The jury in the Marvin-Boyd man aughter case, came into court Sunday renoon at 11 o'clock, with a verdict, having been out eighteen hours. Chief Justice Mason, and the several lawyers engaged in the case, were sent for, when it was ascertained that the jury had found both G. W. Marvin and Samuel Boyd guilty of manslaughter, and fixed Marvin's term of imprisonment in the State penitentiary at three years and six months, and Boyd's term in the same place at six months.
