

The Heraldian says the Omaha Indians have 300 acres in corn this year and are working splendidly. Good for Indians.

POLITICAL

The Republican Executive Committee meet at Omaha on Tuesday, June 4th, at four o'clock P. M., at the office of C. F. Bristol.

The Lincoln Journal thinks that the coup d'etat by which Vining expects to enchain the Iowa R. R. Pool, will inure to the benefit of the B. & M. on account of its connection at Plattsmouth. Let it inure.

The Beatrice Express wants a "rest" on the oldest paper in Nebraska and thinks if the News and Advertiser would drop their age it would leave room for more news on other matters. It's hard to please every one, even other editors, ain't it now?

Farmer Hobson, of Cass County, has been sending his apples about lively lately. We have observed notices of them in a good many of our exchanges. By a process of his own he saves fall and winter apples until in June, sound as a nut. The Grange ought to patent that.

A Boston man was cursing an editor the other day when he fell dead. Similar instances have been reported lately. Men should be careful in speaking of anything sacred.

It is this thing should prove general, some folks in Plattsmouth had better go slow.

The Lincoln Blade seems to take exceptions to our remarks about it and the Journal. In what connection the gentlemen of the proprietors of the Journal comes in with regard to our remarks we fail to see. We did not say they were not gentlemen, nor, in fact, allude to them. Which way did you get up that morning, Caffrey?

The New York Sun in some comments on the Iowa-Nebraska railroad muddle uses the terms "paying Iowa, and repudiating Nebraska," at which the Omaha Republican grows justly indignant, and asks the Sun to show an instance where Nebraska ever repudiated a dollar. It then hopes that the Sun will "do justice and make the amendment honorable to Nebraska." Great Moses! did you ever know the Sun to do justice to any one, or ever make an honorable correction.

COUNTY BRIDGES.

For a long while the farmers and people of Cass County have complained of their bridges. Good roads and good bridges almost make a poor country fit to live in, and bad roads with worse bridges spoils the comfort of a residence in an otherwise rich and handsome county.

Our Commissioners have gone to work at last and taken this bridge matter fairly in hand determined that Cass County shall be second to none in the state in this respect. Mr. M. L. White, one of the Commissioners went East not long since and contracted for a number of car-loads of the very best timber for bridging to be found in the market. The posts and supports are white oak from the forests of Indiana and they are to be covered with an anti-decay preparation that will make them last for 25 or 30 years any way. As we understand the matter the Commissioners propose to build a few bridges under their own supervision as samples, and others as needed will be let by contract. The ordinary County bridge lasts just about five years, with a good deal of fixing meanwhile. These bridges are built to last twenty-five at least. This is a good move if carried out thoroughly. Now go ahead Messrs. Commissioners and let us see what you can do.

THE CURRENCY QUESTION AGAIN.

From a conversation with a good old farmer of Cass, we have received a notion that he, and perhaps some others, mistake our position on the currency question. Because we have taken a clear, plain stand against inflation, it does not follow that we wish to contract our present volume of currency at all. We have never argued anything of that kind, neither do we think a return to specie payment now, arbitrarily, advisable. It certainly strikes us that this country needs more than anything else. If our wise legislators would just let the currency question alone entirely, we would do well enough. We need neither expansion or contraction, but simple rest, and a definite status. The business of the country will right itself, is righting itself, just as fast as it can. When Congress adjourns and capital knows that it is safe for awhile, at least, from legislative foolery money will become plentier. There is enough of it somewhere, and just for this reason, we don't wish to water any that we have.

The simple making of more money at Washington, could not help the West nor bring greenbacks out here. We want to impress this on the minds of our readers. We did hear one man say, "Government ought to issue more money, and give it to the West!" It would be idle to argue with such a man, but unless government should really literally do that, give us the currency, we could not get more than we have, were millions issued to-morrow. We must work, raise something, sell something, and keep our money home to get money. There is no royal road to wealth, nor to the making of money. Money's not wealth; labor is the only real wealth of a land, the fact that every man can get cash for everything he raises, produces or sends away, shows that there is money enough in the country somewhere, to do the business of the country.

