In fact they prospered so well that only a few days before the tragedy the young man spoke to some of his neighbors, telling them that he had $800 to lend to some one who could give security and pay interest on this little time deposit. But his neighbors did not want to borrow, so he told Beltz, his brother-in-law, and others, that he would on the following Monday take his money to Belleville to deposit in the savings bank in that town. These were probably the unfortunate words which led to

Although the murder was committed on the night of the 19th, nothing was known of it until the afternoon of the next day, when Benj. Schneider, a neighbor living about a half mile from the Stelzenriede farm, came to the house to get some seed potatoes which the son had promised him the day before. Arriving at the door he knocked, but a dead silence was closed but not locked, and he beheld the ghastly sight of five human corpses, all within sight of the entrance door.

The Stelzenriede house is a plain one-story frame containing three rooms-a sitting-room, also occupied as a sleeping-room; a bed-room, and a kitchen with an open porch in the rear. The house stands off the road some twenty yards, and fronts east, facing the road, a broad southwest corner of the main room on a broad, old-fashloped bedstead. When Benj. Schneider opened the front door he saw the corpses just as they lay when life left them. The head of Friedrich, the old man, was lying across the sill of the door, with a gash from the right ear extending somewhat ingularly down to a point under the left ear. DEAR SIE—I owe you personally my best thanks for sending to us (the Brooklyn Tabernacle Congregation) one of the Smith American Reed Organs to the Academy of Music. It is perfectly wonderful that so small an instrument in size should have sufficient power to lead a congregation of so many thousand people. The Trustees, as well as myself, are much pleased with it. The quality of Tonk is also all that can be desired. It speaks for itself; and all I have met with, who attend the services, speak of it as most satisfactory. Accept my thanks, and believe me to remain most respectfully yours.
