The meeting was harmonious, and altogether a grand success.

REFORM. Yes, we need it, and the HERALD, for one, will most heartily endorse any measure that looks towards a true and honest reform in our National or home olities; but the unthinking yell which bouts reform, reform, is too much like the mad cry that swells up from the broats of overburdened Paris when they shout Lberty, liberty. Their libcity means anarchy, and a great deal of he reform of the present day means only a change in the plunderers, a new heal at the offices and patronage of the government. Honest as Horace himself may be, he is surrounded by a hungry borde, and were it possible for him to be elected, such a hungry swarm of half starved and ferocious beggars would rush pon him as to preclude the possibility any honest reformation in these mat ers, at least, for it is not probable that he man who, by all his friends accounts, unnot refuse a needy villain's check for centy or thirty dollars, could, when resident, refuse the same scamps an office of profit or prominence, Think well of this fact, oh, Reformers!

In the course of time the property o the great Admiral in England has accumulated until it is roughly estimated a $125,000,000. Think of that. Also there being nobody left in England who wants so much money, a lot of Americans have set up claims thereto and all the claimants met in Philadelphia not long since 'to see what they could do.'

The New York Herald tells it thus: "The claimants are scattered over all parts of the Union, and every day fresh ones are turning up. Women Voting

The London Examiner, noting the assertion that women could not be induced turn-out at the next re Union of Soldiers to vote if they had the right, refers to the statistics of their conduct in the municipal elections where they already enjoy the privilege. It gives the results of sixty-six elections, showing that out of every 1000 women registered, 566 went to the polls, as compared with 564 out of every 1000 men registered. The les-son of those elections is more striking when the actual figures are given. Out of 27,946 women registered where a conport of Committee on By-Laws and En- impressive and were conducted after the test occured, 14,416 voted.