THE COAL FIELDS OF CASS CO.

One bright and pleasant day last week, just before the late showers, a calvade of gentlemen, no ladies this time, might have been seen slowly gathering together on Main street in the town of Plattsmouth.

At least they might have been seen by any one who got up early enough and looked long enough. First came lawyer Smith and his ponies accompanied by the great Professor and State Geologist, Mr. Aughey, then the handsome greys of Sheriff Cutler darkened the avenue, and last, but not least by any means, came Mickelwait with a huge carriage and spanking pair of blacks.

What means all this hubbub? asks a quiet citizen. It means coal. It means mines. It means fire, light, railroads, and various other things that follow in the wake of coal fields. That morning it meant mostly having a good time. Each wagon was loaded with a jolly party, and all the town that was awake gave them a jolly send-off. Twelve or fourteen miles down the river, somewhere in below Hagood's lies the coal district, and in due season our adventurers and scientists arrived on the spot. The Heraldian man not being one of the party can only tell what they done from hearsay, and said report vouches that the Professor gave some of the party a good tramp up and down the hills. When they reached the shaft which is about forty feet down, VanArman (who of course was along) thought he would go down. MacDonagh, of the Watchman, threw a lot of matches and sulphur in the mouth of the pit, and Van thinking that his time had come, or that he was too close to home, scrambled up the ladder in double-quick time. A number of the party then went down the opening, and prospected in every direction, breaking off chunks and bringing up specimens.

The Prof. reports a good vein of 16 inch coal at this place, and the prospect of it's getting thicker as it is worked further in. They have already figured out several millions of bushels to the mile, and as the prospect is that coal will be found at other points in this, Cass County seems to have settled the fuel question, for this end of the State any way.

In the U. S. District Court May 27, leave was granted the counsel of Hon. J. V. Scammon to file a general denial of his alleged indebtedness and alleged bankruptcy, as set forth in an application made by the United States Mortgage Company.

Inasmuch as Mr. Scammon is known to have been the founder and former owner of this journal, its friends have expressed an anxiety to know if the legal proceedings commenced against him will in any manner affect the Inter Ocean company or its property.

COMMENTS ON "COMMENTS."

Open Letter to Mrs. Spurlock & Co.

LADIES—I am sorry to see that my Proclamation concerned you so intimately as to cause you to rush into print with your comments on it. I regret that these Ladies of whom Mrs. Spurlock is the mouthpiece, have had their dear corrus pinched by the shoes of intemperance, and resulting impetuosity. It was my advocacy of the cause of temperance, and a heartfelt desire to aid the good ladies in the work of reformation, that prompted me to issue my proclamation, forbidding Drunkards, Idiots, Indians, Minors, etc.; and urging men who had a limited amount of stamps, to take it home to their families, and stay there themselves. I am sorry these hints did not suit Mrs. S., and the rest of the crusaders. It is not necessary for me to quote Scripture, History, high Medical authority, and legions of Clergymen of the different denominations, for the salutary effects of pure liquors, wines, ale, beer and cigars, taken in moderation. I could fill several papers with the different extracts. I am as much opposed to intemperance in drinking, as I am to intemperance in eating, in ladies' dress, and windy language. The comments were decidedly intemperate and windy, and the machine needs a safety-valve.

