DEATHS.

LIVINGSTON. Died at the residence of his brother, Dr. R. R. Livingston, in Plattsmouth, Neb., on Thursday March 9th, 1876, Mr JOHN RAMSEY LIVINGSTON, aged 47 years and 27 days.

We stop our press to insert the above notice. Deceased was a brother of Dr. R. R. Livingston present Mayor of this town. We know little of his past history or character, we only know that a solitary and dissatisfied man came home here to die. Death is always a solemn fact, but when it takes our neighbors and friends it strikes home with a force never realized before, and the HERALD may be pardoned for sincere tears of regret shed, for the brother of a friend, while writing this article. May the great and all merciful God who looks into all souls grant mercy and peace to this one which has just passed from among us.

It is sent, postage paid to any address for fifty cents per year. This paper is published at the office of the Farmer, a large, 8-page Farm and Family Journal. The Inter Ocean very truly says that there are a set of Republicans who are engaged in shaking hands across the bloody chasm and making friends with "estray sheep," thinking it of more importance to conciliate their enemies than their friends. There are several notable cases in our thoughts as we write, but we will not name them, trusting that in the future they will remember that ingratitude is the unpardonable sin.—Express.

BITTER

Are the experiences of this life, none are without its silver lining. Trouble and cares come; some abide with us; some pass away.—To-day the body is vigorous, to-morrow it is feeble and full of pain. Life at best is short, the great problem how to perpetuate it is still unsolved. Life, however, can be prolonged, the weak and feeble body made strong, no matter from what cause or disease arising, and instead of being a burden to discipline and debilitated bodies, cause misery and enjoining pleasure; for prove yourself by a single dose of Dr. Green's Nervura. Do not delay, but if you are suffering with ague, Dr. Green's Ague Pills will drive it away.
