HOUSEHOLD COLUMN.

TO CLEAN KID GLOVES. Lumps of life give the following recipe for cleaning kid gloves. Get gasoline, which can be procured at the drug stores, in a clean tin. Lay your glove in a long, flat-bottomed dish, like a common vegetable dish, and cover it with gasoline; rub soiled spots with a clean white rag, squeezing and wringing it with your hand, as dry as you can, lay it on a clean old muslin, take one corner of the muslin and rub the fingers and thumb out smooth, the soiled spots if any remain, inflate by blowing into it, then pin, on a cloth out of doors to dry. The process should be gone through with quickly, as the glove is injured by remaining in the liquid; not more than ten minutes being occupied in cleaning the pair of gloves. This will be found excellent economy.

CENTENNIAL TRAVELING SUITS. What shall we wear to the Centennial? is the query of numerous correspondents. The suit for the journey to and from Philadelphia is more especially the object of inquiry, as the dress worn in the Centennial buildings will naturally be just what the wearer would wear in Philadelphia.

TO RESTORE COLOR. When color on a fabric has been accidentally or otherwise destroyed by acid, ammonia is applied to neutralize the acid, after which an application of chloroform will, in all cases, restore the original color. The application of ammonia is common, but that of chloroform is the best known.

TO DYE COTTON YELLOW. For 5 lbs. of rags, dissolve 1 1/2 lbs. sugar of lead in hot water sufficient to cover the goods. Dissolve in cold water 12 oz. bicarbonate of potash, pour the cotton first into the lead water, rinse up and down several times, then wring out, and put into the potash water, then wring out and return to the lead water. Repeat several times, rinse in cold water.

BROWN, DRAB, AND SABLE. A lady writing The Indianapolis says: I have been reading the recipes, printed in the monthly issue of the Indianapolis, for restoring faded colors. I have tested them all, and found them all that could be desired except the brown, that is not a good recipe for restoring the dye, as stated, is just right the goods are spoiled. I have a recipe which is simple and never fails, and for which inquiry was made in your issue of the 12th inst. Take one quart of potash and two quarts of water, take five pounds goods, first rinse in warm water and then in cold water, let them stand two hours, if scalding heat; set aside until next morning, then dissolve one-half pint bicarbonate of potash in four gallons of water, and put them in this new dye, allow them to remain one hour at scalding heat, stir them and wash in cold water, and rinse thoroughly in clean, cold, soft water.
