TALMAGE Editor. Contributors.

The Christian at Work is an independent, un-sectarian Journal, devoted to Religion, Morals, Reform, News, Literature, Music, Science, Art, etc.; and is replete with every variety of mat-ter suitable for the household, including Stories, Poems, Tales for Children, and other contribu-tions by eminent writers. It is edited by T. DeWITT TALMAGE. who is editor in fact, and not simply in name, and throws into the paper all of his wonderful talent and energy. In his own language, he says: "We take this chair not as a pastime, nor because we have nothing else to do, but because we feel that the Lord God calls us to the work." It is the only paper to which he in any way contributes. It contains each week an accurate stenographic report of his sermons.

C. H. SPURGEON, other paper in America.

The form of the paper is a large quarto, sixteen pages, pasted and trimmed, and is convenient for reading, binding and preservations

Our Chromos.

Concluding that the day has passed for the class of chromos hitherto offered, we take a new departure, and give our subscribers something ten times better. The first and most noted is "The Twins." By Sir Edward Landseer, the greatest painter of animals that the world has ever produced. "A Wee Bit Fractious," our next picture, is a ferent production of the famous Scotes painter. Thomas Faed, of the Royal Academy of Art. Our third picture, by the same eminent painter; is entitled

"Sabbath Afternoon." These two pictures make a most appropriate pair. The appropriate place for "The Twins" is that of a centre-piece between the others. The publishers, to place the Chromos and paper within the reach of all, have made a Great Reduction in the price, and the Christian at Work and either the large chromo "The Twins," or the pair of smaller ones "A Wee Bit Fractions", and "Sarbath Afternoon", can be obtained at the unparalleled low price of $3.50. THOS. W. SHRYOCK, Agent.
