A RECENT New York dispatch says a large number of counterfeit five dollar bills were in circulation in that city and vicinity. Among them were counterfeit bills on the First National Banks of Chicago, Ill.; Paxton, Ill.; Canton, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Aurora, Ill.; Galena, Ill.; Louisville, Ky., and on the Traders' National Bank of Chicago. The best bills are on the Chicago banks—First National and Traders' National. Some of the others are fairly executed, but not sufficiently so as to deceive any one who is on the look out for the "queer." There is no such bank as the First National of Galena, Ill.

THE Coming Fourth in Philadelphia. PHILADELPHIA, June 2. The programme for the Fourth of July celebration has been finally decided upon. At sunrise there will be chiming and bells, and a salute of 100 guns. The ceremonies in Independence Hall will begin with the selection of National airs by the band, after which there will be a reception by the Mayor and an introduction by Gov. EPITOME OF THE WEEK. CONDENSED TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. A CONSTANTINOPLE dispatch of the 4th says it was officially announced that the ex-sultan Abdul Aziz, had committed suicide that morning, by opening the veins of his arm with a pair of scissors.

THE regular Florida Republican State Convention, held on the 24, nominated M. L. Stearns for Governor and D. Montgomery for Lieutenant-Governor. Of the eight delegates chosen to the National Convention seven are for Blaine and one for Conkling. A bolt was made from the regular Convention, the bolters nominating Senator Conover for Governor and Mr. Lee for Lieutenant-Governor. A MAJORITY of the five Circuit Judges for Cook County, Ill., to whom the question of the legality of the election of Mr. Hoynes as Mayor was submitted on the application by Mr. Colvin for a writ of quo warranto, have decided adversely to Mr. Hoynes. Judges McAllister, Rogers and Williams concurring. Justices Farwell and Booth dissenting. The decision is to the effect that there has been a vacancy in the Mayoralty ever since the expiration of the term for which Mr. Colvin was elected, and that the failure of the Common Council to provide for the filling of such vacancy at the recent election, by issuing a call for the same (the regular time for electing a Mayor being biennially beginning with the year 1873), nullified the vote of the electors in the late election. It is also decided that the Common Council can still call a special election for Mayor to fill the vacancy.

A VERY exciting scene occurred between Messrs. Blaine and Knott, before the Judiciary Committee in Washington on the 7th. The Hon. Mr. Knott, Mr. Blaine demanding of Mr. Knott his reason for not informing the committee of the public of its reception. Mr. Knott explained that he had made inquiries as to Mr. Caldwell's whereabouts, and had been informed that he was in London, and that the telegram in question was received it contained no address in London, and he was unaware of the custom of the Cable Company of retaining the address at the point from which a dispatch is sent, and not sending it over the cable. He read the dispatch to four members of the committee, and believed it to be a trick, and on that account had not made it public. Had the dispatch said Blaine was guilty—had (Caldwell) had got the bonds for him—it would have been an injustice to Mr. Blaine to have given it to the public. Mr. Blaine here intimated that had it been unfavorable to him, the dispatch would have got out pretty soon. Mr. Knott and other members of the committee confirmed the statements made by Mr. Knott. A spirited controversy took place between Messrs. Blaine and Knott on the subject of the former having communicated with Caldwell during his present sojourn in London. Mr. Knott stated that he had no evidence to provide effect, and never pretended to have any. The following is a copy of the telegram received by Mr. Knott on the 1st inst., which he furnishes for publication:

TO CHAIRMAN HOUSE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE, WASHINGTON. I have just read in New York papers Scott's evidence about our bond transaction, and can fully and honestly state that I have no recollection of Smith's Railroad bonds, directly or otherwise, in any way connected with the transaction, which makes it impossible for me to leave without the bonds, and I have no recollection of any such thing, and as to the fact that I have come home, and so forth, can make affidavit to this effect, and will do so.

Committee, the Chairman of that Committee (Knott) selected on the Sub-Committee to which these matters had been referred, the members from the South who had been in the Confederate army.

Mr. Knott here explained that the matter of that railroad investigation was referred to a sub-committee because Knott never heard Mr. Blaine's name mentioned in connection with it; he had no part in making any investigation into the matter of the railroad.

After the reading of the letters and memorandum, Mr. Blaine went on to say that he had no part in making any investigation into the matter of the railroad.
