The needle of the McLean & Hooper is short and straight, and is not open to the objection of cibration and its results in long or curved needles, it is never set too high, nor too low. The machine is always in order; sews from two common spools without rewinding; wastes no thread; cannot tangle if run without reads, nor when the casy passage of the goods is ing; wastes no thread; cannot tangle if run without goeds, nor when the easy passage of the goods is obstructed. The feed is never dull, is positive, and is the very strongest feed in use. The Machine is free from springs, which tend only to weaken and get out of order. The most delicate seamstress are the McLean & Hooper without injury, being the lightest running machine ever made. The inventor considers to invention an improvement that does not simplify, and he very justly kept in view the fact that an Sewing Machines are used chiefly by those who, as a general rule, know little of practical mechanics, a greater degree of simplicity in their construction and use, and consequently a lower range of prices were osciutal, in order to meet a universal want.
