Another is an unbleached chip (far pret-tier and more becoming than the staring, dead-white ones), is trimmed with pale blue and white silk and feathers and a wreath of forget-me-nots and white lilacs on the inside. Another still is a Leghorn turned jauntily up in the back and drooping over the face. It is trimmed with an exquisite plume and torquoise silk of delicate corn-color, while a spray of pale straw-colored wild roses in full bloom and two or three buds fall from one side, and a pale pink wild rose, looking as if too fragile to touch, looks at "the world and things" from the front of the hat. A Panama hat is faced with gray and enlivened by a dash of "cardinal red" in bows and flowers. A dainty chip is encircled by a wreath of apple blossoms and silk and plume of the same dainty hue, and a drab, fine straw, turned up at one side, has gray feathers and long ends, with a crimson knot on one side, over which nod graceful fuchsias of the same rich shade. These are some of the many head-coverings to be carried with the effects of a young lady richly endowed by the kindly immortals with many charms and fascinations.

----Snake-Charmers at Benares.

One morning two snake-charmers called at the hotel. Around their necks huge boa-constrictors were twined, and each carried jars of smaller snakes and one of scorpions. The performance consisted in taking the venomous snakes from the jars in which they lay coiled, and, in picking them up, the men placing their fingers in the reptiles' mouths-tantalizing them to a frenzy and then wrapping the whole about their heads and necks, where the hissing, writhing mass presented a frightful spectacle.

A cobra bit the finger of one of the men twice, and each time he immediately made use of various charms-placing a small round stone over the cut flesh, smelt of a piece of wood resembling flag-root, and then used it for marking a circle about his wrist. This he told me would effectually prevent the absorption of the poison into ie system. The stone draws out the blood, and with it, of course, the virus. It is generally supposed, however, and with much reason, that the poison glands of the cobra have been removed in the first instance by the crafty snake-charmers. Several times the cobras advanced until within a foot of my chair but turned back at command of their masters. During the entertainment one of the men played at intervals upon a sort of flageolet. The scorpion divertimement consisted in stringing number of them together (as the whips of the Furies were made), which the men then hung upon their lips, nose and ears. -Frank Vincent, Jr., Scribner for June.

The President's Third-Term Letter.

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Post (Dem.) says that the President expresses himself as greatly relieved at what he regards as the settlement of the third-term question. In a conversation regarding it he said : Friends and foes have alike been troubled this bugbear, but they have not been troubled half as much as I have. The number of letters sent to me, anonymous and ber of letters sent to me, anonymous and otherwise, offering all sorts of advice in the premises, is almost countless. Very few people, however, have talked to me regard-ing it until to-day, and I find that a great many regret my course; but Washington is not always a healthy place from which to judge of public opinion. I believe the ma-jority of the people of the country will ap-preciate the difficulties I have labored under and will give me the credit of being truth-ful. I really do not intend to be a candi-date, and if anyone construes my letter othervermin date, and if anyone construes my letter otherwise, or that I am seeking or will accept a nomination, they will do me injustice. That is all that I have to say, only to repeat that I never felt more relieved after performing a public or political duty in all my life than I
