply of instruments too great, smashed his own face till it was disfigured beyond recognition.

OMAHA.

We visited our sister city of Omaha yesterday, in company with Gen. Livingston, for the first time in eighteen months. We met many familiar faces there, and could not but notice the wonderful improvements in the town since our last visit. There is no use, even if there was an inclination to attempt to disguise the fact that Omaha is a city of importance, and is yet on the highway of commercial prosperity. While she has not, probably, the natural advantages of some other points she has that which is far better—the spirit of enterprise which never fails, while "natural advantages" may lie in the one place for ages. Omaha has spread out far to the north and south during the past year and a half, and she is being filled up with a classs of buildings that is a credit to her capitalists. Work on the railroad bridge at that place is being pushed ahead again, and it will be the fault or nature, and not of Omaha if a bridge is not completed there in a short time.—The present and prospective greatness of Omaha is due almost entirely to the energy and enterprise of her newspapers and the liberality of the people supporting them. While in the city we had the pleasure of attending a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Omaha & Southwestern railroad, and were much pleased with the straightforward manner they had of talking business.—The Board was full with the exception of one member, and various questions of interest to the company were up for consideration, one of which was the location of this line through Cass via Rock Bluffs and Weeping Water. A resolution was passed, by a unanimous vote, authorizing a survey of the route through this county. We say success to Omaha and her various railroad enterprises.

Sensible Remarks.

James M. Bell, for shooting Charles Austin, at Council Bluffs, was found guilty of manslaughter, and has been sentenced to the penitentiary for six years, and to pay a fine of $300. In pronouncing sentence, Judge Day, in his remarks to the prisoner said:

"The circumstances of your crime furnish but little palliation or excuse. You acted with a rashness and a precipitation going far to establish the existence of a "mind deliberately bent upon mischief and a heart perversely wicked, which are the evidences of malice, rendering a homicide murder." You were placed in no imminent danger, from the deceased. Assaulted by him unarmed, and reeling in intoxication without danger to your person or injury to your honor, you might have stepped aside and avoided the attack. You chose the unjustifiable course of standing your ground and shooting him down, as he reeled away toward you in drunken imbecility. To excuse or pass lightly by so aggravated an offence would but offer encouragement to violence, and afford immunity to crime. Unless the false doctrines of the right of self defense, which seems to pervade the public mind of the present day, are speedily eradicated, the peaceable citizen will hold his life by such tenure only as the ruffian and the bully are willing to concede.—The law justifies a homicide in extreme cases only. When one is without fault, is attacked under such circumstances as furnish him reasonable grounds to believe that there is a design to take his life, or to do him enormous bodily harm and that the danger is imminent that such design will be accomplished, he is justified in killing his assailant, if such course reasonably appear necessary in order to avoid the apprehended danger."

THE SHOOTING OF DAVIS!

THE PRISONER INTERVIEWED BY OUR LOCAL!

He is a desperate character!

Was a Member of Jennison's Red Legs!

Through the kindness of Sheriff Moore, we were permitted this morning to "interview"

CHARLES FOSTER,

the man who shot and killed the colored man, Cyrus Davis, yesterday evening.—From his own lips we hear the following particulars concerning his previous life.

HIS OWN STORY.

My name is Charles Foster; I am 45 years of age, and was born in Elizabeth county, Virginia; resided there until I was nine years of age when I removed with my parents to Ohio, and became an engineer. I served in the Mexican war. My first trip over the plains was in 1850, when I went to California. During the latter part of my life I have been living on the frontier, from the western part of Texas to the eastern portion of Colorado. In the year 1861, I enlisted and served two years in company "D," Twelfth New York City Volunteers. After my time was out, I went to Texas, making that my home; but spending most of my time at different points on the plains. Afterwards went to Leavenworth and was employed as a wagon-master by Mr. Horn, and took his train to Fort Laramie. At that place I quit my employer and joined Gen. Connor's California brigade as chief scout and guide against the Indians—was with him about three months. Afterwards employed by the Government to carry dispatches from officers stationed at different points on the plains to Denver—was some months in this service. Was soon after employed in driving stock over the Smoky Hill road for Gen. Butterfield—was in his employ I think two months. When I quit the General's employ, I went to Southern Colorado. Remained there until March 1866, when I came to this city with Barney Johnson's train, as assistant wagon-master—the train was then sold to Major Newsom & Dick Simpson. I then lived as a bull whacker to Mr. J. D. Clayton. Went to the Cache la Poudre river and from there back to Fort Kearney. I was then afterward employed on the U. P. R. R. near Grand Island as an engineer in a saw mill. I left there in February and went to Texas, where I have since been engaged in driving cattle to Nebraska and Kansas. I brought cattle to this city for various parties. I was a scout on the Sheridan-Custar expedition against the Cheyennes, Camanches, Arrapahoes, Kiowas and Apaches. I was called when with the army, and by plains men, Hellfired Jack. I was once blown up in the explosion of a boiler in Knox county, Ohio, while running a foundry engine, which accounts for the scars on my neck and breast. I have done more than one man's share of Indian fighting. Was attacked by Indians in the western part of Texas, one year ago next September, and barely escaped with my life. The man Phillips now in Brownville jail was my partner. We scouted together in the Sheridan-Custar expedition.

