The chairman of the Central committee acts, as we have always understood, by the consent of the regular party of Case county, and is a member of the con. from the 2d Ward. He understands his position fully, and his powers, and in the true will enforce them. He has not been in the habit of thinking that sneering and sneering endeavored a man to him as a friend particularly. Other.

Since reading the report of the last commissioners proceedings we have no doubt that the officials are too expensive. Mr. Wase smokes too many pipes a day. Banasy should have the board restrict him to one an hour, and he might require him to lay his tobacco in Chicago. He can get it a little cheaper there. This Knowles does too many steel pens we know, and they ought to be bought at the factory. Straight makes 15c a gross on them, that's too much. Clerk Wells wastes his time, we've seen him dip his pen in and flit it all over. Ink is expensive.

JOHN DILLON AGAIN. John Dillon, very ably supported, began with a double bill, introducing first the laughable comedy of Buckstone's "Married Life," and closing with his local specialty of "Protractors." So far as the star himself was concerned, he appeared rather more in the character looked for in the final farce than in the "Married Life." The role of Henry Dows, though a comedy, was especially noted, and the audience expressed a great interest in the character of the comedian.
