Gen. Babcock in Court.

ELEVENTH DAY. Col. Broadhead began the closing argu-powers, continued belingerent and threatened to declare war against Turkey when the proper time arrived.

A FIRE at Athens, N. Y., on the 19th, burned to a crisp.

Son, went back to save find that corruption nested within the White House they crush it out.

Mr. Storrs, on behalf of the defense, reviewed the testimony, and replied to the summing up of Col. Broadhead. He said fendant. ing had been adduced to prove the defendant guilty, but that the prosecution had invited the jury to assume a crime that had not been proven. Mr. Storrs was obliged to suspen his remarks because of sickness, and the court adjourned.

TWELFTH DAY. Mr. Storrs; for the defense, resumed his adand spoke continuously until the session closed for the day-a period of nine hours alng to show that they were all susceptible of an explanation compatible with the theory of the entire innocence of the defendant. evidence of Ev rest, whom he characterized s a lying fugitive, whom the prosecution would not trust with a gallon of spirits in which the Government had an interest of seventy cents, but who was allowed to sweaf away the character of an innocent man. He claimed that his testimony had been entirely answered by that of the witness Magill, who was unimpeached and unimpeachable. Mr. Storrs closed with an eloquent peroration.

THIRTEENTH DAY. Judge Porter, for the defense, made the losing argument on the 22d. He spoke in complimentary terms of the counsel for the prosecution, but said they had tried the case every stroke they gave the defendant is really thrust through him to the President him-self." Judge Porter, in strong language, condemned the course of the press toward Gen. Babcock, and said he had had the misfortune of a pre-judgment of his case by the news-papers. The counsel then reviewed the testimony at great length, and insisted that nothing had been adduced which was not

The jury had tothing to do with the opinions of coun-sel as to the cases of Joyce, McDonald, Avery, or McKee. He asserted that he was acting with the Republican party in attempting to crush out wrongs and frauds, and quoted the 'cesident's language to show that he was ecting in harmony with the Administration-Let no guilty man escape." He demanded a verdict of guilty as to the defendant. PIFTERNTH DAY.

Judge Dillon read his instructions to the ncluded in various groups the telegrams and many of the letters introduced in evilence. In regard to the issues, he said that two main questions arose; one as to the exstence of the conspiracy, and the other as to first question was evidently admitted by both sides. As to the last, it was a question solely of circumstantial evidence. Mr. Bowen and the Plymouth Church Examining Committee.

An Associated Press dispatch of the 23d says very exciting and unlooked for events had occurred at a meeting of the Plymouth Church Examining Committee, held at Assistant-Pastor Halliday's house in Brooklyn, on the evening of that day, at which Henry C. Bowen appeared by invitation, accompanied by his sons Edward and Henry E., and Or. Ward, publisher of the Independent.

HENRY E. BOWEN'S VERSION. The following is a summary of Mr. Henry E. Bowen's account of the affair On entering the room Mr. Bowen was astonished to find a company of forty or fifty persons assembled, embracing the members of the committee, the Chair-Beecher, his sons Henry and William, Oliver Johnson and Benjamin F. Tracey Mr. Bowen being called upon for his tatement, presented and read it. Previous to doing so, he expressed his surprise at such a large audience, and asked the reason of their presence. He was told that friend he cared to; the only objection was to reporters; that the company came with the committee's invitation, not Mr. Beecher's. Mr. Bowen repried that he had no obection, but the responsibility of publicity must rest with them; he said he came there present his statement to the Examining ommittee and nobody else; that he should ecline to give it to the press, and if published it should be by the Examining Committee and not by him. After finishing his statement and saying, in reply to a question, that that was the Church investigation held in 1874 was all the facts he had to give that evening; equate, and that Plymouth Church had he started to leave, when one of the comnittee protested against his doing so, and Mr. Shearman said he (Bowen) would not be permitted to leave the room. Mr. Bowen stepped toward the door of the front parlor, when Mr. S. V.