In the fall of 1864 I was a member of Jennison's regiment at the time Gen. Price was driven from Missouri to White river. Was with Jennison on that raid.

ANOTHER TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Otto Verhoff Shoots Himself through the Heart.

Financial Embarrassment the Cause.

About two o'clock yesterday afternoon the city was startled by the report that Otto Verhoff, a well known German citizen, had committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart. He went home to his boarding house, at Charles Schumacher's, about this hour. The family, we understand, were absent, and he seized this opportunity to shoot himself. The neighbors heard the report of the pistol and heard a man groan, and hastened to the house to find Verhoff lying on the floor shot through the heart by his own hand. The body was taken to the office of Dr. N. B. Larsh, Coroner of Otoe county, where an inquest was held, the jury finding a verdict in accordance with the above stated facts.

Financial embarrassment seems to have been the cause which impelled him to this terrible act. It is stated that he was troubled about business matters, and for some days had been gloomy and downspirited, though the amount of his indebtedness, as we understand it, was small—three hundred dollars—to pay which he had about two hundred.

Otto Verhoff was a young man about twenty-five or thirty, of German birth and very gentlemanly appearance. He was very quiet in his manners and was, we believe, held in very high esteem by those who who knew him.

The Mob at Ashland.

We have already published the particulars of the absconding Armstrong, a sub-contractor on the C. & S. W. R. R. The hands were left unpaid and very much exasperated. On Friday about one hundred or these hands met the principal contractors, Messrs. Snell & Aiken, at the Ashland crossing on the D. V. road, and took them prisoners, refusing to let them go until they paid what was due them from Armstrong.—They finally let Mr. Snell go to Fairfield to try to obtain money for them. Soon after the Sheriff of Wapello county and the Marshall of Ottumwa appeared on the ground, but did not think it advisable to attempt the rescue of Aiken, and the men were resolute in their determination to hold him and threatened to hang him should Mr. Snell fail to obtain the money to pay them. The next day the Sheriff returned with a posse and the mob concluded to let Mr. Aiken slide.—We have no accounts of any arrests being made.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

STATE NEWS.

[From the Lincoln Statesman.]

Messrs. Monell & Lashley paid one freight bill to the B. & M. R. R. one day this week to the amount of $1,400. Very good for a starter.

Mr. Beardsley, lessee of Tichenor's new hotel with his family has arrived and is fixing up as fast as possible; so look out for the opening, Monday, August 8.

We hear that parties from Omaha, Plattsmouth and this city are making arrangements to open large coal yards here as soon as the railroad is finished.

We understand some parties from South Bend, Indiana, have leased the new hotel corner of N and 12th streets and intend to call it the "St. Charles." They will proceed to furnish it in the best of style and open about the first of September.

[From the Tecumseh Chieftain.]

The railroad up the Nemaha is contracted to Tablerock—14 miles from Tecumseh. It will be constructed on to this place before another year passes away. Look out! the engine is coming up the Nemaha valley. How do these things look for Tecumseh anyway.

Horse Stealing.

It seems that a man named Charles Phillips, living in Dixon county, Kansas, stole, with the assistance of some unknown party, ten head of horses belonging to J. L. Wade, living in the same county, a few days since, and carried them off in this direction. He was pursued by a party, and finally traced to this county. Yesterday, T. J. Smith, deputy sheriff of Dixon county, filed information before Judge Morgan, who issued a warrant for the arrest of Phillips. Deputy sheriff Hugh Baker effected the arrest, and brought the prisoner into the city.—Brownville Democrat,

For Oregon.

The western bound train on the B. & M. R. R. last evening took out quite a colony of our citizens, who will settle and wax and grow fat, as we trust, on the green slopes of the Pacific. The company consisted of H. Thielson and family, H. Borden and wife, A. A. Bean and son, E. P. Rogers and H. Perkins. They go to Portland, Oregon, and will look after the interests of the Oregon & California Railroad of which Mr. Thielson is superintendent, and Mr. Rogers is to be general freight agent, Mr. Borden in charge of transportation, and Messrs. Bean and Perkins in other positions. If these gentlemen are not able to run a railroad, then we venture to say the thing cannot be done on the Pacific coast.—Hosts of friends and acquaintances will send after them their good wishes and hopes for their success and prosperity in their new home. The Hawk-Eye will follow them, not only with good words and wishes, but to keep them posted in regard to matters in the Valley of the Mississippi, which we are sure they have not left without many a sigh of regret.