Mrs. S. abuses me for excluding pappers and loafers from my Billiard Hall. It is not any more than she and her company do in their Churches every Sabbath, for these extortionist ladies would turn up their pretty noses with an eloquent sneer, if a ragged, penniless man or woman dared to invade their pew, or even the Church itself; how she would sneer her water-proof robes, or other finery around her, for fear of contamination. I do not allow my patrons to become intoxicated on liquor which I keep pure while I prevent the intoxicated from entering my saloon, like the blind leading the blind. Here is a specimen of the Christianity Mrs. S. & Co. are taught: "Sith the Lord's thought your sins are as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow."—Isa. I, 18. Christ said: "I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance."—Matt. IX, 13; Mark II, 17; Luke V, 32. Consult also Luke XIII, 7, and while Mrs. S. and her party are comparing what they've been taught, with what Christ taught, I will prepare some facts that may condemn some of them more emphatically.

The truth is, these ladies are not at all troubled about their morality. Being a little stultified, they like sensation, display, tomfoolery, and a little cheap notriety, with which I will be painfully gratified to accommodate some of them, if they desire it. Yours for Temperance and no credit given.

Western women are grumbling terribly because the managers of agricultural fairs don't give at least a year's notice when they offer prizes for the finest babies. The following advertisement appears in the Washington Chronicle of recent date: "An obscure young lady would write for writers or authors. Modesty prevents her mentioning why they might prefer her writings to their own. Address, &c."

Wm. L. Hobbs, Esq., ex-Treasurer of Cass county, Neb., has in our city during the past two days investigating farming by use of the Fumain plant. After becoming satisfied of its practicality and value, he has purchased the exclusive right of Cass county for two thousand dollars, and received deed for the same. He intends to engage extensively in the manufacture of leather at Plattsmouth. As Mr. H. is a substantial business man and a general farmer in his county, he ought to receive liberal encouragement in this enterprise, which will be of great benefit to the city.—Lincoln Journal.

May the name of Hobbs live long and reign high in Cass County.

Garfield on Editors.

With such exquisite grace has Garfield painted the picture of the editor who sits in his country office that I yield in despair. That editor is never hurried; he forms no hasty opinions; he waits until he has consulted the county, and then, at the end of the week, passes his opinion upon the doings of Monday, and rests. [Laughter.] Just as the grangers keep my friend from Illinois (Mr. Cannon) in awe, just so do I tremble before the editors of the county. As the grangers received from him love mingled with awe, so do these editors receive from me peculiar tokens of respectful consideration. And do they not deserve them? They have a hard, hard time, and through it all are faithful and true to the humblest of their representatives. When you are in your chair, Mr. Speaker, and I am at my desk in the sleepy Hollow of your left, your eye I never catch; I catch the eye of my country editor every time. [Great laughter.] If I go down stairs, to make myself clean at my country's expense, or go down to strengthen myself by eating a few oysters at my own expense, and a malevolent member on the other side of the House calls for the yeas and nays during my absence, he sees me, and records the fact that I dodged. [Great Laughter.] If it should happen, through some mistake, that I do catch the Speaker's eye, or some gentleman yields me thirty minutes of his time, you, Mr. Speaker, do not listen to me; few of my fellow members in this House listen to me, but I am strengthened by the thought that I am talking away beyond you and beyond them for the constituency which I have the honor so imperfectly to represent, and that, as the watch-dog of his constituency, the country editor listens to me, that he hears every word, and that it pleases or displeases him it will either mat or make me. [Laughter.]

THE FOREMOST TONIC OF THE AGE.

Taking into consideration the character of its vouchers, the history of its cures and its immediate and local application, and its tendency to substitute healthy for diseased action throughout the system. It is the tonic feeble and torpid it produces a vitalizing impression upon the nervous system. No sooner has the dyspeptic swallowed a dose of it than he knows by his sensations that his stomach has received an accession of vigor. It increases the desire for food and the ability to assimilate it. If the liver is deranged, it improves the condition of the organ and imparts to it a new and healthy impulse. The bowels being obstructed it promotes the flow of bile into the intestinal canal and thereby relieves them and re-establishes their natural action. Its effect is most beneficial to the nerves and kidneys is equally salutary. It shortens, tones, alters and regulates the whole system.
