TRIBUTES OF AFFECTION.

"My friend, I wish thee happinessbut if thou seek thy happiness on earth alone, I wish thee none-Sayest thou this cannot be the wish of friendship? Whom dost thou call thy friend? Him who would wish thee for an hour to feed on air, and when that hour is past in which substantial and eternal good had gone beyond thy reach would leave the poor and famishing forever?-

Again I say I wish thee happiness, but
