THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

By the President of the United States of America: We are reminded by the changing seasons

It is fitting that at stated periods we should cease from our accustomed pursuits and from the turnoil of our daily fives, and unite in thankfulness for the blessings of the past, and in cultivation of kindly feelings toward each in cultivation of kindly feelings toward each

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States

--- of America the ninety-ninth U. S. GRANT.

HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

By the Governor of the State of Nebraska. In conformity with the 'Proclamation of the President of the United States, respect for a custom of our forefathers, and in reverential action of our forefathers, and the report of the State abstance of the state abstance as far as practicable, from their usual avocations, and observe the day in a manner becoming our surroundings.

And I entreat of all those endowed with the substantial gifts of prosperity, a kindly remembrance of those in the abodes of want. Let the accustomed gutherings "be made forous by the exercise of that cheerful bounty which blesses the receiver and giver alike, and which is always an offering peculiarly acceptable to Him who holds the lowly in the solicitude of His infinite care."

When he came down to Bloss he grabbed for a cap "A", held it for a second, and then drove for the "Y" box. Then he threw that back and picked out a "S" mark. No sentence can commence with a dollar mark, and the typo pansed, spat on his hands and rested his foot on the cross-bar of his rack. 'After a moment he grabbed a "ffi" but slowly replaced it, and toyed with an italie "Z." Then he spit on his hands some more, corrugated his brows and hauled the copy under his eyes. It was no go. He held the page further off, close to his nose, slanting to the right, and square before the window, but he couldn't start it, and he knew in his soul that no other human outside the Enquirer could do it. As afternoon faded into twilight he laid the page aside, set up two or three lines out of his head, and then slipped into his coat said he'd got to go to the depot to see a friend, and he was gone. In his stick he had set up the words: Tell my mother that I will meet her on the other shore." He probably will. He was seen at the foot of Griswold street, heard to ask if death by drowning will be guaranteed to be satisfactory.