Good-bye, good friends, may your golden visions be realized, your memories of the past kept fresh and green, and your future crowned with joy and content.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

PARIS, July 30.

Olliver, the Prime Minister, had an interview yesterday with the principal editors of Paris, during which he explained the position of the Government on several questions relating to Prussia. He gave some explanations of the secret treaty project, which Benedetti had previously given relative to the measures taken by the Cabinet to effect a general disarmament. He said these efforts were merely intermediary to those of Earl Clarendon for a like purpose.

Bismark replied to Clarendon, that the King refused absolutely to disarm.

Olliver said he gave the honor of his name, and that of his colleagues, that no offer was made to Prussia other than that made by Clarendon.

In regard to Rome, Olliver said it had seemed equitable and useful to the French government to evacuate Rome; equitable, because Italy had kept her promises, and useful because the promises of France unite her more closely with Italy and Austria.

PARIS, July 30.

The Journal Officiale publishes Count Benedetti's explanation of the Secret Treaty affair. It is well known that Bismark made France an offer both before and after the war with Aastria. The substance of the offer was that France should take Belgium as compensation for the aggrandizement of Prussia The Emperor, in all cases, declined the proposition. The very moment the treaty of Prague was concluded, Bismark made several proposals, looking to their condition and affecting the integrity of the States bordering on France. During one of these conversations, Bismark dictated to Benedetti this Secret Treaty project, which has just been made public, and which Bismark has kept. Benedetti gave notice of the contents of the proposed treaty to the Emperor's government at the time, but the proposition was promptly rejected. Benedetti adds that the king of Prussia was favorable to Bismark's plans.

The King rode from the palace to the railway station in an open carriage, with the Queen The carriage was surrounded with followers, and frequently stopped by the immense multitude, who were wild with emotion, shouting farewells and benedictions. Houses were hung with flags and festooned with flowers. At the railway station an arch was erected and patriotic inscriptions displayed.

PARIS, August 2—Evening.

An official dispatch from Metz, announced that to-day at eleven o'clock, the French had a serious engagement with the Prussians. Our army took the offensive, crossed the frontier and invaded the territory of Prussia. In spite of the numbers and position of the enemy, a few of our battalions were sufficient to carry the heights which overlook Saarburucken, and the artillery were not slow to drive the enemy from the town. The eclat of our troops was so great, that our losses was slight. The engagement commenced at eleven o'clock and ended at one. The Emperor assisted in the operations, and the Prince Imperial, who accompanied him everywhere, received on the first field of battle, his baptism of fire. His presence of mind and sang froid in danger, were worthy the name he bears. The Emperor retired to Metz at 4 p. m.

A Boy Drowned.

A little fellow eleven years of age was drowned at this place last Friday, under the circumstances which makes the affair one of peculiar sadness. He was the child of parents who had been camped just across the river for some days, on their way westward, and it is said, was subject to fits. On the day mentioned, he went into the river to bathe in company with a smaller boy, and while in the water was taken with a fit, it is supposed, and drowned before his companion could give the alarm, although the water is but about two feet deep at the spot. The body was easily recovered, and upon the case being known here a number of ladies and gentlemen went over to tender their sympathy and assistance to the bereaved parents, whom they found in destitute circumstances.

A subscription was promptly made up here for the purpose of giving the child a decent burial, and the next day the remains were interred in the Beatrice cemetery, after having been nicely clothed and coffined.—Beatrice Express.

Winter Wheat in Nebraska.

Mr. M. Maher, one of the best farmers in the country, laid upon our table on Monday last, a specimen of red winter wheat grown on his farm on Shell Creek, which we have seldom seen equalled.

One and a half acres of land, a peninsula on Shell Creek, slightly sheltered at the North by timber, was selected for the experiment. Two bushels of seed were sown the first week of September under very unfavorable circumstances—the season having been a very wet one—and this specimen was harvested on Saturday last. We shall know before long how many bushels to the acre were produced and also the weight per bushel, but judging from the appearance of the grain we should say that it would weigh from 63 to 65 pounds to the bushel.

Maher is of the opinion that he can raise 60 bushels to the acre of this kind of wheat, on the clear prairie, and he intends to make the trial next season.

He thinks that it ought to be drilled in, in August, six inches deep.

Maher's farm is eight miles Northwest of Columbus and if winter wheat does well there it will certainly flourish anywhere in Central Nebaska.—Platte Journal.

[From the Daily Lincoln Journal.]

General Victor Vifquain has been in town several days, making final arrangements for the departure of his expedition to the Republican river, the Nebraska City Chroniete to the contrary notwithstanding. The excitement created by this move is quite astonishing, and we may look for quite a settlement on the Republican before many days are passed. The expedition will be under the sole control and guidance of the General.
